Focusing on linkages beyond agriculture* Veena Soni, 2020-06-19

Academic Paper from the year 2020 in the subject Economics Economic Cycle and Growth language English abstract Those of us who preach the gospel of agriculture with evangelical zeal find the text compelling and convincing We are regularly possessed by the spirit only to look around and see out colleagues in other sectors in country management or even our senior management doubting yawning or subtly edging towards the door We face the implicit query If agriculture can do such great things why have they not yet happened The past decade has been one of agro pessimism The promises that agricultural development seem to hold did not materialise This pessimism seemed to coincide with pessimism about Sub Saharan Africa Especially for Sub Saharan Africa the hope was that economic development would be brought about by agricultural development After the success of the green revolution in Asia the hope was that a similar agricultural miracle would transform African economies But this hope never materialised agricultural productivity did not increase much in SSA and worse the negative effects of the green revolution in Asia became more apparent such as pesticide overuse and subsequent pollution Also in Asia the yield increases tapered off The sceptics put forward several arguments why agriculture is no longer an engine of growth For instance the liberalisation of the 1990s and greater openness to trade has lead to a reduction in the economic potential of the rural sector cheap imported Chinese plastic buckets out compete the locally produced pottery On the other hand it does mean cheaper imported supplies With rapid global technical change and increasingly integrated markets prices fall faster than yields rise So rural incomes fall despite increased productivity if they are net producers The integration of rural with urban areas means that healthy young people move out of agriculture head to town leaving behind the old the sick and the dependent It is often also the men who move to urban areas leaving women in charge of the farm This has resulted in the increased sophistication of agricultural markets and value chains which excludes traditional smallholders who are poorly equipped to meet the demanding product specifications and timeliness of delivery required by expanding supermarkets The natural resource base on which agriculture depends is poor and deteriorating

Agriculture and Economic Growth Yair Mundlak, 2000 Agriculture as a sector Factor growth and allocation Technology Static and dynamic behavior

Agricultural Development in the World Periphery Vicente Pinilla, Henry Willebald, 2018-02-06 This book brings together analysis on the conditions of agricultural sectors in countries and regions of the world's peripheries from a wide variety of international contributors The contributors to this volume proffer an understanding of the processes of agricultural transformations and their interaction with the overall economies of Africa Asia and Latin America Looking at the nineteenth and twentieth centuries the onset of modern economic growth the book studies the relationship between agriculture and other economic sectors exploring the use of resources land labour capital and the influence of institutional and technological factors in the long run performance of agricultural activities Pinilla and Willebald challenge the notion that agriculture played a negligible role in promoting economic development in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries when the impulse towards industrialization in the developing world was more impactful

Economics of Agricultural Development George W. Norton, Jeffrey Alwang, William A. Masters, 2009-12-22 The globalization of goods services and capital for agriculture is fundamental to the future of developing countries and has major implications for the fight against poverty and sustainability of the environment In recent years agriculture has once again returned to a position of centre stage as food price volatility has led countries to re-examine their development strategies This new edition of the essential textbook in the field builds on the 2006 original and reflects the following developments the increased impact of climate change issues affecting agricultural markets such as bio fuels the rise in farm prices and energy costs the move to higher valued agricultural products The book contains a wealth of real world case studies and is now accompanied by a website that includes powerpoint lectures a photo bank and a large set of discussion and exam questions The accompanying website is available to view at <http://ecagdev.agecon.vt.edu>

Agricultural Development Yūjirō Hayami, Vernon W. Ruttan, 1971 Monograph expounding an economic theory hypothesis on the role of technological change in the development process in respect of agriculture proposes an agricultural development model to explain agricultural productivity differences among countries traces the role of science and technology in agriculture in the USA and Japan and covers technology transfer and its implications for agricultural policy References and statistical tables

Sustainable Agricultural Development John M.

Antle, Srabashi Ray, 2020-02-24 This book provides a non technical accessible primer on sustainable agricultural development and its relationship to sustainable development based on three analytical pillars The first is to understand agriculture as complex physical biological human systems Second is the economic perspective of understanding tradeoffs and synergies among the economic environmental and social dimensions of these systems at farm regional and global scales Third is the understanding of these agricultural systems as the supply side of one sector of a growing economy interacting through markets and policies with other sectors at local national and global scales The first part of the book introduces the concept of sustainability and develops an analytical framework based on tradeoffs quantified using impact indicators in the economic environmental and social domains linking this framework to the role of agriculture in economic growth and development Next the authors introduce the reader to the sustainability challenges of major agroecosystems in the developing and industrialized worlds The concluding chapter discusses the design and implementation of sustainable development pathways through the expression of consumers desire for sustainably produced foods on the demand side of the food system and through policies on the supply side such as new more sustainable technologies environmental regulation and payments for ecosystem services

Agriculture and Economic Development in Europe Since 1870 Pedro Lains, Vicente Pinilla, 2008-09-11 Whilst many books on the European economy have focused on the analysis of its industrial sectors this book draws attention to the often ignored contribution made by the development of European agriculture over the past two centuries In doing so the authors adopt a revisionist perspective on the subject addressing the lack of coherent study of the agricultural sector and reassessing old theories about the links between agricultural and economic development In focusing on those countries which by 1870 still had a large agricultural sector namely France Germany Italy Denmark The Netherlands Sweden Spain Portugal Poland Hungary Greece and Turkey this book determines the role of the agricultural sector in the economic development of Europe These chapters demonstrate how the rate of development in the agricultural sector depended on specific industrial political and market conditions the diversity of ways and timings through which transformation was achieved is also considered

Agricultural Development and Economic Transformation John W. Mellor, 2017-10-17 This book examines the role of agriculture in the economic transformation of developing low and middle income countries and explores means for accelerating agricultural growth and poverty reduction In this volume Mellor measures by household class the employment impact of alternative agricultural growth rates and land tenure systems and impact on cereal consumption and food security The book provides detailed analysis of each element of agricultural modernization emphasizing the central role of government in accelerated growth in private sector dominated agriculture The book differs from the bulk of current conventional wisdom in its placement of the non poor small commercial farmer at the center of growth and explains how growth translates into poverty reduction This new book is a follow up to Mellor's classic prize winning text The Economics of Agricultural Development Listed as a Best Books of 2017 Economics by Financial Times

Introduction to Economics of Agricultural Development George W. Norton, Jeffrey R. Alwang, 1993

Subsistence Agriculture and Economic Development Clifton R. Wharton, 2017-07-28

One of the more perplexing problems of economic development is helping subsistence farmers break away from production simply for home consumption to become commercial farmers producing more and more for sale in the marketplace Although subsistence farms occupy 40 percent of the world's cultivated land and support half of mankind facts about them and programs to increase their output are scattered Subsistence Agriculture and Economic Development provides a unique overview of these difficulties and their significance to economic development It is the first book to subject subsistence agriculture to rigorous multi disciplinary examination and to bring to light new theory and empirical evidence directed toward solving the problem This volume contains original chapters by forty leading social scientists and agricultural specialists who summarize contemporary theory fact and policy on the problems of developing agriculture from subsistence to a commercial basis Each contributor speaks from one or more of the relevant standpoints of economics sociology agronomy political science anthropology and social psychology There emerges a clear meaningful picture of the subsistence farmer and the problems involved in changing his attitudes methods of production and economic and social environment Broad in scope documented with pertinent case studies and far reaching in its guidelines for future research and policy this work should be read by all concerned with increasing food production and with economic development This is an area of special concern in the uses of food products as the basis for new energy resources an issue of increasing importance in the advancing use of ethanol as a fuel drawn from corn products
