Derek Byerlee, Gary E. Alex, 1998-01-01 This report provides a brief review of recent trends and key policies in strengthening national agricultural research systems Chapters provide a brief overview of the recent evolution of national research systems and a synthesis of policy issues and good practices for developing these systems including the involvement of universities and the private sector They also focus on key policy and institutional reforms for strengthening public research institutions including funding research management and client orientation Finally they discuss implications for the World Bank in its ongoing efforts to strengthen national research systems

Opportunities, use, and transfer of systems research methods in agriculture to developing countries Goldsworthy, 2013-03-09 In December 1993 ISNAR in collaboration with International Consortium for Application of Systems Approaches organized a three day workshop on systems approaches and modelling for agricultural development Sponsored by the Dutch Ministry for Development Cooperation the workshop was attended by participants from 12 national agricultural research systems NARS nine international agricultural research centers IARCs and five advanced research organizations AROs Although application of systems approaches in agricultural research and resource management is a rather new field there is already increasing demand for implementation of these approaches This will require a critical mass of specialists in the NARS and IARCs Before this critical mass can be obtained however the experience that has been gained in this area needs to be evaluated further possibilities need to be explored and new objectives and targets need to be set This book which contains the papers presented at the workshop assesses the state of the art of systems approaches in agricultural research resource management and rural planning It also gives an impression of the evolution of this interdisciplinary field and its use in national and international research centers Another less tangible outcome of the workshop was its contribution toward strengthening the network of NARS IARCs and AROs It gave participants and organizers a chance to develop contacts and provided an opportunity to make the first proposals for collaborative programs Special thanks are due to Peter Goldsworthy and Luc Boerboom for their crucial role in making the workshop a success in this regard

Isaac Arnon,2012-12-06 Agricultural research was probably the first and is the most widespread form of organised research in the world and one in which both the most developed and underdeveloped countries are engaged Whilst most forms of research activity such as in the field of medicine have world wide application agricultural research by its very nature has to be regional practically no research finding can be adopted without studying the results of its application under the infinite number of ecological situations with which the farmers of the world are faced The improvement of agricultural production is the essential first step whereby developing countries can hope to raise their standard of living Research is therefore an activity in which no underdeveloped country can afford not to engage nor can countries in which agriculture has reached a high level of development and sophistication afford to neglect agricultural research It is not because of inertia or vested interests that highly industrialised countries maintain mostly at public expense a costly and complex infrastructure for agricultural research Even when problems of overproduction weigh heavily on the economy agricultural research is considered the essential key to further progress the objectives and goals are simply changed and adapted to the needs of the economy FAO Research and Technology Paper ,1986 Strengthening the institutional linkages between national
