Land-Cover and Land-Use Changes in Eastern Europe after the Collapse of the Soviet Union in 1991 Garik Gutman,Volker Radeloff,2016-11-14 This work analyzes the effects of one of the most dramatic changes of entire societies that the world has ever witnessed It explores the collapse of socialist governance and management systems on land cover and land use in various parts of Eastern Europe As readers will discover this involved rapid and unprecedented changes such as widespread agricultural abandonment Changes in the countries of the former Soviet block former Soviet Union republics and European Russia are compared and contrasted Contributing authors cover topics such as the carbon cycle and the environment effects of institutional changes on urban centers and agriculture as well as changes in wildlife populations The volume includes analysis of the drivers of agricultural land abandonment forest changes in Black Sea region an extreme drought event of 2010 impacts of fires on air quality and other land cover land use issues in Eastern Europe Satellite data used were mostly from optical sensors including night lights observations with both coarse and medium spatial resolution Ultimately this work highlights the importance of understanding socioeconomic shocks that is those brief periods during which societies change rapidly resulting in significant impact on land use and the environment Thus it shows that change is often abrupt rather than gradual and thereby much harder to predict This book is a truly international and interdisciplinary effort written by a team of scientists from the USA Europe and Russia It will be of interest to a broad range of scientists at all levels within natural and social sciences including those studying recent and ongoing changes in Europe In particular it will appeal to geographers environmental scientists remote sensing specialists social scientists and agricultural scientists

Incomplete State-Building in Central Asia Viktoria Akchurina, 2022-10-19 This book is about transformation of the state and an incomplete state building It defies the transitology assumption of continuity linearity and dichotomy of formal and informal in the transformation of the state Contrary to the conventional approaches it claims that any social order or its political scaffolding the state is always incomplete and we need to develop cognitive maps to better understand that incompleteness It reflects on the social practices processes and patterns that evolve as a non linear result of three sets of factors those that are historical external and elite driven Three Central Asian states Uzbekistan Tajikistan and Kyrgyzstan are examined here comparatively as case studies as Central Asia represents an interesting terrain to challenge conventional understanding of the state Specifically the book captures a paradox at hand how come three states which made different political economic cultural and social choices at the outset of their independence in the 1990s have ended up as so called weak states in the 2000s and onwards This puzzle can be better understood through looking at the relationship among three main sets of factors that shape state building processes such as history external actors and local elites This book applies an interdisciplinary approach combining political anthropology political economy sociology and political science It helps conceptualize and understand social and political order beyond the failed state paradigm

Handbook Of International Food And Agricultural Policies (In 3 Volumes) , 2017-11-28 Handbook of International Food and Agricultural Policies is a three volume set that aims to provide an accessible reference for those interested in the aims and implementation of food and farm policies throughout the world The treatment is authoritative comprehensive and forward looking The three volumes combine scholarship and pragmatism relating academic writing to real world issues faced by policy makers A companion volume looking at the future resource and climate challenges for global agriculture will be published in the future Volume I covers Farm and Rural Development policies of developed and developing countries The volume contains 20 country chapters together with a concluding comprehensive synthesis of lessons to be drawn from the experiences of the individual countries Volume II examines the experience of countries with food policies including those dealing with food safety and quality and the responsibility for food security in developing countries The chapters address issues such as obesity nutritional supplements organic foods food assistance programs biotech food acceptance and the place of private standards Volume III describes and explains the international trade dimension of farm and food policies both at the bilateral and regional level and also the multilateral rules that influence and constrain individual governments The volume also looks at the steps that countries are together taking to meet the needs of developing and low income countries The volumes are of value to students and researchers interested in economic development agricultural markets and food systems Policy makers and professionals involved in monitoring and regulating agricultural and food markets would also find the volumes useful in their practical work This three volume set is also a suitable source for the general public interested in how their food system is influenced by government policies

The Return of Private Property Lale Yalçın-Heckmann, 2010

What makes private property valuable desirable or workable This book focuses on social and economic dimensions of private property after the agrarian reforms of 1996 in Azerbaijan It looks at the kinds of land and cultivation strategies emerging in the decades after the fall of the Soviet Union and asks why rural households were often unwilling to cultivate the privatized land shares they received for free despite the threat and existence of rural poverty Consideration is given both to households which were engaging in cultivation and those which were not This includes internally displaced persons who were formally excluded from the privatization process but were nevertheless successful and eager cultivators How and why were they keen on using land How far does private property thrive on its own without the support of lucrative markets or without the implementation of state sponsored economic policies Through the lens and insights provided by economic anthropology this study chronicles the historical legacy of authoritarian state structures as well as the contemporary micro and macro economic struggles that mark a politics of property after socialism

Smith, 2017-01-27 Comparative Property Law provides a comprehensive treatment of property law from a comparative and global perspective The contributors who are leading experts in their fields cover both classical and new subjects including the transfer of property the public private divide in property law water and forest laws and the property rights of aboriginal peoples This Handbook maps the structure and the dynamics of property law in the contemporary world and will be an invaluable reference for researchers working in all domains of property law

Rural Transition in Azerbaijan Zvi

Lerman, David Sedik, 2010-02-15 In 1995-96 the President of Azerbaijan Heydar Aliyev launched a program of agrarian reforms that caused a sweeping and irreversible shift from Soviet style collective agriculture to individual farming in his country These reforms led to an impressive recovery and substantial productivity improvements in agriculture The agrarian transition in Azerbaijan contrasts with that in Russia Ukraine and Kazakhstan where land privatization has been accompanied by policies encouraging the persistence of large corporate farms and where agricultural recovery has been much less impressive. For this reason, Azerbaijan is today viewed as one of the few examples of successful land reform in the former Soviet Union. The impact of the Aliyev agrarian reforms went far beyond the recovery of agricultural production. The new policies had a significant impact on rural poverty and they were instrumental in increasing the incomes of Azerbaijan's large rural population which relies on agriculture for a substantial part of the family budget. To understand the successes and limitations of land reform, Rural Transition in Azerbaijan evaluates the record of rural reforms focusing on policy change, farm level performance and the impact of reforms on rural incomes and rural family well being issues that today are at the core of the agenda in many international organizations.

Agricultural Land Redistribution Hans P. Binswanger-Mkhize, Camille Bourguignon, Rogerius Johannes Eugenius van den Brink, 2009-01-01. Despite 250 years of land reform all over the world, important land inequalities remain, especially in Latin America and Southern Africa. While in these countries there is near consensus on the need for redistribution, much controversy persists around how to redistribute land peacefully and legally, often blocking progress on implementation. This book focuses on the how of land redistribution in order to forge greater consensus among land reform practitioners and enable them to make better choices on the mechanisms of land reform. Reviews and case studies describe and analyze the al

Crop Adaptation to Climate Change Shyam Singh Yadav, Robert J. Redden, Jerry L. Hatfield, Hermann Lotze-Campen, Anthony E. Hall, 2011-08-02. A major task of our time is to ensure adequate food supplies for the world's current population, now nearing 7 billion, in a sustainable way while protecting the vital functions and biological diversity of the global environment. The task of providing for a growing population is likely to be even more difficult in view of actual and potential changes in climatic conditions due to global warming and as the population continues to grow. Current projections suggest that the world's temperatures will rise 1.8-4.0°C by 2100 and population may reach 8 billion by the year 2025 and some 9 billion by mid-century, after which it may stabilize. This book addresses these critical issues by presenting the science needed not only to understand climate change effects on crops but also to adapt current agricultural systems, particularly in regard to genetics, to the changing conditions. Crop Adaptation to Climate Change covers a spectrum of issues related to both crops and climatic conditions. The first two sections provide a foundation on the factors involved in climate stress, assessing current climate change by region and covering crop physiological responses to these changes. The third and final section contains chapters focused on specific crops and the current research to improve their genetic adaptation to climate change. Written by an international team of authors, Crop Adaptation to Climate Change is a timely look at the potentially serious consequences of climate change for our global food supply and is an essential resource for academics, researchers and professionals in the fields of crop science, agronomy, plant physiology and molecular biology, crop consultants and breeders as well as climate and food scientists.

Policy Reform and Adjustment in the Agricultural Sectors of Developed Countries David Blandford, Berkeley Hill, 2006. This book explores the policy implications of growing pressures for economic adjustment in the agricultural sectors of developed countries It starts by describing the recent history of adjustment in the food and agricultural sector and assesses the current and future pressures for adjustments and their implications Chapters provide empirical evidence on the magnitude of future adjustment in the agricultural sector under a continuation of existing policies and analyze the factors that affect farmers ability to adjust to economic change The book concludes by identifying lessons to be learned from recent reforms and evaluating future policy options Globalizing Central Asia Marlene Laruelle, Sebastien Peyrouse, 2015-02-12 In this global era Central Asia must be understood in both geo economic and geopolitical terms The region s natural resources compel the attention of rivalrous great powers and ambitious internal factions The local regimes are caught between the need for international collaborations to valorize these riches and the need to maintain control over them in the interest of state sovereignty Russia and China dominate the horizon with other global players close behind meanwhile neighboring countries are fractious and unstable with real potential for contagion This pathbreaking introduction to Central Asia in contemporary international economic and political context answers the needs of both academic and professional audiences and is suitable for course adoption The Construction of Property Amnon Lehari, 2013-06-20 The Construction of Property identifies the structural and institutional foundations of property and explains how these features can accommodate various normative agendas Offering rich and cutting edge analysis the book studies the spectrum of property regimes including private common and public property as well as innovative forms of property hybrids such as US style residential community associations the British Private Finance Initiative the Israeli Renewing Kibbutz community land trusts and grassroots phenomena of property ordering in publicly owned open spaces It also investigates the protagonists of property beyond the individual and the state identifying the key role that community organisations and business corporations play for both the private and public aspects of property The book then addresses property s greatest challenge the move from a largely domestic legal construct into one that accommodates the increasing social and economic forces of globalisation
