Bautista,2002-01-01 This report investigates the income and equity effects of macroeconomic policy reforms in Zimbabwe emphasizing linkages between macroeconomic policies and agricultural performance and agriculture's influence on aggregate income and its distribution. Analyses focus on reform of the foreign trade regime, public expenditure and tax policy along with the potential benefits of combining these structural changes with various land reform scenarios. The study uses a CGE model that provides a policy simulation laboratory in which exogenous policy changes are analyzed for their economywide income and equity effects. The report highlights the need for policy complementarities in Zimbabwe that can contribute to equitable growth. It should be of interest not only to those concerned with recent economic developments in Zimbabwe but also to those concerned with the broader issues of macroeconomic reform and its ultimate effects.

Developing Agricultural Trade M. Hubbard, 2002-12-12 Food security is of vital importance to all nations but particularly so in developing countries. Governments worldwide are seeking to liberalize agricultural trade and to change their role from one of controlling trade and prices. Instead, these governments seek new roles in encouraging market developments, ensuring quality and providing food security by giving income assistance rather than controlling food supplies. The issue of how this process is being managed in developing countries is the focus of this book. A series of case studies including India, Sri Lanka, Ghana, Zimbabwe, Kenya and Ivory Coast highlights the individuality of approaches and the varying capability and will of governments to take on these new roles.

Aid Activities in Africa 1999-2000 OECD, 2001-07-17 Aid Activities in Africa provides detailed information on individual commitments, i.e. intended disbursements of Official Development Assistance (ODA) to African countries for the years 1999 and 2000. This publication records the commitments.
