Food Security, Agricultural Policies and Economic Growth Niek Koning, 2017-04-21 Using a political economic approach supplemented with insights from human ecology this volume analyzes the long term dynamics of food security and economic growth The book begins by discussing the nature of preindustrial food crises and the changes that have occurred since the 19th century with the ascent of technical science and the fossil fuel revolution It explains how these changes improved living standards but that the realization of this improvement was usually dependent on government support for smallholder modernization The author sets out how the evolution of food security in different regions has been influenced by farm policy choices and how these choices were shaped by local societal characteristics international relations and changing configurations in metropolitan countries Separate chapters are devoted to the interaction of this evolution with debates on food security and economic growth and with international economic policies The final chapters highlight the new challenges for global food security that will arise as traditional sources of biomass production and the more easily extractable reserves of fossil biomass become depleted or can no longer be used Overall the book emphasizes the inadequacy of current explanations with regard to these challenges It explores what is needed to ensure a sustainable future and calls for a rethinking of these issues a necessary reflection in today's unstable global political situation development economics and macroeconomics Agriculture and Economic Development in Europe Since 1870 Pedro Lains, Vicente Pinilla, 2008-09-11 This book adopts a revisionist perspective on the European economy addressing the lack of coherent study of the agricultural sector and reassessing old theories about the links between agricultural and economic development On the Causes of Economic Growth Carlos Sabillon, 2008 In a sweeping review of economic history the author presents the salient facts of booms and slowdowns in the major economies of the world in 50 year intervals and demonstrates the weakness of orthodox theories The only factor that consistently causes growth he shows is centralized support for manufacturing which spurs the creation of new technologies which lead to wealth creation Since the earliest of times human beings have endeavored to uncover the causes of prosperity Step by step Sabillon tests the principal theories on the causes of economic growth against the facts of history Here economic statistics of the world are presented in a rationalized format that allows for comparison across countries and through time with a challenge to those who study them to determine with an open mind what the statistics show and what are the trends beyond cherished theories that suit various political purposes Tested against the historical data textbook ideas and theories consistently come up short Such analyses are highly troubling because they reveal an absence of correlation between theory and reality The data statistics illustrating the development of the world economy during the last several centuries were extracted from economic history and economic history books from publications of the World Bank the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development the International Monetary Fund the World Trade Organization the United Nations specialized agencies research institutes and country statistical publications and other books and journals Analyzing the data over geography and time Sabillon concludes that contrary to contemporary wisdom left to market forces alone the economy will not and does not flourish Only decisive intervention in support of manufacturing and technological advancement can provide growth This systematic review of history and test of accepted dogma challenges economic theorists to consider one part of the equation of economic policy that has been wiped off the blackboard in today's politically correct debates The Cambridge Economic History of Modern Britain Roderick Floud, Jane Humphries, Paul Johnson, 2014-10-09 A new edition of the leading textbook on the economic history of Britain since industrialization Combining the expertise of more than thirty leading historians and economists Volume 1 tracks Britain's economic history in the period ranging from 1700 to 1870 from industrialisation to global trade and empire Each chapter provides a clear guide to the major controversies in the field and students are shown how to connect historical evidence with economic theory and apply quantitative methods New approaches are proposed to classic issues such as the causes and consequences of industrialisation the role of institutions and the state and the transition from an organic to an inorganic economy as well as introducing new issues such as globalisation convergence and divergence the role of science technology and invention and the growth of consumerism Throughout the volume British experience is set within an international context and its performance benchmarked against its global competitors World Agricultural
