Carl A. Spaatz and the Air War in Europe Richard G. Davis, 1993 Offers the first detailed review of Carl A. Spaatz as a commander Examines how the highest ranking U.S. airman in the European Theater of Operations of World War II viewed the war worked with the British and wielded the formidable air power at his disposal Identifies specifically those aspects of his leadership that proved indispensable to the Allied Victory over Nazi Germany Chapters: Carrying the Flame From West Point to London 1891-1942 Tempering the Blade The North African Campaign 1942-1943 Mediterranean Interlude From Pantelleria to London 1943 The Point of the Blade Strategic Bombing and the Cross Channel Invasion 1944 and The Mortal Blow From Normandy to Berlin 1944-1945 Maps, charts and black and white photos

The Air War, 1939-1945 Richard J. Overy, 2020-11-24 The Air War 1939-1945 was first written in the late 1970s when there was very little academic interest in the history of air power What there was focused largely on combat The book was intended to provide a global history of the air war by looking at combat but also the broader context of technology, production, intelligence and leadership The book sought to address the question of why the Allies in the end won decisively the war in the air and concluded that Axis air forces were too tied to a narrow conception of air power attached to surface forces rather than air power exercised in a broader framework of air defense, logistics, strategic bombing and technological development The book has been assigned reading in military and air force academies for the past forty years The Air War 1939-1945 immediately and permanently altered the way that historians have examined the nature of aerial warfare during World War II Overy's ingenious examination of the global nature of planning, building, deploying and utilizing air forces remains the finest overall study of the topic more than a quarter century after its first publication conclusions drawn in this work are even today an integral part of U.S. Air Force doctrine
