organized around the three relationships in which questions of deference arise public private relationships in which a State actor e g a court must decide whether it should pay deference to determinations made by a private actor e g a tribunal or an arbitral institution public public relationships in which a State actor e g a court at the place of recognition and enforcement must decide whether it should pay deference to another State actor e g a court at the seat and private private relationships in which a private actor e g an arbitral tribunal must decide whether it should pay deference to another private actor e g another arbitral tribunal or an arbitral institution The book makes an important contribution to tracing the boundaries of the multiple layers of control over arbitration proceedings It takes a giant step towards establishing the right equilibrium between the different layers of authority and thus meeting a pivotal challenge for the viability of arbitration as a form of dispute resolution
