South Pacific Museums Experiments in Culture is a collection of outstanding analyses of museums in the South Pacific written by cultural museum and architectural critics and historians A series of snapshots introduce the reader to key museums in the region and longer essays explore these museums in broad terms Over the last 50 years museums have been regarded by many scholars and cultural critics as archaic institutions far from the cutting edge of cultural innovation This judgement is being proved wrong across the globe with innovative museums staking out new territory Nowhere is this more striking than in the South Pacific where new and redeveloped institutions have included the Museum of New Zealand Te Papa Tongarewa the National Museum of Australia the Melbourne Museum the Australian Centre for the Moving Image the Museum of Sydney the Gab Titui Cultural Centre in the Torres Strait the Auckland Museum the Centre Culturel Tjibaou and the Vanuatu Cultural Centre South Pacific Museums make sense of these museums as part of the complex field of heritage where national economies meet global tourism cities brand themselves and indigeneity articulates with colonialism The effect is one of cultural experimentation Part One New Museums introduces three different museums in distinctive national contexts Te Papa the Centre Culturel Tjibaou and the National Museum of Australia Essays in this part grapple with the role of these museums in the nation at particular historical moments under specific political pressures Part Two New Knowledges documents practices and exhibitions at the point of tension between indigenous and non indigenous interests in the museum Part three New Experiences explores the ways in which museums in the South Pacific are producing that ineffable cultural phenomenon experience The Art of Copying Art Penelope Jackson, 2022-08-26 This book is a study of the history role and significance of copying art Copies have enjoyed a different status from authentic artworks and though often acknowledged very rarely have they been considered collectively as a genre in their own right This volume showcases a variety of examples from copies of famous artworks made and used as props in movies to those made innocently by student artists as part of their training Examining the motivations for making copies and reflecting on the reception of copies is central to this book Copies have historically filled voids in collections where some sadly languish and have become a curatorial burden In other cases having a copy assists in conservation projects and fills the place of a lost work Ultimately by interrogating a copy s role and intent we might ask ourselves if viewing a copy changes our experience and perception of an artwork Discovering Cook's Collections Michelle Hetherington, 2009 Discovering Cook s Collections focuses on the collections of art and material culture brought back from the Pacific on Captain Cook s voyages and contains essays by some of the world s leading and most innovative historians and anthropologists The book celebrates the richness of Pacific Island cultures in the initial years of European contact as well as the collections contemporary relevance to historians and the Indigenous communities who produced them The essays in this book explore the history of the collections their dispersal through the museums and private collections of Europe and t

Museums and empire John M. MacKenzie, 2017-03-01 Museums and Empire is the first book to examine the origins and development of museums in six major regions of the British Empire in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. It analyses museum histories in thirteen major centres in Canada, South Africa, Australia, New Zealand, India and South East Asia, setting them into the economic and social contexts of the cities and colonies in which they were located. Written in a lively and informative style, it also touches upon the history of many other museums in Britain and other territories of the Empire. A number of key themes emerge from its pages: the development of elites within colonial towns and cities; the emergence of the full range of cultural institutions associated with this; and the reception and modification of the key scientific ideas of the age. It will be essential reading for students and academics concerned with museum studies and imperial history, and to a wider public devoted to the cause of museums and heritage.

Exhibiting Maori Conal McCarthy, 2024-11-01 This richly illustrated book presents a comprehensive assessment of the display of Maori culture from the nineteenth century to today. In doing so, Exhibiting Maori traces the long journey from curio to specimen, artefact, art and taonga treasure. Drawing on extensive and groundbreaking research, Exhibiting Maori reveals for the first time the remarkable story of Maori resistance to involvement in, and eventual capture of, the display of their culture. Ranging across museums, world fairs, fine art and tourism, Exhibiting Maori fuses museum studies, anthropology and visual and material culture to uncover a history of active Maori engagement with the colonial culture of display.

Cultural Property and Contested Ownership Brigitta Hauser-Schäublin, Lyndel V. Prott, 2016-06-10 Against the backdrop of international conventions and their implementation, Cultural Property and Contested Ownership explores how highly valued cultural goods are traded and negotiated among diverging parties and their interests. Cultural artefacts such as those kept and trafficked between art dealers, private collectors and museums have become increasingly localized in a Bermuda triangle of colonialism, looting and the black market, with their re-emergence resulting in disputes of ownership and claims for return. This interdisciplinary volume provides the first book-length investigation of the changing behaviours resulting from the effect of the 1970 UNESCO Convention on the Means of Prohibiting and Preventing the Illicit Import, Export and Transfer of Ownership of Cultural Property. The collection considers the impact of the Convention on the way antiquity dealers, museums and auction houses, as well as nation states and local communities, address issues of provenance, contested ownership and the trafficking of cultural property. The book contains a range of contributions from anthropologists, lawyers, historians and archaeologists. Individual cases are examined from a bottom-up perspective and assessed from the viewpoint of international law in the Epilogue. Each section is contextualised by an introductory chapter from the editors.

Galleries of Maoriland Roger Blackley, 2018-10-18 Galleries of Maoriland introduces us to the many ways in which European colonists to New Zealand, called Pakeha by the indigenous Maori, discovered, created, propagated and romanticised the Maori world at the turn of the century, summed up in a popular nickname describing New Zealand: Maoriland. It could be seen in the Maori portrait paintings of Gottfried Lindauer and Charles F Goldie among artists patrons collectors and audiences inside the Polynesian Society and the Dominion Museum among stolen artefacts and fantastical accounts of the Maori past The culture of Maoriland was a Pakeha creation But Galleries of Maoriland shows that Maori were not merely passive victims they too had a stake in this process of romanticisation What this book asks were some of the Maori purposes that were served by curio displays portrait collections and the wider ethnological culture Why did the idealisation of an ancient Maori world which obsessed ethnological inquirers and artists alike appeal also to Maori Who precisely were the Maori participants in this culture and what were their motives Galleries of Maoriland looks at Maori prehistory in Pakeha art the enthusiasm of Pakeha and Maori for portraiture and recreations of ancient life the trade in Maori curios and the international exhibition of this colonial culture By illuminating New Zealand s artistic and ethnographic economy at the turn of the twentieth century this book provides a new understanding of our art and our culture
