were spurred by increased availability and consumption of television which joined radio film and magazines as major influence on youth Later the rapid growth of the video game industry and the internet contributed to the encompassing presence of the media Today opportunities for youthful expression about to the point where adolescents can easily create and disseminate content with little control by traditional media gatekeepers In The Changing Portrayals of Adolescents in the Media since 1950 leading scholars analyze the emergence of youth culture in music and powerful trends in gender and ethnic racial representation sexuality substance use violence and suicide portrayed in the media This book illuminates the evolution of teen portrayal the potential consequences of these changes and the ways policy makers and parents can respond Moss Side, Manchester 1950S/1960S Alan Williams,2019-03-16 This book describes the struggles that were endured by our family arriving in the late 1950s and not knowing Manchester but immediately falling in love with Moss Side cooperation and free markets Today that consensus has shattered replaced by a new economic nationalism of industrial policy tariffs and various methods of state support for the economy Can this new approach deliver stability national security and prosperity This book examines case studies revealing a decidedly mixed record In some instances economic nationalist policies have fostered growth and declining unemployment though accompanied by fiscal costs and inefficiency In much of the developing world however economic nationalist policies have produced corruption debt burdens inflation and ultimately stagnation By examining the past The New Economic Nationalism provides a roadmap to an uncertain future

The Logic of Social Science James Mahoney, 2021-08-17 Mahoney's starting point is the problem of essentialism in social science Essentialism the belief that the members of a category possess hidden properties essences that make them members of the category and that endow them with a certain nature is appropriate for scientific categories atoms for instance but not for human ones revolutions for instance Despite this much social science research takes place from within an essentialist orientation those who reject this assumption goes so far in the other direction as to reject the idea of an external reality independent of human beings altogether Mahoney proposes an alternative approach that aspires to bridge this enduring rift in the social sciences between those who take a scientific approach and assume that social science categories correspond to external reality and thus believe that the methods used in the natural sciences are generally appropriate for the social sciences and those who take a constructivist approach and believe that because the categories used to understand the social world are humanly constructed they cannot possibly follow the science of the natural world As the name suggests scientific constructivism brings in aspects of both views and attempts to unite them Drawing from cognitive science it focuses on using the rational parts of our brain machinery to overcome the limitations and deeply seated biases such as essentialism of our evolved minds Specifically Mahoney puts forth a set theoretic analysis that focuses on sets of categories as they exist in the mind that are also subject to the mathematical logic of set theory He spends the first four chapters of the book establishing the foundations and methods for set theoretic analysis the next four chapters looking and how this analysis fits with the existing tools of social science and the final four chapters focusing on how this approach can be used to study and understand cases

you begin to look for it you realize it is everywhere Why We all know the answer or think we do there is an autism epidemic And if it is an epidemic then we know what must be done lots of money must be thrown at it detection centers must be established and explanations sought so that the number of new cases can be brought down and the epidemic brought under control But can it really be so simple This major new book offers a very different interpretation The authors argue that the recent rise in autism should be understood an aftershock of the real earthquake which was the deinstitutionalization of mental retardation in the mid 1970s This entailed a radical transformation not only of the institutional matrix for dealing with developmental disorders of childhood but also of the cultural lens through which we view them It opened up a space for viewing and treating childhood disorders as neither mental illness nor mental retardation neither curable nor incurable but somewhere in between The authors show that where deinstitutionalization went the furthest as in Scandinavia UK and the blue states of the US autism rates are also highest Where it was absent or delayed as in France autism rates are low Combining a historical narrative with international comparison The Autism Matrix offers a fresh and powerful analysis of a condition that affects many parents and children today Negotiating the Life Course Ann Evans,Janeen

Baxter,2012-10-23 Pathways through the life course have changed considerably in recent decades Many of our assumptions about leaving home starting new relationships and having children have been turned upside down It is now almost as common to have children prior to marriage as afterwards and certainly much more common to live together before marrying than to marry without first living together Women are more likely to remain in the labour force after having children and many families struggle with problems of work family balance at some stage in their lives particularly when they have young children But how much has really changed Is there really more diversity in how individuals transition through these life course stages or just variations at the margin with most people following a standard work and family life course This volume makes use of rich longitudinal data from a unique Australian project to examine these issues Drawing on broader theories of social change and demographic transitions in an international context each chapter provides a detailed empirical assessment of the ways in which Australian adults negotiate their work and family lives In doing so the volume provides important insight into the ways in which recent demographic social and economic changes both challenge and reproduce gender divisions

From County Hospital to NHS Trust Katherine A. Webb,2002 The 1950s and 1960s Anne Rooney,2009 A look at fashions of the 1950s and 1960s with suggestions for costume designers to follow to get a specific style look Coastal Architectures and Politics of Tourism Sibel Bozdoğan,Panayiota Pyla,Petros Phokaides,2022-07-29 This volume offers a critical and complicated picture of how leisure tourism connected the world after the World War II transforming coastal lands traditional societies and national economies in new ways The 21 chapters in this book analyze selected case studies of architectures and landscapes around the world contextualizing them within economic geographies of national development the geopolitics of the Cold War the legacies of colonialism and the international dynamics of decolonization Postwar leisure tourism evokes a rich array of architectural spaces and altered coastal landscapes which is explored in this collection through discussions of tourism developments in the Mediterranean littoral such as Greece Turkey and southern France as well as compelling analyses of Soviet bloc seaside resorts along the Black Sea and Baltic coasts and in beachscapes and tourism architectures of western and eastern hemispheres from Southern California to Sri Lanka South Korea and Egypt This collection makes a compelling argument that leisurescapes far from being supra ideological and apolitical spatial expressions of modernization development and progress have often concealed histories of conflict violence social inequalities and environmental degradation It will be of interest to architectural and urban historians architects and planners as well as urban geographers economic and environmental historians
