

DIRECTORY OF N. IRELAND POLITICAL PERIODICALS

THE NORTHERN Ireland problem has spawned an awesome volume of books, pamphlets, reports, theses and periodicals. The demand for information this reflects is nowhere more apparent than in the field of political newspapers and magazines.

The Linen Hall Library has, since 1968, been collecting copies of all printed material pertinent to the current 'Troubles'. The Library's collection of periodicals alone contains over 700 titles; some may have lasted for only a few issues and others have run to several hundred. The following list has been compiled by the librarian in charge of the collection, ROBERT BELL.

All these magazines and newspapers were, to the best of our knowledge, still operating at the beginning of 1985 and have therefore been taken as current. Included are: any Northern Ireland periodical (excluding the commercial press) which regularly addresses the political situation here; any Irish political magazine or newspaper and any British and foreign periodical which is published specifically about the current Irish 'Troubles'.

BECAUSE of its independent charitable status, the Linen Hall Library is in an ideal position to collect material from every source. The Library maintains a policy of strict impartiality in this and believes that it is essential that as complete a record as possible is preserved both for posterity and for current research. Equally important perhaps is that this collection is open to those members of the general public who may simply want to further their understanding of the political situation.

By the same token, the Library's criterion for collecting this material is without bias and can be simply stated; if an item pertains to the current political situation in Northern Ireland, it will be added to the collection. If the reader is aware of any current political periodical which does not appear in this directory, he/she should notify Robert Bell, Northern Ireland Political Ephemera Collection, Linen Hall Library, 17 Donegall Square North, Belfast BT1 5GD.
