Creating Ethnicity The Process Of Ethnogenesis:

Creating Ethnicity Eugeen Roosens, 1989-11 Creating Ethnicity raises the important question of what is ethnic Using case studies from Canada Zaire Belgium and Bolivia Roosens shows that ethnicity does not always stem from ancient tradition but can be shaped modified recreated or even manufactured in modern society The author largely focuses on the Huron Indians of Quebec an ethnic group that had all but disappeared but which manufactured an ethnic tradition almost from scratch in the midst of a modern industrialized nation They are contrasted with other ethnic groups in other countries whose paths to ethnic identity were very different Finally Roosens examines a contemporary European city Brussels and shows how various ethnic minorities preserved shaped an

The Indian Southwest, 1580-1830 Gary Clayton Anderson, 1999 In The Indian Southwest 1580-1830 Gary Clayton Anderson argues that in the face of European conquest and severe droughts that reduced their food sources Indians in the Southwest proved remarkably adaptable and dynamic

American Indian Ethnic Renewal Joane Nagel, 1997-09-25 Does activism matter This book answers with a clear yes American Indian Ethnic Renewal traces the growth of the American Indian population over the past forty years when the number of Native Americans grew from fewer than one half million in 1950 to nearly 2 million in 1990 This quadrupling of the American Indian population cannot be explained by rising birth rates declining death rates or immigration Instead the growth in the number of American Indians is the result of an increased willingness of Americans to identify themselves as Indians What is driving this increased ethnic identification In American Indian Ethnic Renewal Joane Nagel identifies several historical forces which have converged to create an urban Indian population base a reservation and urban Indian organizational infrastructure and a broad cultural climate of ethnic pride and militancy Central among these forces was federal Indian Termination policy which ironically was designed to assimilate and de tribalize Native America Reactions against Termination were nurtured by the Civil Rights era atmosphere of ethnic pride to become a central focus of the native rights activist movement known as Red Power This resurgence of American Indian ethnic pride inspired increased Indian ethnic identification launched a renaissance in American Indian culture language art and spirituality and eventually contributed to the replacement of Termination with new federal policies affirming tribal Self Determination American Indian Ethnic Renewal offers a general theory of ethnic resurgence which stresses both structure and agency the role of politics and the importance of collective and individual action in understanding how ethnic groups revitalize and reinvent themselves Scholars and students of American Indians social movements and activism and recent United States history as well as the general reader interested in Native American life will all find this an engaging and informative work

Making Sense of Collectivity Sinisa

Malesevic, Mark Haugaard, 2002-09-20 The collapse of the Cold War the development of new technologies and the globalisation of the world economy have all had a dramatic impact on societies across the globe Migration new types of wars and changing borders mean that even the stability and security of nation states has become a thing of the past New nationalisms new social movements and the resurgence of identity politics all indicate that we are entering a new era where the very notion of collective identity through nation states or through transnational identity culture is challenged This volume examines concepts of collective identity how they are changing and what this means for our future With contributions from distinguished sociologists including Jenkins Eisenstadt Rex Bauman and Hall it gives a radical new overview of collectivity theory a topic that lies at the heart of sociology anthropology and political science Indians in the Making Alexandra Harmon, 2000-09 A compelling survey history of Pacific Northwest Indians as well as a book that brings considerable theoretical sophistication to Native American history Harmon tells an absorbing clearly written and moving story Peggy Pascoe University of Oregon This book fills a terribly important niche in the wider field of ethnic studies by attempting to define Indian identity in an interactive way George Sanchez University of Southern California The Anthropology of Ethnicity Hans Vermeulen, Cora Govers, 1994 The Netherlandic Presence in Ontario Frans J. Schryer, 2006-01-01 Schryer's central argument is that ethnic groups are as much modern myths as they are integral components of a socially constructed reality Focusing on the large cohort of immigrants from the Netherlands and the former Dutch East Indies who arrived in Canada between 1947 and 1960 Schryer shows how the Dutch despite a loss of ethnic identity and a high level of linguistic assimilation replicated many aspects of their homeland While illustrating and illuminating the diversity among immigrants sharing a common national origin Schryer keeps sight of what is common among them In doing so he shows how deeply ingrained habits were modified in a Canadian context resulting in both continuities and discontinuities The result is a variegated image reflecting a multidimensional reality Handbook of Constructionist Research James A. Holstein, Jaber F. Gubrium, 2008-01-01 Constructionism has become one of the most popular research approaches in the social sciences But until now little attention has been given to the conceptual and methodological underpinnings of the constructionist stance and the remarkable diversity within the field This cutting edge handbook brings together a dazzling array of scholars to review the foundations of constructionist research how it is put into practice in multiple disciplines and where it may be headed in the future The volume critically examines the analytic frameworks strategies of inquiry and methodological choices that together form the mosaic of contemporary constructionism making it an authoritative reference for anyone interested in conducting research in a constructionist vein Without Guarantees Stuart Hall, 2000-08-17 Stuart Hall's retirement from the Open University in 1997 provided a unique opportunity to reflect on an academic career which has had the most profound impact on scholarship and teaching in many parts of the world From his early work on the media through his influential re working of Gramsci for the analysis of Britain in the late 1970s through his considered debates on Thatcherism and more recently on race and new ethnicities Hall has been an inspirational figure for generations of academics He has helped to make universities places where ideas and social commitment can exist alongside each other This collection invites a wide range of academics who have been influenced by Stuart Hall's writing to contribute not a memoir or a eulogy but an engaged piece of social cultural or historical analysis which continues and develops the field of thinking opened up by Hall The topics covered include identity and hybridity history and post colonialism pedagogy and cultural politics space and place globalization and economy modernity and difference

The Congo Wars Doctor Thomas Turner, 2010-01-01 Since 1996 war has raged in the Congo while the world has looked away Waves of armed conflict and atrocities against civilians have resulted in over three million casualties making this one of the bloodiest yet least understood conflicts of recent times In The Congo Wars Thomas Turner provides the first in depth analysis of what happened The book describes a resource rich region suffering from years of deprivation and still profoundly affected by the shockwaves of the Rwandan genocide Turner looks at successive misguided and self interested interventions by other African powers including Uganda Angola Zimbabwe and Namibia as well as the impotence of United Nations troops Cutting through the historical myths so often used to understand the devastation Turner indicates the changes required of Congolese leaders neighbouring African states and the international community to bring about lasting peace and security

Cultural Identity in the Roman Empire Dr Joanne Berry, Joanne Berry, Ray Laurence, 2002-09-11 This provocative and often controversial volume examines concepts of ethnicity citizenship and nationhood to determine what constituted cultural identity in the Roman Empire The contributors draw together the most recent research and use diverse theoretical and methodological perspectives from archaeology classical studies and ancient history to challenge our basic assumptions of Romanization and how parts of Europe became incorporated into a Roman culture Cultural Identity in the Roman Empire breaks new ground arguing that the idea of a unified and easily defined Roman culture is over simplistic and offering alternative theories and models This well documented and timely book presents cultural identity throughout the Roman empire as a complex and diverse issue far removed from the previous notion of a dichotomy between the Roman invaders and the Barbarian conquered

Uniting the Tribes Frank Rzeczkowski, 2012-05-17 Native American reservations on the Northern Plains were designed like islands intended to prevent contact or communication between various Native peoples For this reason they seem unlikely sources for a sense of pan Indian community in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries But as Frank Rzeczkowski shows the flexible nature of tribalism as it already existed on the Plains subverted these goals and enabled the emergence of a collective Indian identity even amidst the restrictiveness of reservation life Rather than dividing people tribalism on the Northern Plains actually served to bring Indians of diverse origins together Tracing the development of pan Indian identity among once warring peoples Rzeczkowski seeks to shift scholars attention from cities and boarding schools to the reservations themselves Mining letters oral histories and official documents including the testimony of native leaders like Plenty Coups and Young Man Afraid of His Horses he examines Indian communities on the Northern Plains from 1800 to 1925 Focusing on the Crow he unravels the intricate connections that linked them to neighboring peoples and examines how they reshaped their understandings of themselves and each other in response to the steady encroachment of American colonialism Rzeczkowski examines Crow interactions with the Blackfeet and Lakota prior to the 1880s then reveals the continued vitality of intertribal contact and the covert and sometimes overt political dimensions of visiting between Crows and others during the reservation era He finds the community that existed on the Crow Reservation at the beginning of the twentieth century to be more deeply diverse and heterogeneous than those often described in tribal histories a multiethnic community including not just Crows of mixed descent who preserved their ties with other tribes but also other Indians who found at Crow a comfortable environment or a place of refuge This inclusiveness prevailed until tribal leaders and OIA officials tightened the rules on who could live at or be considered Crow Reflecting the latest trends in scholarship on Native Americans Rzeczkowski brings nuance to the concept of tribalism as long understood by scholars showing that this fluidity among the tribes continued into the early years of the reservation system Uniting the Tribes is a groundbreaking work that will change the way we understand tribal development early reservation life and pan Indian identity
