CRC Handbook of Nutritional Requirements in a Functional Context: Hematopoiesis, metabolic function, and resistance to physical stress, 1981 Feedstuff Evaluation Julian Wiseman, D.J.A. Cole, 2013-10-22 Feedstuff Evaluation contains the proceedings of the 50th University of Nottingham Easter School in Agricultural Sciences held at Sutton Bonington in July 1989 The book presents papers discussing a wide range of topics on the accurate evaluation of feedstuffs for livestock Initially systems of expressing the nutritive value of feeds are considered Modifications to feeding value as influenced by animal factors including intake and palatability are discussed Specific dietary ingredients being plant polysaccharides fats minerals and vitamins are detailed Prediction of the nutritive value of compound feeds and individual feeds through classical wet chemistry and the more recent NIR is assuming considerable importance in the rapid evaluation of diets Associated with these developments is an appreciation of the relevance of both inter and intra laboratory variation in determinations Finally the need to collate information into an interactive data base is being actively pursued It is evident that safety of animal feeds is becoming an increasingly topical issue and the last session considered the relevance of naturally occurring toxic factors residues mycotoxins and finally animal pathogens Veterinarians farmers farm administrators and those involved in every aspect of nutrient supply to animals will find the compendium very insightful and informative supplements for human use while the second volume is devoted to agriculture supplements. This volume relating to food supplements for human use is organized on the basis of raw materials utilized in their production as well as on the basis of target groups for which they are intended. In the last decade an increased concern has been voiced against various environmental hazards particularly chemicals that may cause harm to humans or animals. Numerous studies which have dealt with this subject invariably have focused on chemical contaminants of some component of a food chain. In contrast much less attention has been paid to the potentially harmful substances that may occur in foodstuffs naturally. The purpose of this Handbook is to sensitize the reader to this problem and to provide a systematic overview of the most important naturally occurring food toxicants. The Handbook should be of interest to anybody who is concerned with nutritive and health aspects of food. Inasmuch as many of the discussed toxicants can be removed or destroyed by a suitable method of food processing it should be of special value to food technologists.

Handbook of Nutritional Requirements in a Functional Context Miloslav Rechcigl, 2018-01-18. The purpose of this Handbook is to bring together all the available information on the nutritional requirements of animal organisms for specific processes and functions. This is believed to be the first systematic treatment of nutrition in a functional context. Apart from furnishing specific nutritional data this Handbook provides a useful framework for a comparative physiologist or biochemist searching for commonality or differences among various biological systems. Handbook of Agricultural Productivity

Miloslav Rechcigl, 2018-01-18. The greatest challenge of our time is to produce sufficient food to keep pace with the rapidly growing population. In the opinion of experts during the next 25 years there will be a need for as much food as was produced in the entire history of mankind to date. Of the various measures available improvement in agricultural productivity is judged as the ultimate means of augmenting food production and supplies. In this Handbook an international team of experts consider the most important factors affecting production of both crops and livestock. This Handbook is intended as a scientific guide to practitioners and students as well as to researchers who should find here stimulating ideas for further exploration.
