Creating An Internationally Competitive Economy:

Creating an Internationally Competitive Economy Harry Bloch, 2001-02-20 This book contains a set of essays by eminent international scholars from Australia New Zealand the U K and the U S It addresses the issues of globalisation and international competitiveness and includes discussions of market power competition policy and the effects of foreign trade globalisation and the labour market The contributors also examine economic integration and regional policy cooperation trade and communications economic growth including export led growth and foreign direct investment in developing countries and the diffusion of technology Competitiveness in Small Developing Economies Alvin G. Wint, 2003 Possibly no group is more conscious of the challenges created by the increasing integration of markets for capital labour products and information than small developing economies Policy makers from these economies have sought a two track response to this integration One response lies in increasing lobbying efforts for these economies to be accorded special or more equitable treatment in market integration discussions The second response lies in improving the competitiveness of their economies It is this second response that provides the subject matter for this book It explores the challenges and opportunities associated increasing competitiveness in small developing economies based on research conducted in the Caribbean The topics covered indicate the breadth of activity that is required to enhance competitiveness At the macro policy level the book explores the key drivers of competitiveness examines the role of exchange rate regimes and of government policy considers the implications sovereignty and assesses the extent to which competitiveness likely to be improved by attracting foreign direct investment The Influence of National Competition Policy on the International Competitiveness of Nations Andreas Mitschke, 2008-05-05 Does every open economy profit from economic globalization Why do some countries profit more than others What role does national economic policy play with regard to a nation s potential to profit from economic globalization Is there a need for an international harmonization of economic policy in order to protect global competition and to prevent international conflicts or to the contrary is national economic policy a crucial and indispensable instrument for fostering the international competitiveness of an economy These questions were the starting point for a research project of the Department of Economics at the University of Nuremberg in 2003 The intention was to take a fresh look at the various harmonization claims which have been raised both in economic literature and by politicians As politicians in general simultaneously also strive for enhancing the international competitiveness of their nation the project aimed at the relation between harmonization claims on the one hand and the competitiveness debate on the other The decision to set the focus of this project on the role of competition policy has been triggered against the background of the ongoing debate on international competition rules In October 2001 the International Competition Network ICN has been established in New York Furthermore the Doha Ministerial Declaration of November 2001 envisaged WTO negotiations on international competition rules Competition and Efficiency in International Food Supply Chains John Williams, 2012-07-26 Why have food crises seemingly become more frequent in recent years compared to the last few decades This book examines an array of different issues and distortions that are causing food supply chain dysfunction in many countries particularly for staple non perishable foods such as grains oilseeds pulses and sugar It outlines the underlying changes that are currently occurring which will have an influence on the direction of future food supply chains and provides some solutions to current food security problems Based on an analysis of total regulation in the 1950s 60s through to deregulation during the 1980 90s as well as post deregulation it focuses on liberal trade and deregulation as a more successful solution to creating efficiencies in food supply chains and distribution The author highlights a common thread of either farmers using government for vested interest intervention or autocratic governments seeking market and supply chain power The book examines the role of government after 70 years of food supply chain intervention It discusses the role of commercial trade markets and cluster industries and how these can quickly disintegrate when price distortions occur The author studies both food importing and exporting countries and concludes that comingled commoditization of food has led to increased hoarding corruption and dependence on food aid He argues that a competitive food supply chain that has minimum intervention is more likely to provide future food security In conclusion the book emphasizes that adequate rewards competition and striving for supply chain efficiencies are the essences of sustainable food security Management Strategies that Make U.S. Firms Competitive in the Global Economy Ted Reingold, 2021-11-18 First Published in 1998 Between the years 1981 1992 U S companies were forced to compete in a global economy This book identifies U S industries and companies that were competitive during that period and highlights the management strategies and practices they used to compete successfully in the international marketplace The basis for the results in this book came from the utilization of United Nations data available in its International Trade Statistics Yearbooks 1980 1994

Singham,2025-08-18 The barriers between the voluntary exchange of willing buyers and willing sellers have progressively been reduced through trade liberalisation competition and better property rights protection However the world has done significantly less well in reducing barriers involving competition and property rights This book analyses how the economic prosperity which was promised has been undermined by these Anti Competitive Market Distortions which damage international trade as well as domestic conditions of competition and ultimately GDP per capita This book first describes the nature of the Anti Competitive Market Distortions problem and how it has impacted countries since the 1990s It also highlights a gap in policymaking detailing how Anti Competitive Market Distortions have existed in an ungoverned space in both international trade and competition theory The book also explores the various models of the impact of Anti Competitive Market Distortions including the original econometric model to measure the quantum of distortion and three new variations on this as well as an agency based Model Finally drawing on techniques from probabilistic methods and quantum mechanics the book examines the possibility of a probabilistic model to assess the real impact of Anti Competitive Market Distortions on GDP per capita growth around the world in a far more dynamic and real time sense than has been possible thus far This book will be invaluable to academics and students of trade competition and international relations in both the legal and economic disciplines

Finance and Competitiveness in Developing Countries José María Fanelli,Rohinton Medhora,2002 Using detailed trade and firm level financial data the authors demonstrate for example that while links between finance and competitiveness are strong they are not uniform across sectors and countries This book examines the link between finance and competitiveness at the macro and sectoral levels in seven different countries Argentina Brazil India Indonesia the Philippines South Africa and Tunisia and investigates key international issues such as the evidence of the impact of exchange rate variability on trade patterns in bank lending and trade openness and development

From an Ethic of Sufficiency to its Policy and Practice in Late Capitalism Manu V. Mathai,Sylvia Lorek,Wolfgang Sachs,2023-12-13 That the notion of sufficiency is essential for a good life is an idea that enjoys support across many ethical philosophical religious and cultural persuasions This notion reasserted itself in the study of sustainability once modern society reluctantly took cognizance of the limited low entropy energy and matter available for human appropriation There is today therefore a general recognition of i e not necessarily wide agreement on the merits of or needs for notions of sufficiency as a species of environmentalism within secular communities In this context a critical question that invites our attention is how to effect sufficiency and in particular of dealing with the daunting challenge of injustice as well as questions of distribution within and between countries that it brings to attention Given sufficiency s original home as it were in tradition the modern world has tended to dismiss it or to plead to individual voluntary simplicity when faced with evidence asserting its necessity Sufficiency is also often written away as a spiritual problem The domain of ascetics and the religious How to habilitate sufficiency in a political economy for the secular modern facing its biggest existential challenge yet in the form of the environmental crisis

Competition Law in Developing Countries Thomas K. Cheng,2020 This book explores the contribution of competition to economic growth by way of both theoretical analysis of established growth models and empirical evidence

Making Policy for the New Information Economy Krishna Prasad Jayakar,Chun Liu,2023-09-10 This volume is a theoretically informed comparative analysis of the telecommunications and information policy making process in two major developing economies China and India With a focus on how policies are made rather than what those policies are the book investigates how policy actors interact within institutional structures to define policy problems and identify potential solutions The authors explain the evolution of these policy making systems as the two countries liberalized their economies and opened their media and telecommunications systems to competition over the past two and a half decades With applications in numerous international contexts this book will be of interest to scholars and practitioners in public policy studies telecommunications business development economics political science Asian studies and public administration

Creating a New Vision for the Economic Development Administration United States. Congress. House. Committee on Public Works and Transportation. Subcommittee on Economic Development,1995 Distributed to some depository libraries in microfiche

A green economy Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Environmental Audit Committee,2012-05-21 The Government has pledged to reduce over 10 000 pages of regulatory guidance following its Red Tape Challenge to help businesses comply with environmental laws But the MPs point out that regulations have an important role in safeguarding our health and the environment The Government s strategy to create a green economy Enabling the Transition to a Green Economy is too focused on voluntary action and fails to set a clear trajectory or any time bound milestones for businesses to achieve There is concern that introducing mandatory emissions reporting for big business has been delayed and Ministers are urged not to go back on their promise to do so The recent financial crisis has demonstrated the clear risks from such a market led approach particularly when markets do not reflect the value of the services provided by nature such as clean fresh water pollination of crops etc This report urges the Government to develop minimum sustainability standards set out how data on natural capital in the National Accounts will be used develop targets for improving the state of the environment and establish transparent reporting against such targets and use the Natural Capital Committee s work on a natural asset stock check as one of the basket of indicators used to measure the green economy The Government should fully incorporate the principles of Enabling the Transition into future revisions of the Plan for Growth Expenditure involved in making the transition to a green economy should be seen as an investment not simply a cost
