Housing, Urban Renewal and Socio-Spatial Integration Xiaoxi Hui, 2013-02-07 This issue of A BE addresses two critical urban issues China faces today housing and urban renewal In the recent two decades the Chinese urban housing stock underwent a significant if not extreme transformation From 1949 to 1998 the urban housing stock in China largely depended on the public sector and a large amount of public housing areas were developed under the socialistic public housing system in Beijing and other Chinese cities Yet in 1998 a radical housing reform stopped this housing system Thus most of the public housing stock was privatized and the urban housing provision was conferred to the market The radical housing privatization and marketization did not really resolve but intensified the housing problem Along with the high speed urbanization the alienated capitalized and speculative housing stock caused a series of social and spatial problems The Chinese government therefore attempted to reestablish the social housing system in 2007 However the unbalanced structure of the Chinese urban housing stock has not been considerably optimized and the housing problem is still one of the most critical challenges in China

Creative Social Research Ananta Kumar Giri, 2004-01-01 Calling for a reconceptualization and transformation of contemporary research methods in the social sciences Giri Madras Institute of Development Studies collects work by international scholars from a variety of disciplines and geographies to establish the ways in which contemporary global developments and the traditions of non Western societies

Housing for Older

People in Singapore: An Annotated Bibliography Belinda Yuen, Emily Soh, 2016-09-12 This bibliography offers valuable annotated references on housing for older population for those interested in these initiatives and discussions. It begins with an overview piece on the state of policy practice and research on housing for the older population in Singapore. This is followed by an annotated bibliography featuring published and unpublished work spanning recent decades pertaining to housing for the older population with emphasis on Singapore. It encompasses theoretical and empirical research reported in journal articles and book chapters as well as grey literature like dissertations and theses, conference proceedings, working papers and newspaper articles. The bibliography also contains additional citations covering global studies in particular in Asia, North America and UK. It is hoped that this bibliographic material will serve as a useful starting reference point for discussions on housing of older people in Singapore and also for key developments in other parts of the world. The goal is to encourage additional scholarship.

Reason and World W. Marx, 2012-12-06 At a time when the traditional principles of many fields have lost their power and validity, the task of philosophy may well be to look back at these traditional principles and at their inherent determinations and basic problems while heeding every indication of a transition to something new in order to be critically open for all attempts at another beginning. A philosophizing which thus sees its proper place between tradition and another beginning has grasped its own basic dilemma. It remains in search of the true even though it has no valid concept of truth. A concept of truth grounded solely in transcendental subjectivity convinces of it no longer and the essence of truth as it occurs for experiential understanding has not yet been sufficiently determined. A philosophizing which has understood itself in this way will not want to commit itself one-sidedly to one position or the other. Instead, it will consider its task to lie in keeping thought in flux. The present collection of essays may be understood as an example of such a conception of present-day philosophizing. Thus the first essay isolates the guiding thoughts of the traditional philosophy of reason and spirit as they fulfilled themselves in German idealism in order to make the traditional concept of truth visible and to bring to light those basic determinations formed in certain contemporary philosophical tendencies which are either related to it or altogether new.

The Mystic Way in Postmodernity Sue Yore, 2009 This book challenges experiential, esoteric and colloquial understandings of mysticism by bringing a fresh relevance to the term through an interdisciplinary dialogue between literature, mysticism and theology in the context of postmodernity. In order to achieve this, the author takes selected writings of Iris Murdoch, Denise Levertov and Annie Dillard and incorporates them into various stages of a redesigned mystic way. The fourteenth-century mystic Julian of Norwich is invoked throughout as a role model whom these three writers seek to emulate as popular writers, contemplatives and theologians. As theologians who are concerned with the pressing issues of our age, Grace Jantzen, Dorothee Soelle and Sallie McFague are drawn on as conversation partners to complete the three-way discussion. The author maintains that understanding the writing and reading of creative texts in the context of practical mysticism facilitates an integrated approach to the use of literature for theological expression.

The Other #MeToos Iqra

Shagufta Cheema,2023 From Asia to Africa to the Middle East MeToo has inspired local movements and hashtag trends like AnaKaman and transnational collective hashtags like MosqueMeToo Yet most Western scholarly and popular treatment of the movement assumes it is a primarily Western phenomenon To attend to the revolutionary international impact of MeToo Iqra Shagufta Cheema brings together contributions from scholars and scholar activists that look at specific iterations of the MeToo movement across multiple communities cultures and countries in the Global South Going beyond gender this comprehensive study focuses on the intersectional assemblage of ethnicity religion race class and politics that informs MeToo and its place in local and transnational feminisms By doing so The Other MeToos highlights the adaptation translation and impact of MeToo in non Western postcolonial minoritized and othered locales to explore its wider scope and possibilities
