Moreman,2024-03-28 The 13th edition of Death Society and Human Experience provides a panoramic overview of the ways that we are touched by death and dying both as individuals and as members of society A landmark text in the field the authors draw on contributions from the social and behavioral sciences as well as the humanities including perspectives offered through history philosophy religion literature and the arts to provide thorough coverage and understanding of topics associated with the end of life and death and dying By approaching the subject from multiple angles the authors explain the various ways that individual cultural and societal attitudes influence both how and when we die and how we live and deal with the knowledge of death and loss Originally written by Robert Kastenbaum a renowned scholar who developed one of the world's first death education courses Christopher M Moreman who has worked in the field of death studies for two decades has updated this edition In addition to infusing his close areas of focus both in afterlife beliefs and experiences and how these might affect how people live their lives he's weaved in new coverage of current affairs including The impact of COVID 19 on experiences of death bereavement mourning and more Expanded legalization of physician assisted dying in the United States and several countries Changes in bereavement rituals and traditions stemming from technology use and social media With additional content and classroom extensions available online Death Society and Human Experience remains a thoughtful exploratory and impressively comprehensive overview for undergraduate and graduate courses in death dying and bereavement

Communicating at the End of Life Elissa Foster, 2014-04-08 This enlightening volume provides first hand perspectives and ethnographic research on communication at the end of life a topic that has gone largely understudied in communication literature Author Elissa Foster's own experiences as a volunteer hospice caregiver form the basis of the book Communicating at the End of Life recounts the stories of Foster and six other volunteers and their communicative experiences with dying patients using communication theory and research findings to identify insights on the relationships they form throughout the process What unfolds is a scholarly examination of a subject that is significant to every individual at some point in the life process Organized chronologically to follow the course of Foster's involvement with hospice and the phases of the study the book opens with Part 1 providing background and contextual information to help readers understand subsequent stories about communication between volunteers and patients Part 2 of the volume emphasizes the adjustments required by the volunteers as they entered the world of hospice and the worlds of the patients Part 3 underscores the importance of improvisation and finding balance within the role of volunteer in particular how to be fully present for patients as well as their family members The volume concludes with Part 4 which addresses how volunteers coped with the death of their patients and what they learned from the experience of volunteering Communicating at the End of Life is appropriate for scholars and advanced students studying personal relationships health communication gerontology interpersonal communication lifespan communication and communication aging Its unique content offers precious and meaningful insights on the communication processes at a critical point in the life process

Death Anxiety Handbook Robert A. Neimeyer, 1994 Presenting a broad coverage of this major area of studies on death and dying this book provides a systematic presentation of the six most widely used and best validated measures of death anxiety threat and fear These chapters consider the available data on the psychometric properties of each instrument and summarize research using them and also supply a copy of the instrument with scoring keys to facilitate their use In addition other chapters make use of the instrumentation by pursuing questions of applied significance in various health care settings nursing homes psychotherapy death education near death experiences persons with AIDS experiences of bereaved young adults An introductory chapter introduces the major philosophical and psychological theories of the causes and consequences of death anxiety in adult life and a closing chapter gives an overview of death education and how this affects attitudes towards death and dying

The Metaphysics of Death John Martin Fischer,1993 This collection of seventeen essays deals with the metaphysical as opposed to the moral issues pertaining to death For example the authors investigate among other things the issue of what makes death a bad thing for an individual if indeed death is a bad thing This issue is more basic and abstract than such moral questions as the particular conditions under which euthanasia is justified if it is ever justified Though there are important connections between the more abstract questions addressed in this book and many contemporary moral issues such as euthanasia suicide and abortion the primary focus of this book is on metaphysical issues concerning the nature of death What is the nature of the harm or bad involved in death If it is not pain what is it and how can it be bad Who is the subject of the harm or bad if the person is no longer alive how can he be the subject of the bad An if he is not the subject who is Can one have harm with no subject When does the harm take place Can a harm take place after its subject ceases to exist If death harms a person can the harm take place before the death occurs If death can be a bad thing would immortality be a desirable alternative This family of questions helps to frame the puzzle of why and how death is bad Other subjects addressed include the Epicurean view that death is not a misfortune for the person who dies the nature of misfortune and benefit the meaningfulness and value of life and the distinction between the life of a person and the life of a living creature who is not a person There is an extensive bibliography that includes science fiction treatments of death and immortality

Children and Loss Elizabeth Cheney Pomeroy,Clinical Social Worker in Private Practice Renee Bradford Garcia,Renée Bradford Garcia,2010-12 Few books written for practitioners provide any practical information regarding grief and loss issues with children and adolescents In a clear and concise manner Children and Loss A Practical Handbook for Professionals details the strengths perspective of grief and loss developed by the editors It discusses grief and loss in relation to individual children while also addressing issues and strategies for families and professional teams The handbook specifically focuses on the dynamics of grief and assessment issues and provides in depth case examples This realistic and usable application of essential techniques and resources will immediately enhance practitioners skills with children and adolescents in specific settings where children are most likely to present with grief and loss issues This book is a great resource for all practitioners who work with children from foster care professionals and therapists specializing in divorce to counselors in schools and churches This book can also be used to academic settings for any course related to child development child psychology children and families grief and loss end of life and death

Maternal & Child Health Nursing Adele Pillitteri,2010 Growing research shows that many children from immigrant and refugee families are not doing well in school due in part to linguistic and cultural disadvantages Teaching dual language learners requires cultural sensitivity an understanding of language acquisition and intentional teaching strategies Combining research and techniques this resource helps early childhood educators support dual language learners as they develop the skills necessary for school readiness and success
