Sinicization has become the slogan that guides Chinese official policy towards religion What does it mean What effects is it having on Chinese religions Where will it lead This book with contributions from experts in the major religious traditions in China is one of the first in English that answers these questions From the top down Sinicization is a project to control all forms of religion in China even ancient indigenous forms to make them conform to the demands of its Party State From the bottom up however religious believers are using the slogan either to sincerely attempt to adapt traditional practices to their modern cultural context or to protect their faith by offering lip service to government demands or some combination of the two Religions in Ancient China Herbert Giles,2019-12-06 Throughout history China has been the home and destination of many religious and philosophical traditions Confucianism and Taoism in addition to Buddhism are the so called three doctrines or teachings which have played an important role in shaping Chinese culture The elements of these three belief systems are incorporated into the traditional Chinese religion that is worship devoted to local gods and ancestors this has always been and continues to be the religion of the majority of the population family oriented and not requiring exclusive adherence which allows the practice or expression of personal beliefs of different faiths at the same time Some scholars prefer not to use the term religion in reference to Chinese belief systems suggesting instead that it be cultural practices systems of thought and philosophies as their most appropriate definition While Confucianism in its religious aspect corresponds to the traditional religion of worship of local gods and ancestors Taoism has developed as an ecclesiastical movement distinct from the common religion since the 1st or 2nd century Buddhism was introduced in the 1st century and grew to have a strong impact in China which it still preserves today Today s Chinese state officially recognizes five religions managed through centralized institutions Buddhism Taoism Protestantism Catholicism and Islam Traditional religion in all its forms even if not centralized at the bureaucratic level enjoys freedom According to statistics 70% of Chinese people practiced traditional religion including 13% who practiced traditional cults in a Taoist doctrinal or ritual framework or popular religions influenced by Taoism while those who identified themselves only as initiated Taoists were 0.8% the term Taoist in China is traditionally reserved only for Taoist priests or those who undertake direct discipleship under their leadership and is not traditionally extended to the multitude of lay followers The adherents to Buddhism were 14% and of these the formally initiated Buddhists formed 1.3% Christians were 2.4% of whom 2.2% were Protestants and 0.2% were Catholics Muslims were 1.7% The remaining 13% of the population was not religious they were atheist agnostic or had not declared any preference Confucianism as a religious designation is popular among intellectuals although there are various popular movements of Confucian origin Politics And Traditional Culture: The Political Use Of Traditions In Contemporary China Janette Jiawen Ai, 2014-09-19 This book examines the political use of China's traditions by the party state in contemporary China. It argues that the party state has taken an official Marxist stance in terms of the political use of tradition. Besides looking at the official Marxist stance, this book also looks at critiques of the party state's use of traditions by the Liberalists and Neo traditionalists. The underlying political ideologies of these three camps are Marxism, Liberalism, and Neo traditionalism. These three political ideologies have been the most influential in Chinese politics since the Republican Revolution in 1911. The contemporary political use of China's traditions is a competition between Marxism, Liberalism, and Neo traditionalism. This competition is critical to the future of Chinese politics. This book also examines three cases representing identical ways of the political use of traditions. The three cases are the children's reading of the classics movement, the construction of a Chinese Cultural Symbolic City, the construction and subsequent removal of a statue of Confucius in and from Tiananmen Square, and the revision of the official list of public holidays. The study of the three cases attempts to shed light on the three ways Chinese traditions have been used politically by the party state. It also attempts to explore the reasons for the party's use of Chinese traditions, the reasons for the party's scepticism with regard to using Chinese traditions, and more importantly, the competition and/or cooperation between Marxists, Liberalists, and Neo traditionalists.

Buddhist Revitalization and Chinese Religions in Malaysia Lee Tan, 2025-10-01 Buddhist Revitalization and Chinese Religions in Malaysia tells the story of how a minority community comes to grips with the challenges of modernity, history, globalization, and cultural assertion in an ever-changing Malaysia. It captures the religious connection, transformation, and tension within a complex traditional belief system in a multi-religious society. In particular, the book revolves around a discussion on the religious revitalization of Chinese Buddhism in modern Malaysia. This Buddhist revitalization movement is intertwined with various forces such as colonialism, religious transnationalism, and global capitalism. Reformist Buddhists have helped to remake Malaysia's urban-dwelling Chinese community and have provided an exit option in the Malay and Muslim majority nation-state. As Malaysia modernizes, there have been increasing efforts by certain segments of the country's ethnic Chinese Buddhist population to separate Buddhism from popular Chinese religions. Nevertheless, these reformist groups face counterforces from traditional Chinese religionists within the context of the cultural complexity of the Chinese belief system.

Chinese Religion and Familism Jordan Paper, 2019 Reflecting on over half a century of study on Chinese culture, Jordan Paper explores new ways of approaching religion in China. Moving away from using Christianity as a model for examination, which has led to considerable misunderstandings between China and the West, Paper instead applies the paradigm of Familism to Chinese religion. By looking through the lens of Familism, which emphasises the importance of the family unit, Paper argues that we can understand the basis of Chinese culture, society, government, and religion. In the book, Paper explains how, when, and why Familism appears in the development of human culture in the Neolithic period as well as its ramifications in more complex societies using the imperial Chinese state as an example The discussion in the book includes how the Chinese state can be understood as a religious institution the role of spirit possession the relationship of other religions in China to Chinese Religion including Buddhism Daoism and Judaism and the issue of freedom of religion in contemporary China Chinese Religion and Familism not only challenges the discipline s perception of Chinese religion but all of the religions of East Asia indigenous sub Saharan African religions Polynesian Religion and elsewhere
