Joint Economic Committee,1967 From Truth and truth Francis Etheredge,2016-04-26 What emerges in this second book of the trilogy is that the very ground and content of experience is richer than what can be reduced to a particular account of it As such dialogue develops from the natural diversity of what is of faith and what is of reason Neither faith nor reason however originates from experience rather both are witnessed in experience In other words taking up questions about the nature of man whether philosophically psychologically or in terms of social structures manifests both a variety of points of departure and at the same time the manifold conversations that are possible in the field of culture Focusing particularly on the work of St John Paul II the first essay examines the answer of reason and the answer of faith to the same question What is man Conversion too entails an unexpected relationship to natural truth which in its own way is both adequate and inadequate to salvation Communication as it were runs throughout these essays however in particular there is a need to enrich our human understanding of the process of coming to ourselves with the insights of spiritual discernment Axiomatically however it is possible to say that just as we come to exist through a relationship to others so our healing and holiness are manifest through our relationship to others in the Other Furthermore while it is ultimately true that we exist as individually rooted in the social structure of our origin and the times in which we live we need to critically participate in the dialogue which identifies our common reality and not live our lives covered in psycho social labels of one kind or another As a whole then there is an incomparable range and depth to dialogue Indeed given the many critical situations in the world it is increasingly indispensable and essential that humanity choose the incredible wealth of dialogue in contrast to the possibility of a polarised and conflictual structure between people and peoples

The two reformations in the 16th century H.A.Enno Gelder, 2012-12-06 This book deals with the religious aspects and consequences of the Renaissance and Humanism It is therefore advisable that these terms should first be defined to some extent By Renaissance is meant here the new element in Western European culture which became more and more evident in Italy during the 15th century and in about 1500 completely dominated the great minds in that country In the 16th century this new element was carried to the countries on the other side of the Alps where it developed vigorously during that century The new element in that culture is found in the plastic arts literature philosophy and also and this is the subject of the present study in a modified religious attitude The following chapters will show the content of this last change Problems such as what in general characterizes the Renaissance by what was it caused when did it begin and in particular whether the Renaissance forms a sharp contrast to the Middle Ages or whether it is a direct continuation of it will not be discussed here It will be clear from the above definition that I have placed first and foremost those things in the Renaissance which distinguish it from the Middle Ages Inside Ethics Alice Cray,2016-01-05 Alice Cray offers a transformative account of moral thought about human beings and animals Instead of assuming that the world places no demands on our moral imagination she underscores the urgency of treating the exercise of moral imagination as necessary for arriving at an adequate world guided understanding of human beings and animals
