Craft And Architecture Modulus 22:

The Hybrid Practitioner Caroline Voet, Eireen Schreurs, Helen Thomas, 2022-09-01 Exploring different interrelated roles for the architect and researcher The practice of architecture manifests in myriad forms and engagements Overcoming false divides this volume frames the fertile relationship between the cultural and scholarly production of academia and the process of designing and building in the material world It proposes the concept of the hybrid practitioner who bridges the gap between academia and practice by considering how different aspects of architectural practice theory and history intersect opening up a fascinating array of possibilities for an active engagement with the present The book explores different interrelated roles for practicing architects and researchers from the reproductive activities of teaching consulting and publishing through the reflective activities of drawing and writing to the practice of building The notion of the hybrid practitioner will appeal strongly to students teachers and architectural practitioners as part of a multifaceted professional environment By connecting academic interests with those of the professional realm The Hybrid Practitioner addresses a wider readership embracing landscape design art theory and aesthetics European history and the history and sociology of professions Modulus, 1995 Studies in Tectonic Culture Kenneth Frampton, 2001-08-24 Composed of ten essays and an epilogue that trace the history of contemporary form as an evolving poetic of structure and construction the book's analytical framework rests on Frampton's close readings of key French and German and English sources from the eighteenth century to the present Kenneth Frampton's long awaited follow up to his classic A Critical History of Modern Architecture is certain to influence any future debate on the evolution of modern architecture Studies in Tectonic Culture is nothing less than a rethinking of the entire modern architectural tradition The notion of tectonics as employed by Frampton the focus on architecture as a constructional craft constitutes a direct challenge to current mainstream thinking on the artistic limits of postmodernism and suggests a convincing alternative Indeed Frampton argues modern architecture is invariably as much about structure and construction as it is about space and abstract form Composed of ten essays and an epilogue that trace the history of contemporary form as an evolving poetic of structure and construction the book's analytical framework rests on Frampton's close readings of key French and German and English sources from the eighteenth century to the present He clarifies the various turns that structural engineering and tectonic imagination have taken in the work of such architects as Perret Wright Kahn Scarpa and Mies and shows how both constructional form and material character were integral to an evolving architectural expression of their work Frampton also demonstrates that the way in which these elements are articulated from one work to the next provides a basis upon which to evaluate the works as a whole This is especially evident in his consideration of the work of Perret Mies and Kahn and the continuities in their thought and attitudes that linked them to the past Frampton considers the conscious cultivation of the tectonic tradition in architecture as an essential element in the future development of architectural form casting a critical new light on the entire issue of modernity and on the place of
