Crafts Capitalism And Women The Potters Of La Chamba Colombia:

Crafts, Capitalism, and Women Ronald J. Duncan, 2000 A compelling comprehensive description and analysis of the traditions socioeconomic parameters and ceramic styles found in a contemporary pottery making community located in an understudied region of Latin America The author s impressive documentation of the cultural and economic changes occurring in La Chamba Colombia provide an especially valuable assessment useful to students of anthropology craft technology economics history gender studies art history and cultural dynamics as well as ceramic studies Charles C Kolb National Endowment for the Humanities Focusing on people of indigenous and mestizo descent in Colombia Ronald Duncan documents how the global economy extends the labor exploitation that began with their defeat by the Spanish He argues that the treatment of home based craft workers that occurs today among women and children in La Chamba and other areas of Latin America is structurally similar to the slavery and indentured servitude that followed the Conquest Women potters of La Chamba make some of the most beautifully finished ceramics of South America as this book s photographs and illustrations demonstrate and they have been doing so for more than a millennium Grandmothers make traditional cooking pots mothers make utilitarian bowls for sale to urban families and daughters make one of a kind art pieces on special order But even though their work is exported to Europe and the United States the potters are paid less than the minimum wage for their work Despite being part of the booming global economy the women reap precious few of its rewards A companion volume to Duncan s Ceramics of R quira Colombia this book continues his analysis of how capitalism is used to reinforce a strict traditional caste system that ensures profits for the business class Equally compelling is the history and description of the heroic survival of indigenous culture in this hybrid society as it adapts to contemporary economic realities Ronald J Duncan is professor of anthropology and museum management at Oklahoma Baptist University in Shawnee He is the author of The Ceramics of R quira Colombia Gender Work and Economic Change UPF 1998 Crafting Gender Eli Bartra, 2003-10-01 Analyzes Latin American and Caribbean folk art from a feminist perspective considering the issue of gender in the production and circulation of popular art produced by women Economic Action in Theory and Practice Donald C. Wood, 2010-08-18 Contains 14 chapters that focus on various aspects of economic organization and behaviour mostly based on empirical fieldwork conducted by the authors themselves This title takes a look at urban food provisioning in Cameroon and an investigation into entrepreneurial activities in the rapidly changing economy of Cairo Handbook of Latin American Studies, Vol. 61 Lawrence Boudon, 2006-04-01 The one source that sets reference collections on Latin American studies apart from all other geographic areas of the world The Handbook has provided scholars interested in Latin America with a bibliographical source of a quality unavailable to scholars in most other branches of area studies Latin American Research Review Beginning with volume 41 1979 the University of Texas Press became the publisher of the Handbook of Latin American Studies the most comprehensive annual bibliography in the field Compiled by the Hispanic Division of the Library of Congress and annotated by a corps of more than 140 specialists in various disciplines the Handbook alternates from year to year between social sciences and humanities The Handbook annotates works on Mexico Central America the Caribbean and the Guianas Spanish South America and Brazil as well as materials covering Latin America as a whole Most of the subsections are preceded by introductory essays that serve as biannual evaluations of the literature and research under way in specialized areas The Handbook of Latin American Studies is the oldest continuing reference work in the field Lawrence Boudon of the Library of Congress Hispanic Division has been the editor since 2000 and Katherine D McCann has been assistant editor since 1999 The subject categories for Volume 61 are as follows
