Jacobs, 2025-10-01 This book presents four case studies that interrogate how German fifteenth century painted triptychs engage with and ultimately blur various boundaries Some of the boundaries are internal to the triptych format for example transgressed frames between narrative scenes on triptych interiors or interconnections between imagery on triptych interiors and exteriors Other blurred boundaries are regional ones between the Netherlands and Cologne metaphysical ones between heaven and earth and artistic distinctions between the media of painting and sculpture The book s case studies which shed new light on Conrad von Soest Stefan Lochner and the Master of

Religion and Culture in Germany (1400-1800) Robert Scribner,2021-10-18 The late Bob Scribner was one of the most original and provocative historians of the German Reformation His truly pioneering spirit comes to light in this collection of his most recent essays In the years before his death Scribner explored the role of the senses in late medieval devotional culture and wondered how the Reformation changed sensual attitudes Further essays examine the nature of popular culture and the way the Reformation was institutionalised considering Anabaptist ideals of the community of goods literacy and heterodoxy and the dynamics of power as they unfold in a case of witchcraft The final section of the book consists of three iconoclastic essays which together form a sustained assault on the argument first advanced by Max Weber that the Reformation created a rational modern religion Scribner shows that far from being rationalist and anti magical Protestants had their own brand of magic These fine essays are certain to spark off debate not only among historians of the Reformation but also among art historians and anyone interested in the nature of culture

Perfection's Therapy Mitchell B. Merback, 2018-02-09 A deft reinterpretation of the most zealously interpreted picture in the Western canon as a therapeutic artifact Albrecht Dürer's famous portrayal of creative effort in paralysis the unsurpassed masterpiece of copperplate engraving titled Melencolia I has stood for centuries as a pictorial summa of knowledge about the melancholic temperament a dense allegory of the limits of earthbound arts and sciences and the impossibility of attaining perfection Dubbed the image of images for being the most zealously interpreted picture in the Western canon Melencolia I also presides over the origins of modern iconology art history's own science of meaning Yet we are left with a clutter of mutually contradictory theories a historiographic ruin that confirms the mood of its object In Perfection's Therapy Mitchell Merback reopens the case file and argues for a hidden intentionality in Melencolia's opacity its structural chaos and its resistance to allegorical closure That intentionality he argues points toward a fascinating possibility never before considered that Dürer's masterpiece is not only an arresting diagnosis of melancholic distress but an innovative instrument for its undoing Merback deftly resituates Dürer's image within the long history of the therapeutic artifact Placing Dürer's therapeutic project in dialogue with that of humanism's founder Francesco Petrarca Merback also unearths Dürer's ambition to act as a physician of the soul Celebrated as the Apelles of the black line in his own day and ever since as Germany's first Renaissance painter theorist the Dürer we encounter here is also the first modern Christian artist addressing himself to the distress of souls including his own Melencolia thus emerges as a key reference point in a venture of spiritual ethical therapy a work designed to exercise the mind restore the body's equilibrium and help in getting on with the undertaking of perfection
