close examination of his novels reveals a remarkable disjunction between his image as the quintessential celebrant of the hearth and his interest in fractured families Catherine Waters offers an explanation of this discrepancy through an examination of Dickens's representation of the family in relation to nineteenth century constructions of class and gender Drawing upon feminist and new historicist methodologies and focusing upon the normalising function of middle class domestic ideology Waters concludes that Dickens's novels record a shift in notions of the family away from an earlier stress upon the importance of lineage and blood towards a new ideal of domesticity assumed to be the natural form of the family

Final Judgement and the Dead in Medieval Jewish Thought Susan Weissman,2020-07-23 Through a detailed analysis of ghost tales in the Ashkenazi pietistic work Sefer asidim Susan Weissman documents a major transformation in Jewish attitudes and practices regarding the dead and the afterlife that took place between the rabbinic period and medieval times She reveals that a huge influx of Germano Christian beliefs customs and fears relating to the dead and the afterlife seeped into medieval Ashkenazi society among both elite and popular groups In matters of sin penance and posthumous punishment the infiltration of Christian notions was so strong as to effect a radical departure in Pietist thinking from rabbinic thought and to spur outright contradiction of talmudic principles regarding the realm of the hereafter Although it is primarily a study of the culture of a medieval Jewish enclave this book demonstrates how seminal beliefs of medieval Christendom and monastic ideals could take root in a society with contrary religious values even in the realm of doctrinal belief
