Book For The Hour Of Recreation:

Book for the Hour of Recreation María de San José Salazar, 2007-11-01 María de San José Salazar 1548-1603 took the veil as a Discalced barefoot Carmelite nun in 1571 becoming one of Teresa of Ávila's most important collaborators in religious reform and serving as prioress of the Seville and Lisbon convents. Within the parameters of the strict Catholic Reformation in Spain, María de San José fiercely defended women's rights to define their own spiritual experience and to teach, inspire, and lead other women in reforming their church. María de San José wrote this book as a defense of the Discalced practice of setting aside two hours each day for conversation, music, and staging of religious plays. Casting the book in the form of a dialogue, María de San José demonstrates through fictional conversations among a group of nuns during their hours of recreation how women could serve as very effective spiritual teachers for each other. The book includes one of the first biographical portraits of Teresa and María de San José's personal account of the troubled founding of the Discalced convent at Seville, as well as her tribulations as an Inquisitional suspect. Rich in allusions to women's affective relationships in the early modern convent, Book for the Hour of Recreation also serves as an example of how a woman might write when relatively free of clerical censorship and expectations. A detailed introduction and notes by Alison Weber provide historical and biographical context for Amanda Powell's fluid translation. Autobiographical Writing by Early Modern Hispanic Women Elizabeth Teresa Howe, 2016-04-08 Women's life writing in general has too often been ignored, dismissed, or relegated to a separate category in those few studies of the genre that include it. The present work addresses these issues and offers a countervailing argument that focuses on the contributions of women writers to the study of autobiography in Spanish during the early modern period. There are indeed examples of autobiographical writing by women in Spain and its New World empire evident as early as the fourteenth century. Memorias penned by Doña Leonor López de Córdoba and continuing through the seventeenth century. Cartas of Sor Juana Inés de la Cruz. What sets these accounts apart, the author shows, are the variety of forms adopted by each woman to tell her life and the circumstances in which she adapts her narrative to satisfy the presence of male critics, whether ecclesiastic or political, actual or imagined, who would dismiss or even alter her life story. Analyzing how each of these women viewed her life and conversely how their contemporaries, both male and female, received and sometimes edited her account, Howe reveals the tension in the texts between telling a life and telling a lie.
