

Costumes, Hair & Make Up: Did they seem to fit with the set? Were they well suited to the characters? What did changes in the costumes, hair and makeup say about the characters or the story as a whole? Remember to tell me how.
Sound: How did the sound effects and music contribute to the show's mood? Tell me how.
Consider other design elements: fight choreography, special effects?

Section 5: Directing, Style, and Language

Be sure to mention the director's name.

Directing: Did all of the areas of the play seem to work together well? Why or why not? Were the actors' movements on the stage clear? Did the world of the play seem complete? Was there anything truly missing that was needed? Was there too much in the play's world making things confusing? Tell me why.

Style: period understanding and details; cohesiveness of style among the actors (do they all seem like they're in the same play?);

Language: Was the story clear—even if you didn't understand all of the language? Did you understand more or less of the language than you expected? Was the use of the language interesting, compelling to listen to?

Section 6: Intentions

What do you believe is the production's main intention? To entertain us? To make us think about something? To make us feel something? What is it? How well does it achieve that goal? Overall, did you like it or dislike it? Give reasons for your opinion one way or the other.

Pacific Air Forces, 1963 Truth to Power Karyn Hollis, Silvia Nagy-Zekmi, 2010-06-09 The notion that public intellectuals in the US are in decline has again become fashionable with their portrayal as trapped between Academe and the real world The questions addressed by this volume are How can the voices of scholars and erudite thinkers penetrate the globalized corporate media and how does media receive and represent the contribution of intellectuals to the academic and public spheres all the while recognizing what Paul Bov calls the the nonidentity of intellectuals as a group Dedicated to the memory of Howard Zinn whose life work is a model for intellectual engagement this collection of intriguing articles with an introduction by the editors and a foreword by Henry A Giroux presents new scholarship on the role of the intellectual in a society and specifically in Academe from many different perspectives Indeed intellectuals have been negotiating access to public discourse for centuries but never have their opinions been more crucial to the public good because of the privately owned media s domination of public discourse The inspiration for this volume comes also from Edward Said s notion of intellectuals whose role is to uncover and elucidate the contest to challenge and defeat both an imposed silence and the normalized quiet of unseen power wherever and whenever possible
