Blood Revenge War And Victory Feasts Among The J:

Feuding and Warfare Keith F. Otterbein, 1994 Keith F Otterbein's scholarship has followed an overall design since 1962 when he began conducting comparative studies of warfare using both ethnographic and cross cultural methods Through a conceptual framework derived from systems theory he has made signal contributions to our understanding of the role of warfare in human social evolution He has formulated a Fraternal Interest Group theory utilizing it to explain not only feuding and warfare but also rape and capital punishment Believing that armed combat is learned behavior he has posed questions about its learning process that have yet to be answered He has acted as a major synthesizer of the growing literature on warfare and has led attempts among anthropologists to apply their knowledge of war and peace to current events This volume will serve both as a useful introduction to the anthropology of war and as a needed compendium of Professor Otterbein's ideas

The Handbook of Homicide Fiona Brookman, Edward R. Maguire, Mike Maguire, 2017-05-01 The Handbook of Homicide presents a series of original essays by renowned authors from around the world reflecting the latest scholarship on the nature causes and patterns of homicide as well as policies and practices for its investigation and prevention Includes comprehensive coverage of the complex phenomenon of homicide and its various forms Features original contributions from an esteemed team of global experts and scholars with chapters highlighting the authors original research Represents the first internationally focused collection of the latest research on the nature and causes of homicide Covers both the causes and dynamics of homicide as well as policies and practices intended to address it

The Ethics of Anthropology and Amerindian Research Richard J. Chacon, Rubén G. Mendoza, 2011-12-15 The decision to publish scholarly findings bearing on the question of Amerindian environmental degradation warfare and or violence is one that weighs heavily on anthropologists This burden stems from the fact that documentation of this may render descendant communities vulnerable to a host of predatory agendas and hostile modern forces Consequently some anthropologists and community advocates alike argue that such culturally and socially sensitive and thereby politically volatile information regarding Amerindian induced environmental degradation and warfare should not be reported This admonition presents a conundrum for anthropologists and other social scientists employed in the academy or who work at the behest of tribal entities This work documents the various ethical dilemmas that confront anthropologists and researchers in general when investigating Amerindian communities The contributions to this volume explore the ramifications of reporting and specifically of non reporting instances of environmental degradation and warfare among Amerindians Collectively the contributions in this volume which extend across the disciplines of archaeology anthropology ethnohistory ethnic studies philosophy and medicine argue that the non reporting of environmental mismanagement and violence in Amerindian communities generally harms not only the field of anthropology but the Amerindian populations themselves

Violence Donald J. Mulvihill, Melvin Marvin Tumin, 1970 The Ethnographer's Magic and Other Essays in the History of Anthropology George W. Stocking, 1992 George Stocking has been widely recognized as the premier historian of anthropology ever since the publication of his first volume of essays Race Culture and Evolution in 1968 As editor of several publications including the highly acclaimed History of Anthropology series he has led the movement to establish the history of anthropology as a recognized research specialization In addition to the study Victorian Anthropology his work includes numerous essays covering a wide range of anthropological topics The eight essays collected in The Ethnographer's Magic consider the emergence of anthropology since the late nineteenth century as an academic discipline grounded in systematic fieldwork Drawing extensively on unpublished manuscript materials the essays focus primarily on Franz Boas and Bronislaw Malinowski the leading figures in the American and the British academic fieldwork traditions According to George Marcus of Rice University the essays represent the most informative and insightful writings on Malinowski and Boas and their legacies that are yet available Beyond their biographical material the essays here touch upon major themes in the history of anthropology its powerfully mythic aspect and persistent strain of romantic primitivism the contradictions of its relationship to the larger sociopolitical sphere its problematic integration of a variety of natural scientific and humanistic inquiries and the tension between its scientific aspirations and its subjectively acquired data To provide an overview against which to read the other essays Stocking has also included a sketch of the history of anthropology from the ancient Greeks to the present For this collection Stocking has written prefatory commentaries for each of the essays as well as two more extended contextualizing pieces An introductory essay Retrospective Prescriptive Reflections places the volume in autobiographical and historiographical context the Afterword Postscriptive Prospective Reflections reconsiders major themes of the essays in relation to the recent past and present situation of academic anthropology Tribal and Chiefly Warfare in South America Elsa M. Redmond, 1994-01-01 This book presents new data on warfare from both ethnohistoric and ethnographic sources The author documents principal differences between tribal and chiefly warfare outlines the evidence archaeologists can expect to recover from warfare and formulates testable hypotheses on the role of warfare in social and political evolution This monograph is part of a series on Latin American Ethnohistory and Archaeology Stress of War, Conflict and Disaster George Fink, 2010-11-25 Stress is a universal phenomenon that impacts adversely on most people Following on the heels of Stress Science Neuroendocrinology and Stress Consequences Mental Neuropsychological and Socioeconomic this third derivative volume will provide a readily accessible and affordable compendium that explains the phenomenon of stress as it relates physically and mentally to war conflict and disaster The first section will be dedicated to study of the link between stress and various forms of conflict Specific instances of conflict will be discussed the Gulf wars Korea Hiroshima bombing the Holocaust 9 11 Northern Ireland terrorism in general torture The second section will explore the stress impact of more general physical disasters such as airline and vehicle accidents earthquakes floods and hurricanes The final section will focus on the clinical relationship between conflict stress and various mental diseases PTSD suicide disaster syndrome etc as well as the adverse impact of stress on human physical health in general Comprised of about 100 top articles selected from Elsevier's Encyclopedias of Stress the volume will provide a valuable desk reference that will put relevant articles readily at the fingertips of all scientists who consider stress Chapters offer impressive and unique scope with topics addressing the relationship between stress generated by war conflict and disaster and various physical mental disorders Richly illustrated with over 200 figures dozens in color Articles carefully selected by one of the world's most preeminent stress researchers and contributors represent the most outstanding scholarship in the field with each chapter providing fully vetted and reliable expert knowledge

Why Sex Matters Bobbi S. Low, 2015-01-04 Why are men like other primate males usually the aggressors and risk takers Why do women typically have fewer sexual partners In Why Sex Matters Bobbi Low ranges from ancient Rome to modern America from the Amazon to the Arctic and from single celled organisms to international politics to show that these and many other questions about human behavior largely come down to evolution and sex More precisely as she shows in this uniquely comprehensive and accessible survey of behavioral and evolutionary ecology they come down to the basic principle that all organisms evolved to maximize their reproductive success and seek resources to do so but that sometimes cooperation and collaboration are the most effective ways to succeed This newly revised edition has been thoroughly updated to include the latest research and reflect exciting changes in the field including how our evolutionary past continues to affect our ecological present

Transformation of War Martin Van Creveld, 2009-11-24 At a time when unprecedented change in international affairs is forcing governments citizens and armed forces everywhere to re assess the question of whether military solutions to political problems are possible any longer Martin van Creveld has written an audacious searching examination of the nature of war and of its radical transformation in our own time For 200 years military theory and strategy have been guided by the Clausewitzian assumption that war is rational a reflection of national interest and an extension of politics by other means However van Creveld argues the overwhelming pattern of conflict in the post 1945 world no longer yields fully to rational analysis In fact strategic planning based on such calculations is and will continue to be unrelated to current realities Small scale military eruptions around the globe have demonstrated new forms of warfare with a different cast of characters guerilla armies terrorists and bandits pursuing diverse goals by violent means with the most primitive to the most sophisticated weapons Although these warriors and their tactics testify to the end of conventional war as we've known it the public and the military in the developed world continue to contemplate organized violence as conflict between the super powers At this moment armed conflicts of the type van Creveld describes are occurring throughout the world From Lebanon to Cambodia from Sri Lanka and the Philippines to El Salvador the Persian Gulf and the strife torn nations of Eastern Europe violent confrontations confirm a new model of warfare in which tribal ethnic and religious factions do battle without high tech weapons or state supported armies and resources This low intensity conflict challenges existing distinctions between civilian and soldier individual crime and organized violence terrorism and war In the present global atmosphere practices that for three centuries have been considered uncivilized such as capturing civilians or even entire communities for ransom have begun to reappear Pursuing bold and provocative paths of inquiry van Creveld posits the inadequacies of our most basic ideas as to who fights wars and why and broaches the inevitability of man's need to play at war In turn brilliant and infuriating this challenge to our thinking and planning current and future military encounters is one of the most important books on war we are likely to read in our lifetime The 'Soul' of the Primitive Lucien Lévy-Bruhl, 2023-07-07 The object of this book first published in 1928 is a study of the ways in which those who were once called primitives conceive of their own individuality The author inquires into the notions they possess of their life principle their soul and their personality often encountering that many peoples only had pre notions of such concepts
