Blood Sweat And Cheers Sport And The Making Of Modern Canada:

Blood, Sweat, and Cheers Colin D. Howell, 2001 Blood, Sweat and Cheers Colin D. Howell, 2001 A look at the contribution of sport to the making of the Canadian nation focusing on the gradual transition from rural sporting practices to the emphasis on team sports that accompanied the industrial and urban transition Canada's Game Andrew Carl Holman, 2009 Almost every Canadian can hum the original Hockey Night in Canada theme even those who don't think of themselves as hockey fans For more than a century Canadians have seen something of themselves in the sport of hockey Canada's Game explores the critical aspects of this relationship Contributors address a broad range of themes in hockey past and present including spectacle and spectatorship the multiple meanings of hockey in Canadian fiction and the shaping influences of violence anti Americanism and regional rivalry From the Gardens to the Forum from the 1936 Olympics to the 1972 Summit Series from the imagined depictions in Canadian fiction to the fan's eye view Canada's Game looks at hockey's ability to reflect Canadian identity Contributors include Julian Ammirante Laurentian University at Georgian Jason Blake University of Ljubljana Slovenia Robert Dennis Queen's University Jamie Dopp University of Victoria Russell Field University of Manitoba Greg Gillespie Brock University Richard Harrison Mount Royal College Craig Hyatt Brock University Brian Kennedy Pasadena City College Karen E H Skinazi University of Alberta and Julie Stevens Brock University From the book The Giller Prize winning author David Adams Richards tells a humorous anecdote from his days as a writer in residence at the University of New Brunswick Fredericton It was in 1984 on the day after Team Canada had defeated the hated Soviet national team 3 to 2 in overtime and a committed hockey fan he was dying to chat with someone anyone about the great victory the night before The first person he encountered was a young English professor a good but perhaps pretentious scholar who had once been overheard saying that she could not see how anyone could live without reading Henry James Despite her erudition like Richards she was from small town New Brunswick and because of this he thought she must be a hockey fan Did you see the game last night No she replied we don't have a television don't approve of it but continued on saying that her husband had been eager to find out the result that morning on the radio He's heartbroken she said We were going for the Russians Richards face displayed his bewilderment at her treasonous statement Well we both hate Gretzky you see Her accent now turned slightly British he's just such a Canadian She smiled He paused uncomfortably and then asked her You hate greatness or just Canadian greatness American National Pastimes - A History Mark Dyreson, Jaime Schultz, 2016-04-14 When the colonies that became the USA were still dominions of the British Empire they began to imagine their sporting pastimes as finer recreations than even those enjoyed in the motherland From the war of independence and the creation of the republic to the twenty first century sporting pastimes have served as essential ingredients in forging nationhood in American history This collection gathers the work of an all star team of historians of American sport in order to explore the origins and meanings of the idea of national pastimes of a nation symbolized by its sports These wide ranging essays analyze the claims of particular sports to national pastime status from horse racing hunting and prize fighting in early American history to baseball basketball and football more than two centuries later These essays also investigate the legal political economic and culture patterns and the gender ethnic racial and class dynamics of national pastimes connecting sport to broader historical themes American National Pastimes chronicles how and why the USA has used sport to define and debate the contours of nation This book was published as a special issue of the International Journal of the History of Sport
