Howell G. M. Edwards,2021-11-09 The material for this book arose from the author s research into porcelains over many years as a collector in appreciation of their artistic beauty as an analytical chemist in the scientific interrogation of their body paste enamel pigments and glaze compositions and as a ceramic historian in the assessment of their manufactory foundations and their correlation with available documentation relating to their recipes and formulations A discussion of the role of analysis in the framework of a holistic assessment of artworks and specifically the composition of porcelain namely hard paste soft paste phosphatic bone china and magnesian is followed by its growth from its beginnings in China to its importation into Europe in the 16th Century A survey of European porcelain manufactories in the 17th and 18th Centuries is followed by a description of the raw materials minerals and recipes for porcelain manufacture and details of the chemistry of the high temperature firing processes involved therein The historical backgrounds to several important European factories are considered highlighting the imperfections in the written record that have been perpetuated through the ages The analytical chemical information derived from the interrogation of specimens from fragments shards or perfect finished items is reviewed and operational protocols established for the identification of a factory output from the data presented Several case studies are examined in detail across several porcelain manufactories to indicate the role adopted by modern analytical science with information provided at the quantitative elemental oxide and qualitative molecular spectroscopic levels where applicable The attribution of a specimen to a particular factory is either supported thereby or in some cases a potential reassessment of an earlier attribution is indicated Overall the information provided by analytical chemical data is seen to be extremely useful for porcelain identification and for its potential attribution in the context of a holistic forensic evaluation of hitherto unknown porcelain exemplars of questionable factory origins Charleston Kathryn N. Materiality, Techniques and Society in Pottery Production Daniel Albero Santacreu,2014-01-01 Daniel Albero Santacreu presents a wide overview of certain aspects of the pottery analysis and summarizes most of the methodological and theoretical information currently applied in archaeology in order to develop wide and deep analysis of ceramic pastes The book provides an adequate framework for understanding the way pottery production is organised and clarifies the meaning and role of the pottery in archaeological and traditional societies The goal of this book is to encourage reflection especially by those researchers who face the analysis of ceramics for the first time by providing a background for the generation of their own research and to formulate their own questions depending on their concerns and interests The three part structure of the book allows readers to move easily from the analysis of the reality and ceramic material culture to the world of the ideas and theories and to develop a dialogue between data and their interpretation Daniel Albero Santacreu is a Lecturer Assistant in the University of the Balearic Islands member of the Research Group Arqueo UIB and the Ceramic Petrology Group He has carried out the analysis of ceramics from several prehistoric societies placed in the Western Mediterranean as well as the study of handmade pottery from contemporary ethnic groups in Northeast Ghana A Son of Heaven Lytton Strachey,2005 Roger Fry, Apostle of Good Taste and Venice John Lello,2006 Julian Bell, the Violent
