Blue Blood Will Out:

Blue Blood Will Out Tim Heald, 2013-12-31 DIV At a for profit ancestral pile Bognor seeks an earl killing sniper divDIV As real estate moguls slice and dice the great properties of the English countryside the rambling grounds of Abney House are kept intact by being turned into a sort of theme park of the aristocracy for the public complete with cafeteria sailing museum and safari themed shooting gallery But the theme isn't complete until a visiting earl is felled by a sniper's bullet giving Abney House what every manor needs a blue blooded murder divDIV divDIV Normally this killing would not fall under the jurisdiction of Board of Trade investigator Simon Bognor but the downed earl was tied up in a top secret international exchange and the killing may have had a political motive As Bognor settles into life at the old estate he is forced to decide which will be more dangerous the sharpshooting assassin or the tedious aristocratic company div *Catalog of Copyright Entries. Sentinel Chickens Peter Doherty, 2012 The idea of sentinel chickens seemed pretty incongruous when I first heard the phrase as a young undergraduate The notion of the humble chicken waiting like a trained soldier alert and focused for some unseen and approaching enemy just didn't seem likely Hens en garde And yet guard they do Not only chickens but puffins eagles canaries and toucans birds of all kinds are recruited by humans to help us interpret changes in our increasingly challenged and unpredictable world These wonderful creatures continually sample the atmosphere oceans fields and forests signalling toxic and environmental dangers that threaten all vertebrates Through personal stories and fascinating examples Nobel prizewinner Peter Doherty shows also how birds have contributed to cutting edge medical research Studying birds has helped us to understand the nature of human cancer malaria and influenza and contributed to the development of new vaccines and cures In his trademark style Peter argues that since birds pollenate spread plant seeds and control insects endangering their habitats through human activities is a threat to our own wellbeing Sentinel Chickens shows why we should give our feathered friends our close sustained and caring attention
