Hartsock, 2008-05-31 The ancient world often thought in terms of physiognomics the idea that character can be discerned by studying outward physical features That physical descriptions carry moral freight in characterization has been largely missed in modern biblical scholarship and this study brings that to the forefront Specifically this is a study of one particular physical marker blindness When we look at Greco Roman literature a kind of literary topos begins to emerge a set of assumptions that ancient audiences would typically make when encountering blind characters Luke Acts makes use of such a topos in a way that becomes programmatic serving as a kind of interpretive key to Luke Acts that is generally unnoticed in modern scholarship

Bulletin of the Library Company of Philadelphia Library Company of Philadelphia, 1894 The Passive Eye Branka Arsić, 2003 The Passive Eye is a revolutionary and historically rich account of Berkeley's theory of vision In this formidable work the author considers the theory of the embodied subject and its passions in light of a highly dynamic conception of infinity Arsić shows the profound affinities between Berkeley and Spinoza and offers a highly textual reading of Berkeley on the concept of an exhausted subjectivity The author begins by following the Renaissance universe of vision particularly the paradoxical elusive nature of mirrors then shows how this conception of vision was translated into the optical devices and in what way the various ways of deception could be conceived Reading Berkeley against the backdrop of competing theories in relation to Leibniz Spinoza Newton Malebranche Hume Locke Molyneux and others this book gives a meticulous historic reconstruction of Berkeley s theory This excellent scholarly work presents Berkeley s theory in a new and radical light The book presented in three parts begins by presenting the conceptions of vision prior to Berkeley s intervention In the second part the author moves through a careful study of Descartes theory of vision to arrive at Berkeley The third part addresses the author s version of Berkeley in which the eye and the image become inseparable due to the collapse of the universe of representation The problem of vision becomes not that of representation but of presentation Through an erudite historic reading of Berkeley s theory and astute comparative assessments the author uncovers Berkeley s place as a contemporary theoretician corresponding with such thinkers as Deleuze Lacan Foucault and Derrida A Plain Commentary on the Four Holy Gospels John William Burgon,1856 Catholic World ,1894 Journal of the Royal Army Medical Corps Great Britain.
