post conflict settings their growing significance raises fundamental questions about their nature their role in different regions and contexts and their regulation This volume examines these issues with a focus on governance in particular the interaction between regulation and market forces It analyzes the current legal framework and the needs and possibilities for regulation in the years ahead The book as a whole is organized around four sets of questions which are reflected in the four parts of the book First why and how is regulation of PMCs now a challenging issue Secondly how have problems leading to a call for regulation manifested in different regions and contexts Third what regulatory norms and institutions currently exist and how effective are they And fourth what role has the market to play in regulation
