Silverman,1992-01-01 This paper is addressed to a broad audience of development professionals who are interested in both the substance of decentralisation issues and their impact on economic development The paper summarises experience with alternative decentralisation arrangements and suggests a new analytical framework for assessing the impact of such arrangements on the performance of economic development programmes and projects Consideration of alternative forms of decentralisation reveals the need to clarify and establish priorities among economic and political objectives The potential for conflict among multiple objectives and the need to assess decentralisation policies in terms of acceptable trade offs among those objectives summarises the importance of this paper

Sundaram,1997      Nepal's Federalism and the Pursuit of Deliberative Democracy Vishnu Kumari Tandon,2025-08-29 This book identifies the factors that either encourage or discourage participation and deliberation thereby demonstrating the potential and reality of deliberative democracy in Nepal at the local level Focusing on the local level planning process in two municipalities Buddhabhumi and Dhanushadham the book examines whether decentralized elements introduced by federalism encourage participation and deliberation or whether they continue to remain a challenge Throughout this exploration the author explores how the debate between common good and self interest unfolds within the context of deliberative democracy in Nepal A blend of empirical and theoretical investigation this book addresses the concept of common good and self interest in deliberative democracy in the context of unequal societies in South Asia A pioneering contribution on Nepal this book will be of interest to researchers studying political science federalism participatory democracy deliberative democracy and local governance in Nepal and South Asia      Lessons from Forest Decentralization Carol Colfer Pierce J,Ganga Dahal Ram,Doris Capistrano,2012 The decentralization of control over the vast forests of the world is moving at a rapid pace with both positive and negative ramifications for people and forests themselves The fresh research from a host of Asia Pacific countries described in this book presents rich and varied experience with decentralization and provides important lessons for other regions Beginning with historical and geographical overview chapters the book proceeds to more in depth coverage of the region s countries Research findings stress rights roles and responsibilities on the one hand and organization capacity building infrastructure and legal aspects on the other With these overarching themes in mind the authors take on many controversial topics and address practical challenges related to financing and reinvestment in sustainable forest management under decentralized governance Particular efforts have been made to examine decentralization scales from the local to the national and to address gender issues The result is a unique examination of decentralization issues in forestry with clear lessons for policy social equity forest management research development and conservation in forested areas across the globe from the tropics to temperate regions Published with CIFOR Nepal's 2072 federal constitution: Implications for the governance of the agricultural sector Kyle,

Jordan, Resnick, Danielle, 2016-12-22 In this paper we explore the implications of Nepal s new federal Constitution passed in September 2015 for governance of the agricultural sector Agriculture is the backbone of the Nepali economy providing a livelihood for approximately two thirds of the population contributing one third of the country s GDP and constituting more than half of the country s exports In transitioning from a unitary to a federal republic with greater authority and autonomy granted to subnational units of government it is of paramount importance to ensure that the agricultural sector is guided by coordinated planning retains sufficient human capacity and receives adequate fiscal resources These considerations are particularly important given that the governance of Nepal s agricultural sector already suffers from poor coordination low human resources capacity and inadequate financial resources Addressing these issues may become more difficult under a federal structure This paper begins by laying out the main challenges for agricultural governance in Nepal under the current structure To do so it relies on an original survey of 100 district agricultural and livestock officers in charge of local agricultural service delivery in Nepal as well as perspectives collected through more than two dozen semi structured interviews with officials from the Ministry of Agricultural Development the Ministry of Livestock Development civil society the private sector and donors Because Nepal is embarking on a pathway to more decentralized governance which has been well trodden by a number of other countries the paper proceeds by examining five case studies drawing lessons from India Indonesia Kenya Malaysia and South Africa Based on these analyses the paper offers policy recommendations on how the sector can be restructured to meet the constitutional provisions while simultaneously ensuring that the government can deliver on its long term objectives to develop the agricultural sector Fiscal Decentralization in Nepal Somalāla Suvedī, 2014 In Search of Better Governance in South Asia and Beyond Ishtiaq Jamil, Steinar Askvik, Tek Nath Dhakal, 2013-06-26 The pursuit for better governance has assumed center stage in developmental discourse as well as reform initiatives of all organizations working for the public welfare and includes such issues as service delivery and responding to citizens needs and demands In the era of globalization multilevel and new modes of governance are changing the traditional governance models of nation states accelerated by technological innovation rising citizen expectation policy intervention from international and multilateral donor communities and the hegemony of western ideology imposed on many developing nations However a universally accepted and agreed upon definition of governance still remains elusive There is no consensus or agreement as to what would be the nature and form of governance and public administration The question that is raised Is there a universal governance mechanism that fits in all contexts or governance mechanisms should be based on home grown ideas One can see various programs and policies of reforms and reorganizations in public administration in the developing countries but these efforts have not been effective to address the challenging issues of economic development employment generation poverty reduction ensuring equality of access to public services maintaining fairness and equity security and safety of citizens social cohesion democratic institution building ensuring broader participation in the decision making process and improving the quality of life Therefore there is a widespread concern for better governance or sound governance to bridge the gap between theory and practice making this book of interest to academics as well as policy makers in global public administration

Decentralization and Health Policy in South Asia Nisha Bellinger, 2024-09-02 This ambitious and insightful book provides a unique regional perspective on health policy across South Asia focusing on how the decentralization of policy and governance leads to differing health outcomes across different countries in the region Comparing the contexts and outcomes in Sri Lanka Pakistan India Nepal and Bangladesh the book asks how power sharing arrangements between central and subnational layers of government nevertheless result in varying levels of success across issues such as infant and under five mortality rates The book argues that it is the role of central government in formulating policy and how this feeds into regional implementation that partly explains the disparities in health outcomes across the region The book will interest students and scholars of South Asia politics global health and health policy more generally
