Fargher,2023-09-20 This study describes the beginnings of a movement which has created another face for Ethiopian Christianity The expatriate missionary evangelists who in 1927 were encouraged by Emperor Haile Selassie to work in southern Ethiopia intentionally by passed the Orthodox model and made a fresh start Three of the many facets of the movement comprise the body of the book There is the religious backdrop of Orthodox Christianity and the expatriates fundamentalist traditions then the praxis and polity of their work finally the post Occupation outcome which confirmed their choices Since its beginning in 1932 the New Churches Movement has impacted every part of Ethiopian society religious political and socio economic It demonstrates that a fresh start can be complementary rather than competitive The movement s success encourages missionary evangelists to continue making new beginnings Reluctant Aid Or Aiding the Reluctant? Steven Varnis,1990-01-01 Makes a persuasive case that the Marxist government of Ethiopia induced famine and was reluctant to obtain or use this benevolent aid to provide effective relief until its contribution to the achievement of

The Power of Continuity Eva Poluha,2004 In this gracefully written book Dr Eva Poluha wrestles with important issues of Ethiopian political culture and cultural continuity and transmission in general Drawing upon her years of experience in the country as well as the data from this school ethnography she has produced a stimulating and thought provoking work for those interested in problems of cross cultural education as well as in Ethiopia Herbert S Lewis Professor Emeritus Department of Anthropology University of Wisconsin Madison Children play a vital role as a source of information on politics but have been neglected as political actors in research contexts In this study children are used as a window to an Ethiopian society where hierarchical relations persist despite the numerous political and administrative transformations of the past century With data gathered through participant observation the book examines how young Addis Abeba school children learn to adapt to and reproduce relations of superordination or subordination based on gender age strength and social position The children s experiences are viewed in the historical context of state citizen relations where hierarchy and obsession with control have been and continue to be dominant The discussion focuses on the power of continuity in the reproduction of cultural patterns and political behaviour and on how change towards more egalitarian relations could come about Taxation, Responsiveness, and Accountability in Sub-Saharan Africa Wilson

Prichard,2015-09-11 This book captures the critical role of taxation in shaping government responsiveness and accountability in developing countries Institutional Change in the Horn of Africa Sandra F. Joireman,1997-10 Traditional theories of property rights change have posited an evolutionary progression of property rights towards private property in response to changes in the relative price ratio of land compared to the other factors of production Using case studies from two areas of Ethiopia and one area of Eritrea the dissertation demonstrates the role of political factors such as interest group preference and state intervention in directing property rights development away from a linear path The case studies trace the development of three separate systems of property rights throughout the twentieth century up to the Ethiopian revolution of 1974 Analysis of history and litigation in the three areas demonstrates that in none did property rights evolve spontaneously towards privatization In one area of the study relative price changes did not lead to changes in the system of property rights as the theory predicts In the other two areas changes in property rights followed a change in the relative price of land but these changes were brought about exogenously by the intervention of the government or interest groups in guiding property rights in a particular direction There are two theoretical conclusions to the study 1 property rights development does not always occur when we expect it to other factors such as vested interests and government reluctance can intervene with their development and 2 even if property rights do change in response to relative price changes they may not always move towards privatization or greater specification In addition one interesting empirical result of the research was that in communal systems of land tenure the transaction costs of land transfer are higher leading to a drag on economic efficiency in the overall economy of the region Generally the incorporation of political factors into the model of changing property rights leads to a less parsimonious but more accurate description of the progression of land rights in developing countries in particular Department of State News Letter United States.
