Dynamics of decision making: from evidence to preference and belief Erica Yu, David A. Lagnado, 2014-10-24 At the core of the many debates throughout cognitive science concerning how decisions are made are the processes governing the time course of preference formation and decision From perceptual choices such as whether the signal on a radar screen indicates an enemy missile or a spot on a CT scan indicates a tumor to cognitive value based decisions such as selecting an agreeable flatmate or deciding the guilt of a defendant significant and everyday decisions are dynamic over time Phenomena such as decoy effects preference reversals and order effects are still puzzling researchers For example in a legal context jurors receive discrete pieces of evidence in sequence and must integrate these pieces together to reach a singular verdict From a standard Bayesian viewpoint the order in which people receive the evidence should not influence their final decision and yet order effects seem a robust empirical phenomena in many decision contexts Current research on how decisions unfold especially in a dynamic environment is advancing our theoretical understanding of decision making This Research Topic aims to review and further explore the time course of a decision from how prior beliefs are formed to how those beliefs are used and updated over time towards the formation of preferences and choices and post decision processes and effects Research literatures encompassing varied approaches to the time scale of decisions will be brought into scope a Speeded decisions and post decision processes that require the accumulation of noisy and possibly non stationary perceptual evidence e g randomly moving dots stimuli within a few seconds with or without temporal uncertainty b Temporally extended value based decisions that integrate feedback values e g gambling machines and internally generated decision criteria e g when one switches attention selectively between the various aspects of several choice alternatives c Temporally extended belief based decisions that build on the integration of evidence which interacts with the decision maker s belief system towards the updating of the beliefs and the formation of judgments and preferences as in the legal context Research that emphasizes theoretical concerns including optimality analysis and mechanisms underlying the decision process both neural and cognitive

Strategic Decisions Vassilis Papadakis, Patrick Barwise, 2012-12-06 Over the past ten years there has been growing interest in the process of strategic decision making among both managers and researchers Strategic decisions are important for five main reasons They are large scale risky and hard to reverse they are a bridge between deliberate and emerging strategies they can be a major source of organizational learning they play an important part in the development of individual managers and they cut across functions and academic disciplines Strategic Decisions summarizes the current state of the art in research on strategic decision making with chapters prepared by leading strategy researchers The editors also present implications for current application and proposed directions for future research Handbook on Decision Making Chee Peng Lim, 2010-09-07 Decision making arises when we wish to select the best possible course of action from a set of alternatives With advancements of the digital technologies it is easy and almost instantaneous to gather a large volume of information and or data pertaining to a problem that we want to solve For instance the world wide web is perhaps the primary source of information and or data that we often turn to when we face a decision making problem However the information and or data that we obtain from the real world often are complex and comprise various kinds of noise Besides real world information and or data often are incomplete and ambiguous owing to uncertainties of the environments All these make decision making a challenging task To cope with the challenges of decision making searchers have designed and developed a variety of decision support systems to provide assistance in human decision making processes The main aim of this book is to provide a small collection of techniques stemmed from artificial intelligence as well as other complementary methodologies that are useful for the design and development of intelligent decision support systems Application examples of how these intelligent decision support systems can be utilized to help tackle a variety of real world problems in different mains e g business management manufacturing transportation and food industries and biomedicine are also presented A total of twenty
