Death Work Police Trauma And The Psychology Of Survival:

Death Work Vincent E. Henry, 2004 Through extensive field observation and structured interviews with NYPD officers Henry reveals patterns of psychological transformation and social consequences of police encounters with death Death Work Vincent E. Henry, 2004-04-01 In this fascinating new book Vincent Henry a 21 year veteran of the NYPD who recently retired to become a university professor explores the psychological transformations and adaptations that result from police officers encounters with death Police can encounter death frequently in the course of their duties and these encounters may range from casual contacts with the deaths of others to the most profound and personally consequential confrontations with their own mortality Using the survivor psychology model as its theoretical base this insightful and provocative research ventures into a previously unexplored area of police psychology to illuminate and explore the new modes of adaptation thought and feeling that result from various types of death encounters in police work The psychology of survival asserts that the psychological world of the survivor one who has come in close physical or psychic contact with death but nevertheless managed to live is characterized by five themes psychic numbing death guilt the death imprint suspicion of counterfeit nurturance and the struggle to make meaning These themes become manifest in the survivor's behavior permeating his or her lifestyle and worldview Drawing on extensive interviews with police officers in five nominal categories rookie officers patrol sergeants crime scene technicians homicide detectives and officers who survived a mortal combat situation in which an assailant or another officer died Henry identifies the impact such death encounters have upon the individual the police organization and the occupational culture of policing He has produced a comprehensive and highly textured interpretation of police psychology and police behavior bolstered by the unique insights that come from his personal experience as an officer his intimate familiarity with the subtleties and nuances of the police culture's value and belief systems and his meticulous research and rigorous method Death Work provides a unique prism through which to view the individual organizational and social dynamics of contemporary urban policing With a foreword by Robert Jay Lifton and a chapter devoted to the local police response to the World Trade Center attacks Death Work will be of interest to psychologists and criminal justice experts as well as police officers eager to gain insight into their unique relationship to death Trauma and Resilience in Contemporary Australian Policing Andrew Paterson, 2021-08-18 This book examines how fifty police officers in South Australia keep well and bounce back from duty related traumatic experience in the absence of practical accessible and timely organisational support It investigates mechanisms police officers presently use to normalise their duty related traumatic experiences to preserve the delicate professional balance between coping and psychic numbing and avoid the much publicised perils of a PTSD diagnosis while being appropriately responsive to colleagues victims and survivors in their daily work environment By revealing how police officers manage trauma outside of the expectations of mental health professionals union representatives and police leadership innovative approaches and recommendations are offered to support first responders in moving from assumptions of post traumatic stress and through post traumatic growth The book considers recent advances in post traumatic growth and resilience theory and reinterprets exposure in a positive context as well as preventative experiences in Australia and internationally

The Psychology of Police Deadly Force Encounters

Laurence Miller,2020-02-11 The Psychology of Police Deadly Force Encounters Science Practice and Police is a fascinating look into the reality of police work The author integrates noted theories into a street wise understanding of being a police officer The focus of this book is on the use of deadly force by officers a topic of considerable importance The author discusses the psychosocial aspects of deadly force use stemming from the individual officer the situation organizational influences and the police culture Expanding further into social issues the controversial topic of race and use of deadly force is discussed This depiction looks at both sides that of racial victimization and that of the police which helps to provide a rather unique perspective on this important issue Of interest the author breaks down the different dimensions of cognition as a factor in decision making among police including the perception of the situation the action taken depending on that perception and the role of present and past memory This will make for a useful training topic to alert officers to the cognitive processes that go into deadly force use processes that they have the control to change to make a better decision Next the book delves into the biological factors that may be involved in police decision making again where deadly force is involved The various negative psychological impacts that a deadly force situation may bring about are identified and explained This book will be useful as a tool for both law enforcement practitioners and researchers to better understand the intricacies of deadly force by the police For researchers the book has a multitude of references available for further exploration It will prove to be a useful guide and reference volume for police managers and supervisors mental health clinicians investigators attorneys judges law enforcement educators and trainers rank and file police officers including expert witnesses
