Selected Works of Arthur Willis Colton Arthur Willis Colton,2020-09-28 IN the Fall of the year when Krakatoa blew its head off in the East Indies and sent its dust around the world I fell sick of a fever in the city of Portate which is on the west coast of South America Portate had the latest brand of municipal enterprise and the oldest brand of fever But they call any kind of sickness a fever there to save trouble and bury the alien with as little trouble as possible I started for home and came as far as Nassau which is a town in the Bahamas There a wasted and dismal shape I somehow fell into the hands of one Dr Ulswater who tended and medicined by back into the world of sunlight and other interesting objects Nassau runs up the side of a bluff and overlooks a blue and dimpled harbour Dr Ulswater at last began to take me with him to lie on the rocks and watch him search in the harbour shoals for small cuttlefish He used a three pronged spear to stir them out of their lairs and a long knife to put into their vital points with skilful surgery They waved and slapped their wild blistered arms around his neck and shoulders while he poked placidly into their vitality So being entertained and happy I recovered from yellow fever By that time my handsome name given by parents who recognised my merits Christopher Kirby had come down handily in Dr Ulswater s usage to Kit and we loved each other as two men can who are to each other a perpetual entertainment Dr Ulswater was a large bushy man in the prime of a varied life Born an American he had studied in German universities practised medicine in Italy and afterward in Ceylon One of his hobbies was South American archaeology He owned a silver mine in Nevada and kept a sort of residence in New York at this time and was collecting specimens for a New England museum So that he was what you might call a distributed man for he had been in most countries of the globe yet he was not a globe trotter but rather a floater in a manner resembling sea weed that drifts from place to place but wherever it drifts or clings is tranquil and accommodating He seemed to me suitable to the tropics and their seas large easy and warm of body his learning like the sea mysterious and bottomless his mind luxuriously fertile but somewhat ungoverned His idioms were mixed his conversations opalescent his criticism of himself was that he had not personality enough No my dear he said wrapping a dead cuttlefish up neatly in its own arms I am like a cuttlefish whose vital point is loose You are an ignorant person with prepossessions beyond belief and absurd deferences for clothing and cleanliness but you have personality and entertaining virtues Therefore I will let you smoke two cigars to night instead of one and to morrow maybe three for your sickness is becoming an hypocrisy Then we went over the rocks to our boat and the sulky sleepy negro boatman the doctor with his flabby bundled cuttlefish and I with a basket full of coral and conch shells The boatman rowed us out over a sea garden with submerged coral grottos pink and white coral branching and the brain coral sea fans and purple sea feathers coral shrubs coral in shelving masses also sponges and green hanging moss and yellow emerald and scarlet fish silver satin ringed fringed spotted all deep beneath in their liquid deluding atmosphere a cold vision outlandish brilliant and grotesque over which we floated and looked down The Anti-Jacobin Novel M. O. Grenby, 2001-09-06 The French Revolution sparked an ideological debate which also brought Britain to the brink of revolution in the 1790s Just as radicals wrote Jacobin fiction so the fear of rebellion prompted conservatives to respond with novels of their own indeed these soon outnumbered the Jacobin novels This was the first survey of the full range of conservative novels produced in Britain during the 1790s and early 1800s M O Grenby examines the strategies used by conservatives in their fiction thus shedding new light on how the anti Jacobin campaign was understood and organised in Britain Chapters cover the representation of revolution and rebellion the attack on the new philosophy of radicals such as Godwin and Wollstonecraft and the way in which hierarchy is defended in these novels Grenby's book offers an insight into the society which produced and consumed anti Jacobin novels and presents a case for reexamining these neglected texts The Debatable Land Between this World and the Next Robert Dale Owen, 1871

Scotland's Books Robert Crawford, 2009-01-30 From Treasure Island to Trainspotting Scotland's rich literary tradition has influenced writing across centuries and cultures far beyond its borders Here for the first time is a single volume presenting the glories of fifteen centuries of Scottish literature This is a marvelous and lively literary history that will appeal to general readers Scots and travelers alike The Novels and Tales of Robert Louis Stevenson: In the South Seas. A foot-note to history Robert Louis Stevenson, 1896 Seaing through the Past Joanna Rostek, 2011-01-01 From Daniel Defoe to Joseph Conrad from Virginia Woolf to Derek Walcott the sea has always been an inspiring setting and a powerful symbol for generations of British and Anglophone writers Seaing through the Past is the first study to explicitly address the enduring relevance of the maritime metaphor in contemporary Anglophone fiction through in depth readings of fourteen influential and acclaimed novels published in the course of the last three decades The book trenchantly argues that in contemporary fiction maritime imagery gives expression to postmodernism's troubled relationship with historical knowledge as theorised by Hayden White Linda Hutcheon and others The texts in question are interpreted against the backdrop of four aspects of metahistorical problematisation Thus among others Iris Murdoch's The Sea 1978 is read in the context of auto biographical writing John Banville's The Sea 2005 as a narrative of personal trauma Julian Barnes's A History of the World in 10 1/2 Chapters 1989 as investigating the connection between discourses of origin and the politics of power and Fred D Aguiar's Feeding the Ghosts 1997 as opening up a postcolonial perspective on the sea and history Persuasive and topical Seaing through the Past offers a compelling guide to the literary oceans of today Civil War - Boxed Set: 40+ Historical Novels & Tales of the American War Stephen Crane, Ambrose Bierce, Mark Twain, Joseph A.
