Hibbing, Elizabeth Theiss-Morse, 2002-08-29

Americans often complain about the operation of their government but scholars have never developed a complete picture of people's preferred type of government. In this provocative and timely book Hibbing and Theiss-Morse, employing an original national survey and focus groups, report the governmental procedures Americans desire. Contrary to the prevailing view that people want greater involvement in politics, most citizens do not care about most policies and therefore are content to turn over decision-making authority to someone else. People's wish for the political system is that decision makers be empathetic and especially non-self-interested, not that they be responsive and accountable to the people's largely nonexistent policy preferences or even worse that the people be obligated to participate directly in decision making. Hibbing and Theiss-Morse conclude by cautioning communitarians, direct democrats, social capitalists, deliberation theorists, and all those who think that greater citizen involvement is the solution to society's problems.

Politics and Community-Based Research

Sarah Charlton, Sophie Didier, Kirsten Dörmann, Claire Bénit-Gbaffou, 2019-10-01 Politics and Community Based Research

Perspectives from Yeoville Studio Johannesburg provides a textured analysis of a contested urban space that will resonate with other contested urban spaces around the world and challenges researchers involved in such spaces to work in creative and politicised ways. This edited collection is built around the experiences of Yeoville Studio, a research initiative based at the School of Architecture and Planning at the University of the Witwatersrand Johannesburg. Through themed illustrated stories of the people and places of Yeoville, the book presents a nuanced portrait of the vibrance and complexity of a post-apartheid peri-central neighbourhood that has often been characterised as a slum in Johannesburg. These narratives are interwoven with theoretical chapters by scholars from a diversity of disciplinary backgrounds reflecting on the empirical experiences of the Studio and examining academic research processes. These chapters unpack the engagement of the Studio in Yeoville including issues of trust, the need to align policy with lived realities and social needs, the political dimensions of the knowledge produced and the ways in which this knowledge was and could be used.

The Future of Us All

Roger Sanjek, 2000-02 The result of more than a dozen years' work, this remarkable book immerses us in Elmhurst Corona's social political life from the 1960s through the 1990s, focusing on the combined impact of racial change, immigrant settlement, governmental decentralization, assaults on local quality of life which stemmed from the city's 1975 fiscal crisis, the policies of its last three mayors. The book examines the ways in which residents have forged tested alliances across lines of race, ethnicity, language.

Anthropology and Development

Jean-Pierre Olivier De-Sardan, 2008-02-29 This book re-establishes the relevance of mainstream anthropological and sociological approaches to development processes and simultaneously recognizes that contemporary development ought to be anthropology's principal area of study. Professor de Sardan argues for a socio-anthropology of change and development that is a deeply empirical, multidimensional, diachronic study of social groups and their interactions. The Introduction provides a thought-provoking examination of the principal new approaches that have emerged in the discipline during the 1990s. Part I then makes clear the complexity of social change and development and the ways in which socio anthropology can measure up to the challenge of this complexity Part II looks more closely at some of the leading variables involved in the development process including relations of production the logics of social action the nature of knowledge forms of mediation and political strategies
