Decentralisation And Civil Society In Uganda The Quest For Good Governance:

Decentralisation and Civil Society in Uganda Apolo Nsibambi, 1998 The process of decentralisation was enshrined in Uganda's 1995 constitution The achievements and challenges in this process of decentralisation are analysed in this collection of essays The issues are examined in relation to various aspects legal institutional administrative financial and human resources management The six essays with an introduction and conclusion by the editor explain how the quest for good governance is intertwined with civil society institutions such as traditional leaders and non governmental organisations Whilst impressive progress is considered to have been made the authors argue that there remains much work to be done

Decentralization and Local Governance in Developing Countries Pranab Bardhan, Dilip Mookherjee, 2006-06-16 Over the past three decades the developing world has seen increasing devolution of political and economic power to local governments Decentralization is considered an important element of participatory democracy and along with privatization and deregulation represents a substantial reduction in the authority of national governments over economic policy The contributors to Decentralization and Local Governance in Developing Countries examine this institutional transformation from comparative and interdisciplinary perspectives offering detailed case studies of decentralization in eight countries Bolivia Brazil China India Indonesia Pakistan South Africa and Uganda Some of these countries witnessed an unprecedented big bang shift toward comprehensive political and economic decentralization Bolivia in 1995 and Indonesia after the fall of Suharto in 1998 Brazil and India decentralized in an uneven and more gradual manner In some other countries such as Pakistan devolution represented an instrument for consolidation of power of a nondemocratic national government In China local governments were granted much economic but little political power South Africa made the transition from the undemocratic decentralization of apartheid to decentralization under a democratic constitution The studies provide a comparative perspective on the political and economic context within which decentralization took place and how this shaped its design and possible impact Contributors Omar Azfar Gianpaolo Baiocchi Pranab Bardhan Shubham Chaudhuri Ali Cheema Jean Paul Faguet Bert Hofman Kai Kaiser Philip E Keefer Asim Ijaz Khwaja Justin Yifu Lin Mingxing Liu Jeffrey Livingston Patrick Meagher Dilip Mookherjee Ambar Narayan Adnan Qadir Ran Tao Tara Vishwanath Martin Wittenberg Colonial

Legacies and Regime Hegemony in Uganda Joshua B. Rubongoya, 2025-05-13 This book explains the prevalence of electoral authoritarianism or multi party autocracy in the politics of sub Saharan Africa and examines why repeated elections have not deepened democracy Using Uganda as a case study the book examines the hegemonic regimes that underpin electoral authoritarian regimes in the context of a colonial legacy Employing a historical institutionalist approach the author considers independence struggles as formative moments and the nationalist period as a critical juncture in Uganda's historical experience The analysis posits that the structure and dynamic of political organization participation adopted in the run up to independence and the responses by the colonial state laid the ground for movement politics and a path toward post colonial autocratic rule Shedding light on how to deconstruct movement politics and consolidate democracy in Africa this book will be of interest to scholars of African politics and democratization

Decentralization and Development Partnership Fumihiko Saito, 2012-12-06 Decentralization an essential pillar of institutional reform is of critical importance in developing countries particularly in regard to democratization effective development and good governance Uganda since 1986 and the start of decentralization measures under Yoweri Museveni and the National Resistance Movement has represented one of the most serious commitments in Sub Saharan Africa With the benefit of extensive fieldwork Fumihiko Saito demonstrates how conflict resolution information dissemination and encouragement of the many and varied stakeholders to form partnerships are critical to successfully bringing services closer to the people Decentralization and Development Partnerships Lessons from Uganda goes beyond theory to compare academic assumptions to the reality of decentralization implementation in modern Uganda Although the process is by no means free of difficulties Saito concludes that a win win outcome is a real possibility

Decentralisation and Transformation of Governance in Uganda Nakanyike Musisi, 2007 Uganda s decentralization policy is one of the most ambitious and radical in sub Saharan Africa A long tradition of local government already existed in Uganda in 1986 when the National Resistance Movement came to power so when the Presidential Policy Statement on decentralization was issued in 1992 it only formalized and articulated the Ugandan government s commitment to the decentralized system of governance This commitment was subsequently strengthened and maintained through the provisions of the 1995 Uganda Constitution Decentralisation led to the devolution of broad powers of administration and implementation to the districts leaving the centre with responsibility for matters of defence and law and order This book examines the decentralization project after it has been in place for a number of years and deals with relevant crucial issues Delius Asiimwe is a Senior Research Fellow at the Makerere Institute of Social Research Uganda Nakanyike B Musisi is the Executive Director of the Makerere Institute of Social Research Uganda

Healing the Wounds Marie-Claire Foblets, Trutz von Trotha, 2004-10 In recent decades the world has experienced the rise of so called low intensity conflicts Unlike conventional wars these very bloody armed conflicts are no longer the affair of state governments and their armies In their place appear police like armed units security services and secret services groups and organizations of religious political and social fanatics ready to resort to violence militias bands of mercenaries or just gangs of thugs led by the condottiere of the 21st century consisting of militant charismatics militia generals drug barons and warlords of various kinds They conduct wars in which the soldiers no longer wear uniforms and there is no meeting of armies in open battle The armed organizations fight in urban agglomerations and in difficult inaccessible regions The combatants fight for religion and quasi religious ideologies for the rights of the people or national liberation for power gain and booty and above all for recognition For the practice of peace this kind of war has far reaching consequences In this book the authors examine various paths to peace and reconciliation in low intensity conflicts They look at processes of peace making from South Africa and the North of Mali to Indonesia and South East Asia Common to most studies is that they stress the particular local contexts of peace making tied to the highly localized nature of most low intensity conflicts The logic of peace has become a logic of local and regional power The articles shed new light not only on ways and chances of interventions by the international community but also on the role of nongovernmental organisations in violent conflicts Governing Africa's Forests in a Globalized World Laura Anne German,Alain Karsenty,Anne Marie Tiani,2009-12-01 Many countries around the world are engaged in decentralization processes and most African countries face serious problems with forest governance from benefits sharing to illegality and sustainable forest management This book summarizes experiences to date on the extent and nature of decentralization and its outcomes most of which suggest an underperformance of governance reforms and explores the viability of different governance instruments in the context of weak governance and expanding commercial pressures over forests Findings are grouped into two thematic areas decentralization livelihoods and sustainable forest management and international trade finance and forest sector governance reforms The authors examine diverse forces shaping the forest sector including the theory and practice of decentralization usurpation of authority corruption and illegality inequitable patterns of benefits capture and expansion of international trade in timber and carbon credits and discuss related outcomes on livelihoods forest condition and equity The book builds on earlier volumes exploring different dimensions of decentralization and perspectives from other world regions and distills dimensions of forest governance that are both unique to Africa and representative of broader global patterns The authors ground their analysis in relevant theory while drawing out implications of their findings for policy and practice Beyond the State in Rural Uganda Ben Jones,2008-12-18 In this innovative study Ben Jones argues that scholars too often assume that the state is the most important force behind change in local political communities in Africa Studies look to the state and to the impact of government reforms as ways of understanding processes of development and change Using the example of Uganda regarded as one of Africa s few success stories Jones chronicles the insignificance of the state and the marginal impact of Western development agencies Extensive ethnographic fieldwork in a Ugandan village reveals that it is churches the village court and organizations based on family and kinships obligations that represent the most significant sites of innovation and social transformation Groundbreaking and critical in turn Beyond the State offers a new anthropological perspective on how to think about processes of social and political change in poorer parts of the world It should appeal to anyone interested in African development National Integration in Uganda 1962-2013 Nsibambi, Apolo Robin,2014-10-20 National Integration in Uganda 1962 2013 delves into the problems that have beset Uganda on the path to national integration and explores the prospects for consolidating this integration The book reviews the process of incorporating three regions Buganda Karamoja and the Northern Region into present day Uganda and examines the effects of this process Besides ethno cultural diversity what impact has religious diversity had on this process And what role has the language factor played Is integration in terms of territorial integrity social cohesion and subordination to a central authority over the long term possible The book offers insights that are crucial to the achievement of Uganda's dream of nationhood

Decentralisation in Africa Gordon Crawford, Christof Hartmann, 2008 Decentralisation in Afrika is een sobere beoordeling van wat decentralisatie precies kan bereiken Decentralisatie van overheden in Afrikaanse landen en elders in de derde wereld krijgt de laatste tijd een impuls vaak gedreven door Multilaterale en bilaterale instanties de donoren Maar worden de voordelen hiervan wel gerealiseerd In dit boek worden vraagtekens gezet bij de kwestie of decentralisatie wel een gunstige uitweg biedt voor de armoede en het conflict in Afrika

Public Sector Reform in Developing and Transitional Countries Christopher Rees, Farhad Hossain, 2013-09-13 Over recent decades decentralization has emerged as a key Public Sector Reform strategy in a wide variety of international contexts Yet despite its emergence as a ubiquitous activity that cuts across disciplinary lines in international development decentralization is understood and applied in many different ways by parties acting from contrary perspectives This book offers a fascinating insight into theory and practice surrounding decentralization activities in the Public Sectors of developing and transitional countries In drawing on the expertise of established scholars the book explores the contexts achievements progress and challenges of decentralization and local governance Notably the contributions contained in this book are genuinely international in nature the chapters explore aspects of decentralization and local governance in contexts as diverse as Ghana Hong Kong India Indonesia Kazakhstan Morocco Tanzania Uganda and Viet Nam In summary by examining the subject of decentralization with reference to specific developing and transitional Public Sector contexts in which it has been practiced this book offers an excellent contribution towards a better understanding of the theory and practice of decentralization and local governance in international settings This book was published as a special double issue of the International Journal of Public Administration

Between Militarism and Technocratic Governance Anders Sjögren, 2013 State civil society relations in Africa have during recent decades been transformed in the context of economic liberalisation and state reform This study explores state civil society relations in contemporary Uganda from 1986 to the present in order to illustrate and explain the scope for and capacity of different social forces to create access to and democratise the state The study interrogates state civil society relations under the incumbent National Resistance Movement government as these are expressed through forms of interest representation and conflict regulation in different political arenas It analyses this problem through an empirical study of the health sector at both national and local levels Changes in the health regime the rules and practices that regulate health politics are analysed by a historical reconstruction of how different health regimes evolved from demands from social forces on the colonial and post colonial state in relation to broader patterns of political change The ruling political coalition from 1986 has promoted a model for capitalist development based on donor driven economic growth institutional reform and political monopoly what is referred to in the study as technocratic governance Throughout however the technocratic tendency has been shaped in relation to the political economy of militarism as a more openly repressive form of authoritarian rule The study argues that limits to democratisation of state society relations within the health sector and of Ugandan politics at large are best explained by relations of domination in society within the state and among external political forces The main conclusion is that democratisation of the state has been resisted by ruling groups and therefore restricted

Governing Kenya Gedion Onyango, Goran Hyden, 2021-04-15 This book is authored by some of the renowned scholars in Africa who take on the task to understand how Kenya is governed in this century from a public policy perspective The book's public policy approach addresses three general and pertinent questions 1 how are policies made in a political context where change is called for but institutional legacies tend to stand in the way 2 how are power and authority shared among institutional actors in government and society and 3 how effective is policymaking at a time when policy problems are becoming increasingly complex and involving multiple stakeholders in Africa This book provides an updated and relevant foundation for teaching policy politics and administration in Kenya It is also a useful guide for politicians the civil society and businesses with an interest in how Kenya is governed Furthermore it addresses issues of comparability how does the Kenyan case fit into a wider African context of policymaking This volume is a major contribution to comparative policy analysis by focusing on the policy processes in Kenya a country undergoing modernization of its economic and political institutions Written by experts with a keen eye for the commonalities and differences the country shares with other nations it covers a range of topics like the role of experts and politicians in policymaking the nature of public accountability the impact of social media on policy actors and the challenges of teaching policy studies in the country As a first comprehensive study of an African nation Governing Kenya will remain a key text for years to come Michael Howlett Burnaby Mountain Chair of Political Science Simon Fraser University Canada A superb example of development scholarship which sets aside best practice nostrums and focuses on governance challenges specific to time and place while holding on to a comparative perspective Useful to scholars and practitioners not only in Kenya but across developing areas I strongly recommend it Brian Levy teaches at the School of Advanced International Studies Johns Hopkins University USA and the University of Cape Town South Africa This book is an exploration of important deliberations of interest for those of us interested in deepening the understanding of public policy theories and their application within a specific African setting Wilson Muna Lecturer of Public Policy Kenyatta University Nairobi Kenya This collection of think pieces on public policy in Kenya gives the reader theoretical and practical hooks critical to the analysis of the implementation of the sovereign policy document in Kenya the 2010 Constitution Willy Mutunga Chief Justice President of the Supreme Court Republic of Kenya 2011-2016 Governing Kenya provides a comprehensive analysis of public policymaking in Kenya The book integrates public policy theory with extensive empirical examples to provide a valuable portrait of the political and economic influences on policy choices in this important African country The editors have brought together a group of significant scholars to produce an invaluable contribution to the literature on public policy in Africa B Guy Peters Maurice Folk
