Decentralization Mirage Comparing Decisionmaking Arrangements In Four High Schools:

The Decentralization Mirage Bruce Allen Bimber, 1994 This study analyzes decisionmaking at four high schools having varying degrees of decentralization and finds that decentralization efforts can fail to significantly change external constraints and decisionmaking authority

Bold Plans for School Restructuring Samuel C. Stringfield, Steven M. Ross, Lana Smith, 2012-11-12 Two powerful forces are driving American s demands for better schools one longstanding force is idealistic and the other is new and economic The current group of young Americans is in danger of being the first full generation to consistently make less money and enjoy fewer worldly rewards than their parents The intersection of idealistic and pragmatic forces has produced an era of calls for reform in U S education that is unparalleled calls that have resulted in the creation of the New American Schools Development Corporation NASDC The chapters in this book highlight the path traveled by NASDC a private non profit corporation charged with creating new break the mold school designs for the 21st century and describes the first three years accomplishments of nine NASDC development teams

Comprehensive Reform for Urban High Schools Nettie E. Legters, 2002 This text offers the Talent Development Approach as an alternative to contemporary US educational reform efforts It details organizational curricular and instructional strategies to provide practitioners with a workable blueprint for whole school reform

School District Leadership Matters Bruce Sheppard, Jean Brown, David Dibbon, 2009-03-08 School District Leadership Matters challenges policy makers administrators and academics in the field of educational leadership to reassess their traditional approaches to learning working and planning The authors believe that government restructuring standards based reforms and centrally imposed strategic planning have been painfully ineffective As a consequence student learning has become increasingly superficial and inauthentic This book bridges the traditional divide between the generalizations of social science theory on the one hand and the world of educational practice on the other It argues that a more promising approach to education reform is through effective school district leadership Sheppard Brown and Dibbon draw on their collective experience both as educational leaders and researchers of leadership having spent five years researching and working in one school district Here they show how a district superintendent can successfully navigate the paradoxes and challenges of facilitating collaborative leadership in a school district with a traditionally hierarchical organizational structure As a conclusion to their work the authors highlight what they call five recognitions that deepen readers understanding of school district leadership They illuminate too ways that senior level practitioners can apply theory to practice in order to break down the traditional hierarchical bureaucracies that inhibit learning and create professional learning communities School District Leadership Matters urges researchers graduate students practitioners and policymakers to focus on improving authentic learning for all students and argues that the best hope rests with effective school district leadership This empirically based yet practical book provides new insights and questions for academic researchers and will inspire policy makers and practitioners to imagine what could be and to work towards it Reinventing Public Education Paul Hill, Lawrence C. Pierce, James W. Guthrie, 2009-02-15 A heated debate is raging over our nation's public schools and how they should be reformed with proposals ranging from imposing national standards to replacing public education altogether with a voucher system for private schools Combining decades of experience in education the authors propose an innovative approach to solving the problems of our school system and find a middle ground between these extremes Reinventing Public Education shows how contracting would radically change the way we operate our schools while keeping them public and accessible to all and making them better able to meet standards of achievement and equity Using public funds local school boards would select private providers to operate individual schools under formal contracts specifying the type and quality of instruction In a hands on concrete fashion the authors provide a thorough explanation of the pros and cons of school contracting and how it would work in practice They show how contracting would free local school boards from operating schools so they can focus on improving educational policy how it would allow parents to choose the best school for their children and finally how it would ensure that schools are held accountable and academic standards are met While retaining a strong public role in education contracting enables schools to be more imaginative adaptable and suited to the needs of children and families In presenting an alternative vision for America's schools Reinventing Public Education is too important to be ignored Selected Papers in School Finance ,1996 Resources in Education ,1995-05 Improving Governance Laurence E. Lynn Jr., Carolyn J. Heinrich, Carolyn J. Hill, 2001-04-05 Policymakers and public managers around the world have become preoccupied with the question of how their goals can be achieved in a way that rebuilds public confidence in government Yet because public policies and programs increasingly are being administered through a complicated web of jurisdictions agencies and public private partnerships evaluating their effectiveness is more difficult than in the past Though social scientists possess insightful theories and powerful methods for conducting empirical research on governance and public management their work is too often fragmented and irrelevant to the specific tasks faced by legislators administrators and managers Proposing a framework for research based on the premise that any particular governance arrangement is embedded in a wider social fiscal and political context Laurence E Lynn Jr Carolyn J Heinrich and Carolyn J Hill argue that theory based empirical research when well conceived and executed can be a primary source of fundamental durable knowledge about governance and policy management Focusing on complex human services such as public assistance child protection and public education they construct an integrative multilevel logic of governance that can help researchers increase the sophistication power and relevance of their work Alfred P.  Conley,1997 Authentic Achievement Fred M. Newmann,1996-10-28 This new book presents the findings of a five year federally funded study that examined the connection between school restructuring and student achievement Investigating twenty four elementary and secondary schools from twenty two districts across the country the researchers found that restructuring efforts fail when there is too much focus on structure and technique and not enough attention paid to the intellectual quality of student and teacher work and to the vitality of the school community Using a wealth of examples the authors provide a vivid picture of the conditions under which innovations in a school s organization contribute to student achievement extending learning beyond rote memorization of isolated facts to thinking disciplined understanding and
