Decisive Writerie:

Buried Alone. A story. By a new writer [i.e. Charles W. Wood]. ,1869 Forensic Handwriting Identification Ron Morris, Ron N. Morris, 2000 A specialist in questioned documents Morris reviews the basic concepts of what affects people's writing such as how they hold the pen, position the paper, move their fingers, hand, wrist and so on. The examiner he explains should be able to visualize the movements of the writer, evaluate pen direction and determine the significance of such factors as relative relationships between the various parts of writing and the influence of writing on paper with or without a pre-drawn base. Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc. Portland, OR Beyond the Margin Paolo Giordano, Anthony Julian Tamburri, 1998 The editors' goal in this book is to give a critical overview of where Italian American literary and cultural studies are today. To this end Beyond the Margin includes three types of essays: the characteristics of Italian American literature and culture in a general sense; specific writers; and film.

Canonical Texts: Bearers of Absolute Authority - Bible, Koran, Veda, Tipiaka Rein Fernhout, 2023-12-28 This book introduces a new approach to the comparative study of sacred texts: here the Christian Bible, the Islamic Koran, the Hindu Veda, and the Buddhist Tipiaka. The author demonstrates that in spite of their great differences, these works show a fundamental analogy. Considered as canonical within their own religious context, each text possesses absolute authority in comparison with other authoritative texts from their respective religious traditions. This fundamental analogy allows one to describe the growth and history of these canons step by step as a process that takes place in analogous phases that are clearly distinguishable. The author follows a strictly phenomenological method: he tries to understand the development of these canons in terms of a potential that lies within the phenomena themselves, i.e. the texts, while refraining in any way from assessing their claim to absolute authority. In part I the author describes the development from the revelation of the texts to a climax with respect to reflection on the canons. This climax has been reached in all four cases. Part II investigates the crisis that these canons are currently undergoing as a consequence of the modern intellectual climate. Can we expect that this crisis will be overcome by the canons? And if so, will they be in a position of mutual exclusion or will they form a sort of unity such as, for example, the Old and New Testament in the Christian Bible? Finally, the author traces what the religions themselves have postulated about the future of their respective canons. The result is surprising: the current crisis is only a faint reflection of what, according to age-old predictions, awaits the canons in the future.

Kant's Legacy Predrag Cicovacki, 2001 The late Lewis White Beck, Professor of Philosophy at the University of Rochester for many years, was one of the world's leading Kant scholars. Beck considered the most significant element of Kant's rich, complex, and controversial legacy to be the ultimate philosophical question: What is Man? Kant's answer that humans are creators is ambiguous. On the one hand, it dignifies humans by elevating them above blind mechanical forces of nature. But it also imposes difficult burdens, including the task of providing a unitary worldview and an immanently grounded system of values and norms. The contributors to this volume, under Beck's influence, concur that this theme is of central importance.

for the proper understanding and evaluation of Kant's legacy. The papers address issues concerning creativity in all aspects of human experience from knowledge of the external world to self-knowledge from moral to religious dilemmas from judgments of taste to the art of living with a constant awareness of the limitations as well as the possibilities of such creativity. Predrag Cicovacki is Associate Professor of Philosophy, College of the Holy Cross.

Travels in the Colonies in 1773-1775 Described in the Letters of William Mylne, William Mylne, 2021-10-15. Travels in the Colonies in 1773-1775 Described in the Letters of William Mylne contains a narrative of the two years that Scottish architect and engineer William Mylne spent in the American colonies. The letters included in this volume, written from Mylne's own pen to his sister Anne and brother Robert, document Mylne's journeys from his home in Edinburgh to the American colonies in South Carolina, Georgia, Charlestown, and New York. Once Can Be Enough, Allan Franklin, Ronald Laymon, 2020-11-23. There has recently been considerable discussion of a replication crisis in some areas of science. In this book, the authors argue that replication is not a necessary criterion for the validation of a scientific experiment. Five episodes from physics and genetics are used to substantiate this thesis: the Meselson-Stahl experiment on DNA replication, the discoveries of the positron and the omega minus hyperon, Mendel's plant experiments, and the discovery of parity nonconservation. Two cases in which once wasn't enough are also discussed: the nondiscovery of parity nonconservation and the search for magnetic monopoles. Reasons why once wasn't enough are also discussed.

The Bookman, 1895. Macphail's Edinburgh ecclesiastical journal and literary review, 1853. A Vindication of a Sermon, entitled, Inoculation an Indefensible Practice. In which Dr. Kirkpatrick's arguments in favour of the operation [in "The Analysis of Inoculation"], together with his and a certain letter-writer's [i.e. N. Bolaine's] objections to the sermon are distinctly consider'd and reply'd to, etc. Theodore DELAFAYE, 1754. Differentia, 1994. Islamic Law, Epistemology and Modernity. Ashk Dahlen, 2004-03-01. This study analyses the major intellectual positions in the philosophical debate on Islamic law that is occurring in contemporary Iran. As the characteristic features of traditional epistemic considerations have a direct bearing on the modern development of Islamic legal thought, the contemporary positions are initially set against the established normative repertory of Islamic tradition. It is within this broad examination of a living legacy of interpretation that the context for the concretizations of traditional as well as modern Islamic learning are enclosed.

The Review of Italian American Studies. Frank M. Sorrentino, Jerome Krase, 2000-01-01. This collection of articles examines the complex nature of identity in the Italian American community. Sorrentino and Krase have constructed a volume that covers topics of diverse interest such as the development of Italian American literary studies and the integration of a uniquely Italian American sensibility into a larger and dominant idea of European American culture. As an erudite examination of contemporary studies
