Critical Perspectives on Teaching in the Multilingual University Ibrar Bhatt, Khawla Badwan, Mbulungeni Madiba, 2024-11-18 This book critically and reflectively engages with the Language Problem in the contemporary multilingual university. It paints a complex picture of the lived multilingual realities of teachers and students in universities across geographies such as Pakistan, Timor Leste, South Korea, Bangladesh, Somaliland, Afghanistan, Fiji, Colombia and the UK including Northern Ireland and focuses on three overall analytic themes: language and colonial epistemologies, language policies and practices, and language and research. Globalisation, global knowledge economy and neoliberal governance has significantly impacted higher education by elevating colonial languages, particularly English, to a global academic lingua franca. Universities now collaborate and compete globally with English emerging as the dominant language for education and research. The imposition or uncritical adoption of English poses profound political, cultural and epistemic challenges for those who have to use the language in everyday university administration, research and teaching and also intertwines with issues of race, gender, coloniality and social class. This volume addresses this as higher education's multifaceted Language Problem which requires interdisciplinary collaboration and critical debate and ultimately aims towards understanding multilingualism in higher education across both the Global North and South. The contributions to this book continue to remind us of the coloniality of language and of the linguistic stratification that governs epistemological structures and power relations in the academy. It will be of interest to scholars, researchers and practitioners of higher education, applied linguistics, education policy and politics, and sociology of education. This book was originally published as a special issue of the journal Teaching in Higher Education.

Identity and Language Learning Bonny Norton, 2013-10-04 Identity and Language Learning draws on a longitudinal case study of immigrant women in Canada to develop new ideas about identity, investment and imagined communities in the field of language learning and teaching. Bonny Norton demonstrates that a poststructuralist conception of identity as multiple, a site of struggle and subject to change across time and place is highly productive for understanding language learning. Her sociological construct of investment is an important complement to psychological theories of motivation. The implications for language teaching and teacher education are profound Now including a new comprehensive Introduction as well as an Afterword by Claire Kramsch this second edition addresses the following central questions Under what conditions do language learners speak listen read and write How are relations of power implicated in the negotiation of identity How can teachers address the investments and imagined identities of learners The book integrates research theory and classroom practice and is essential reading for students teachers and researchers in the fields of language learning and teaching TESOL applied linguistics and literacy This book is open access under a CC BY ND licence

Language Policy for the Multilingual Classroom Christine Hélot, Muiris Ó Laoire, 2011 The book proposes a round the world exploration of the way our traditionally monolingual school systems are being challenged by students from diverse language backgrounds forcing educationalists to question entrenched ideologies of language and challenging teachers in their everyday classrooms to rethink their relationships to language learning and the issue of diversity

The Education of Indigenous Citizens in Latin America Regina Cortina, 2014-01-06 This groundbreaking volume describes unprecedented changes in education across Latin America resulting from the endorsement of Indigenous peoples rights through the development of intercultural bilingual education The chapters evaluate the ways in which cultural and language differences are being used to create national policies that affirm the presence of Indigenous peoples and their cultures within Mexico Ecuador Peru Bolivia and Guatemala Describing the collaboration between grassroots movements and transnational networks the authors analyze how social change is taking place at the local and regional levels and they present case studies that illuminate the expansion of intercultural bilingual education This book is both a call to action for researchers teachers policy makers and Indigenous leaders and a primer for practitioners seeking to provide better learning opportunities for a diverse student body

Language Teacher Identities Matthew Clarke, 2008 This book explores the development of the first cohort of students to complete a new Bachelor of Education in English language teaching in the United Arab Emirates theorizing the students learning to teach in terms of the discursive construction of a teaching identity within an evolving community of practice

Social Justice Through Multilingual Education Tove Skutnabb-Kangas, 2009 Although the principles for enabling children to become fully proficient multilinguals through schooling are well known most Indigenous and minority children are not provided with multilingual education which would enable them to succeed both in school and in society In this important book experts from around the world show how multilingual education can be provided and what it can achieve
