during a conference held in Warsaw on 10-11 March 2017 The Politics of Design in French Colonial Urbanism Gwendolyn Wright, 1991 Politics and culture are at once semi autonomous and intertwined Nowhere is this more revealingly illustrated than in urban design a field that encompasses architecture and social life traditions and modernization Here aesthetic goals and political intentions meet sometimes in collaboration sometimes in conflict Here the formal qualities of art confront the complexities of history When urban design policies are implemented they reveal underlying aesthetic cultural and political dilemmas with startling clarity Gwendolyn Wright focuses on three French colonies Indochina Morocco and Madagascar that were the most discussed most often photographed and most admired showpieces of the French empire in the early twentieth century She explores how urban policy and design fit into the French colonial policy of association a strategy that accepted even encouraged cultural differences while it promoted modern urban improvements that would foster economic development for Western investors Wright shows how these colonial cities evolved tracing the distinctive nature of each locale under French imperialism She also relates these cities to the larger category of French architecture and urbanism showing how consistently the French tried to resolve certain stylistic and policy problems they faced at home and abroad With the advice of architects and sociologists art historians and geographers colonial administrators sought to exert greater control over such matters as family life and working conditions industrial growth and cultural memory The issues Wright confronts the potent implications of traditional norms cultural continuity modernization and radical urban experiments still challenge us today Materiality in Roman Art and Architecture Annette Haug, Adrian Hielscher, M. Taylor

Lauritsen, 2021-12-31 The focus of this volume is on the aesthetics semantics and function of materials in Roman antiquity between the 2nd century B C and the 2nd century A D It includes contributions on both architectural spaces and their material design and objects types of artefacts that differ greatly in the way they were used perceived and loaded with cultural significance With respect to architecture the analysis of material aesthetics leads to a new understanding of the performance imitation and transformation of surfaces including the social meaning of such strategies In the case of objects surface treatments are equally important However object form a specific design category which can enter into tension with materiality comes into particular focus Only when materials are shaped do their various qualities emerge and these qualities are to a greater or lesser extent transferred to objects With a focus primarily on Roman Italy the papers in this volume underscore the importance of material design and highlight the awareness of this matter in the ancient world Temples and Sanctuaries in the Roman East Arthur Segal, 2013-10-31 This lavishly illustrated volume presents a comprehensive architectural study of 87 individual temples and sanctuaries built in the Roman East between the end of the 1st century BCE and the end of the 3rd century CE within a broad region encompassing the modern states of Syria Lebanon Israel and Jordan Religious architecture gave faithful expression to the complexity of the Roman East and to its multiplicity of traditions pertaining to ethnic and religious aspects as well as to the powerful influence of Imperial Rome The source of this power lay in the uniformity of the architectural language the inventory of forms the choice of styles and the spatial layout of the buildings Thus while temples have an eclectic character there is an underlying unity of form comprising the podium the stairway between the terminating walls antae and the columns along the entrance front in other words the axiality frontality and symmetry of the temple as viewed from outside The temples and sanctuaries studied in this volume demonstrate individual nuances of plan spatial design location in the sanctuary and interrelations with the immediate vicinity but can be divided into two main categories Vitruvian temples derived from Hellenistic Roman architecture and Non Vitruvian temples those with plans and spatial designs that cannot be analysed according to architectural criteria such as those defined by Vitruvius The individual descriptions presented focus solely upon the analysis of the external and internal space of the temples of all types and do not involve any cultural or ethnic discussion
