access ways to find and retrieve information for each subject covered e.g. language and literature, philosophy, visual arts. For the first time, the authors have included web resources and their URLs on a highly selective basis. All sources have been reviewed, updated, and in many cases expanded. Computerized databases, both online and CD-ROM, are integrated with the books. Detailed annotations give users an in-depth understanding of the sources.

Making Furniture in Preindustrial America Edward S. Cooke, 1996-07-26. A study of the furniture makers, social structure, household possessions, and surviving pieces of furniture of two neighbouring New England communities. Drawing on documentary and artifactual sources, the author explores the interplay among producer, process, and style in demonstrating why and how the social economies of these two seemingly similar towns differed significantly during the late colonial and early national periods.

Art Market Research Tom McNulty, 2013-12-27. This book is for art market researchers at all levels. A brief overview of the global art market and its major stakeholders precedes an analysis of the various sales venues: auction, commercial gallery, etc. Library research skills are reviewed and advanced methods are explored in a chapter devoted to basic market research. Because the monetary value of artwork cannot be established without reference to the aesthetic qualities and art historical significance of our subject works, two substantial chapters detail the processes involved in researching and documenting the fine and decorative arts, respectively, and provide annotated bibliographies. Methods for assigning values for art objects are explored, and sources of price data, both in print and online, are identified and described in detail. In recent years, art historical scholarship increasingly has addressed issues related to the history of art and its markets; a chapter on resources for the historian of the art market offers a wide range of sources. Finally, provenance and art law are discussed with particular reference to their relevance to dealers, collectors, artists, and other art market stakeholders.
