The Art of Decision Making Helga Drummond, 2002-02-15 Science reassures art disturbs Proverb This intriguing exploration of underlying forces in decision making takes as its starting point a wealth of high profile decision disasters In brilliantly readable analyses Helga Drummond shows how better awareness of the inherent uncertainties of the decision making process could have made the outcomes very different Examples showcased include The Hatfield rail crash The Kursk submarine disaster The Challenger disaster The year 2000 fuel crisis The WWII Dardanelles expedition The Barings Bank collapse The Taurus Stock Exchange Project The Hillsborough tragedy The King s Cross underground fire The Millennium Dome This entertaining yet instructive book offers new insight into the realities of decision making and shows how you can confront them to improve your prospects of success

Escalation in Decision-Making Helga Drummond, Julia Hodgson, 2016-05-13 When a venture seems to be faltering do you persist and hope that things will get better or do you cut your losses This may be one of the most important decisions business or project owners may ever have to make Persistence involves the risk of throwing good money or resources after bad but owners may feel they have too much invested to quit now Escalation in Decision Making reveals why social scientists believe that owners may not respond rationally to such predicaments Instead of exiting when the odds are clearly stacked against them they re invest and end up compounding their losses a phenomenon known as escalation of commitment The authors Helga Drummond and Julia Hodgson also introduce the concept of entrapment a variation whereby decision makers passively drift towards insolvency as the cost of changing direction becomes too high So what drives escalation why do some owners quit whilst others persist until the bailiffs arrive what can we learn from owners mistakes what makes newcomers believe they can succeed where others are conspicuously failing These questions of behavioural economics are answered using a narrative that analyses decisions made by market traders facing economic extinction Many highly successful entrepreneurs started their careers in markets it was once an almost guaranteed route to prosperity now market traders are struggling to survive Although the market traders featured are small entrepreneurs the ubiquitous phenomenon of escalation at the heart of these stories is widely relevant to practitioners such as project managers in large organizations and to those responsible for managing risk in many situations Rich in case studies involving real business decisions and dilemmas Escalation in Decision Making provides an accessible introduction to the application of theory against a background of growing interest in behavioural economics now being researched and taught in univ

Escalation in Decision-Making Ms Julia Hodgson, Professor Helga Drummond, 2012-08-28 When a venture seems to be faltering do you persist and hope that things will get better or do you cut your losses This may be one of the most important decisions business or project owners may ever have to make Persistence involves the risk of throwing good money or resources after bad but owners may feel they have too much invested to quit now Escalation in Decision Making reveals why social scientists believe that owners may not respond rationally to such predicaments Instead of exiting

when the odds are clearly stacked against them they re invest and end up compounding their losses a phenomenon known as escalation of commitment The authors Helga Drummond and Julia Hodgson also introduce the concept of entrapment a variation whereby decision makers passively drift towards insolvency as the cost of changing direction becomes too high So what drives escalation why do some owners quit whilst others persist until the bailiffs arrive what can we learn from owners mistakes what makes newcomers believe they can succeed where others are conspicuously failing These questions of behavioural economics are answered using a narrative that analyses decisions made by market traders facing economic extinction Many highly successful entrepreneurs started their careers in markets it was once an almost guaranteed route to prosperity now market traders are struggling to survive Although the market traders featured are small entrepreneurs the ubiquitous phenomenon of escalation at the heart of these stories is widely relevant to practitioners such as project managers in large organizations and to those responsible for managing risk in many situations Rich in case studies involving real business decisions and dilemmas Escalation in Decision Making provides an accessible introduction to the application of theory against a background of growing interest in behavioural economics now being researched and taught in universities and increasingly attracting the attention of business practitioners

Gallipoli Peter FitzSimons, 2015-10-22 On 25 April 1915 Allied forces landed on the Gallipoli Peninsula in present day Turkey to secure the sea route between Britain and France in the west and Russia in the east After eight months of terrible fighting they would fail To this day Turkey regards the victory as a defining moment in its history a heroic last stand in the defence of the Ottoman Empire But counter intuitively it would come to signify something perhaps even greater for the defeated allies in particular the Australians and New Zealanders the birth of their countries e tm sense of nationhood Now in the year that marks its centenary the Gallipoli campaign commemorated each year on 25 April Anzac Day resonates with significance as the origin and symbol of Australian and New Zealand identity As such the facts of the campaign which was minor when compared to the overall scale of the First World War Australian deaths were less than a sixth of their losses on the Western Front are often forgotten or obscured Now the celebrated journalist and author Peter FitzSimons with his trademark vibrancy and expert melding of writing and research recreates the disastrous campaign as experienced by those who endured it or perished in the attempt
