Communication for Another Development Wendy Quarry,Ricardo Ramirez,2013-07-04 This lively book argues that in the development process communication is everything The authors world experts in this field as teachers practitioners and theorists argue that Communication for Development is a creative and innovative way of thinking that can permeate the overall approach to any development initiative. They illustrate their argument with vivid case studies and tools for the reader drawing on the stories of individual project leaders who have championed development for communication and using a range of situations to show the different possibilities in various contexts. Free from jargon and keeping a close look at how development is actually being implemented at ground level, this book is an important contribution to development studies not just for students but also for development practitioners and policy makers. Communication Yearbook 27 Pamela J. Kalbfleisch, 2003-06-20. Communication Yearbook 27 is devoted to publishing state of the art literature reviews in which authors critique and synthesize a body of communication research. This volume continues the tradition of publishing critical integrative reviews of specific lines of research. Chapters focus on an organizational communication challenge to the discourse of work and family research, recovering women's voice, empowerment and communication, participatory communication for social change and the problematics of dialogue and power. In addition, chapters discuss the megaphone effect, the effects of television on group vitality, the empowerment of feminist scholarship in public relations and the building of a feminist paradigm, control, resistance and empowerment in raced, gendered and classed work contexts, credibility for the 21st century and communicating disability. The Arts and Emergent Bilingual Youth Sharon Verner Chappell, Christian J. Faltis, 2013-04-17. The Arts and Emergent Bilingual Youth offers a critical sociopolitical perspective on working with emerging bilingual youth at the intersection of the arts and language learning. Utilizing research from both arts and language education to explore the ways they work in tandem to contribute to emergent bilingual students' language and academic development, the book analyzes model arts projects to raise questions about best practices for and with marginalized bilingual young people in terms of relevance to their languages, cultures and communities as they envision better worlds. A central assumption is that the arts can be especially valuable for contributing to English learning by enabling learners to experience ideas, patterns and relationship form in ways that lead to new knowledge content. Each chapter features vignettes showcasing current projects with ELL populations both in and out of school and visual art pieces and poems to prompt reflection on key issues and relevant concepts and theories in the arts and language learning. Taking a stance about language and culture in English learners' lives, this book shows the intimate connections among art, narrative and resistance for addressing topics of social injustice. Conflict Management and Resolution Ho-Won Jeong, 2009-12-04. Conflict Management and Resolution provides students with an overview of the main theories of conflict management and conflict resolution and will equip them to respond to the complex phenomena of international conflict. adversarial relationships The volume is designed to enhance our understanding of effective response strategies to conflict in multiple social settings as well as violent struggles and utilizes numerous case studies both past and current These include the Iranian and North Korean nuclear weapons programmes the war in Lebanon the Arab Israeli conflict civil wars in Africa and ethnic conflicts in Europe and Asia This book will be essential reading for all students of conflict management and resolution mediation peacekeeping peace and conflict studies and International Relations in general Ho Won Jeong is Professor of Conflict Analysis and Resolution George Mason University USA He has published nine books in the field of international relations peace and conflict studies He is also a senior editor of the International Journal of Peace Studies

Sociotechnical Communication in Engineering Jon Leydens, 2015-10-14 This collection explores why engineering communication constitutes sociotechnical communication Sociotechnical communication acknowledges that engineering communication occurs not in a vacuum but shapes and is shaped by multiple social forces Through diverse research cases the authors show how sociotechnical communication disrupts common myths in engineering communication the myth that communication can be purely technical and neutral and that data speak for themselves The book highlights these myths considering first how styles types and means of sociotechnical communication played pivotal and differing roles in the evolution of wind power technology in Denmark and Germany The role of myth in engineering blogs is also examined wherein the effect of engineers maintaining objective or neutral personae accentuating technical facts over their social relevance and eschewing controversy is to decrease public interest in engineering issues We see the myths emerge again via product development engineers whose narrow technical roles constrain their identities and may contribute to constraining their design innovation capacities in contrast to more holistic flexible spaces that foster innovation The myths are also apparent in constructing bridges across Millennial Baby Boomer generational divides to facilitate engineering collaboration and knowledge transfer among engineers Finally the myths are situated in light of related myths and broader research trends in engineering communication This book was originally published as a special issue of Engineering Studies Decentralization and Development Partnership Fumihiko Saito, 2012-12-06 Decentralization an essential pillar of institutional reform is of critical importance in developing countries particularly in regard to democratization effective development and good governance Uganda since 1986 and the start of decentralization measures under Yoweri Museveni and the National Resistance Movement has represented one of the most serious commitments in Sub Saharan Africa With the benefit of extensive fieldwork Fumihiko Saito demonstrates how conflict resolution information dissemination and encouragement of the many and varied stakeholders to form partnerships are critical to successfully bringing services closer to the people Decentralization and Development Partnerships Lessons from Uganda goes beyond theory to compare academic assumptions to the reality of decentralization implementation in modern Uganda Although the process is by no means free of difficulties Saito concludes that a win win outcome is a real possibility

Cultivating Development David Mosse,2004-11-20 What if development agencies and researchers are not driven by policy Suppose that the things that make for good policy policy that legitimises and mobilises political support in reality make it impossible to implement By focusing in detail on the unfolding activities of a development project in western India over more than ten years as it falls under different policy regimes this book takes a close look at the relationship between policy and practice in development David Mosse shows how the actions of development workers are shaped by the exigencies of organisations and the need to maintain relationships rather than by policy but also that development actors work hardest of all to maintain coherent representations of their actions as instances of authorised policy Raising unfamiliar questions Mosse provides a rare self critical reflection on practice while refusing to endorse current post modern dismissal of development

Community Media in the Information Age Nick Jankowski,Ole Prehn,2002 Small scale electronic media local radio and television stations have experienced much turbulence and change in the 1990s In western Europe local and regional stations have achieved legitimation in national media policies in central and eastern Europe stations have been emerging at an explosive rate and elsewhere in the world developments have been no less substantial These changes taken as a whole signal substantial albeit diverse forms of engagement and utilization of small scale electronic media These developments have been recorded in only a handful of academic studies No scholarly consideration of these media developments has appeared despite the range of development and widespread acknowledgement of their place in the media landscape This volume is intended to fill this void through an integrated series of contributions emphasizing theoretical perspectives empirical research findings and developments regarding policy and practice It reflects the state of scholarly work in this niche of the media landscape and charts areas for further investigations
