cultures developed into richly disparate modes with elaborate social systems and highly refined systems of intellectual and religious life. Most striking of all however is that these cultures created an extraordinary range of art styles to express and serve their beliefs. The aim of the exhibition this catalog accompanied was to highlight objects that were made before or collected at the earliest contact by Westerners and which therefore reflect the most pristine state of the cultures. Many of the works included had never before been published or exhibited.

Examines the changing art forms in the Pacific where new inspiration and influence arises from wider contact with the outside world is blended with traditional cultural patterns.
