Petrie, 2021-10-19 Never before have movies been so readily available to those who wish to watch them When the first edition of this book was published students viewing opportunities were mostly limited to local theaters classrooms with 16mm projection capabilities or television Since then cable satellite VCRs laserdisc players and DVRs beginning with TiVo have dramatically widened our choice of films to see and ways to see them DVDs and streaming video via the Internet and Wi Fi have offered home viewers both improved visual and sound quality and content extras such as commentaries by directors actors writers editors cinematographers and other filmmakers as well as extended making of documentaries Perhaps most helpfully for the study of film these technologies allow direct digital entry to individual scenes so that we can now scrutinize a film sequence by sequence shot by shot and even frame by frame What are we to make of this greater access to movies What purpose does it serve This textbook is informed by the belief that making films is an art and that watching films is also an art Most students come into an introductory film course having watched plenty of movies but during the semester they develop ways to engage in the experience on a deeper more meaningful level

It's Only a Movie! Raymond J. Haberski, Once derided as senseless entertainment movies have gradually assumed a place among the arts Raymond Haberski's provocative and insightful book traces the trajectory of this evolution throughout the twentieth century from nickelodeon amusements to the age of the financial blockbuster Haberski begins by looking at the barriers to film's acceptance as an art form including the Chicago Motion Picture Commission hearings of 1918-1920 one of the most revealing confrontations over the use of censorship in the motion picture industry He then examines how movies overcame the stigma attached to popular entertainment through such watershed events as the creation of the Museum of Modern Art's Film Library in the 1920s The arguments between Pauline Kael and Andrew Sarris's heralded a golden age of criticism and Haberski focuses on the roles of Kael Sarris James Agee Roger Ebert and others in the creation of cinephilia Described by Susan Sontag as born of the conviction that cinema was an art unlike any other this love of cinema centered on coffee houses universities art theaters film festivals and of course foreign films The lively debates over the place of movies in American culture began to wane in the 1970s Haberski places the blame on the loss of cultural authority and on the increasing irrelevance of the meaning of art He concludes with a persuasive call for the re-emergence of a middle ground between art and entertainment something more complex ambiguous and vexing something worth thought
