The figure has a halo and is wearing a blue robe. To the left, another figure, possibly a queen or noblewoman, is seated and looking towards the central figure. She wears a red dress and a crown. To the right, a third figure, possibly a saint or scholar, is seated and looking towards the central figure. He wears a brown robe and has a halo. The entire scene is set against a background of a gold and blue checkered pattern. The title 'The ART of the BOOK' is written in large, white, serif capital letters across the top. Material Culture and Queenship in 14th-century France Marguerite Keane, 2016-05-18 In Material Culture and Queenship in 14th century France The Testament of Blanche of Navarre 1331 1398 Marguerite Keane considers the object collection of the long lived fourteenth century French queen Blanche of Navarre the wife of Philip VI d 1350 This queen s ownership of works of art books jewelry reliquaries and textiles among others and her perceptions of these objects is well documented because she wrote detailed testaments in 1396 and 1398 in which she described her possessions and who she wished to receive them Keane connects the patronage of Blanche of Navarre to her interest in her status and reputation as a dowager queen as well as bringing to life the material adornment and devotional interests of a medieval queen and her household The Court of Richard II and Bohemian Culture Alfred Thomas, 2020 First detailed exploration of the role played by Bohemian tradition and customs on the court of Richard II French Books of Hours Virginia

Reinburg, 2012-02-02 How was the Book of Hours created and used as a book and what did it mean to its owners The Czech Legend of St Catherine of Alexandria Alfred Thomas, 2024 The first complete translation of a fascinating piece of Czech literature The virgin martyr St Catherine was one of the pre eminent and most popular saints in the Middle Ages her legend spreading far and wide throughout Europe A Bohemian version of her Vita was written in the second half of the fourteenth century probably for the court of Emperor Charles IV in Prague it is a fascinating account of her life and passion with many unique features However partly because of the language barrier it has received relatively little attention This book provides the first complete translation of this important text It is accompanied by a full interdisciplinary introduction which places the legend in its cultural and historical context and emphasizes both the importance of the Dominican friars as court writers and the prominence of royal and noble women as patrons and consumers of their work It also highlights the numerous representations of Catherine in contemporary art Meanwhile elucidatory notes to the translation illuminate its most important features Art, Identity and Devotion in Fourteenth-century England Kathryn Ann Smith,2003-01-01 Examines the De Lisle hours of Margaret de Beauchamp the De Bois hours Dubois hours of Hawisia de Bois and the Neville of Hornby hours of Isabel de Byron Putting Art (Back) in Its Place John E. Skillen,2017-02-01 While most Christians today view art from a distance and Christian discussions of art focus primarily on artists as lonely dreamers this has not always been the case In Putting Art Back in its Place Dr John Skillen an expert in medieval and Renaissance art and literature calls for the church to come together as one body to reclaim that rich heritage where art touched the entire believing community For quite some time art played a vital role in the life of the community assisting Christian community in performing actions that defined their corporate work and identity their liturgies Patrons commissioned artists advisors helped to determine subject matter and the whole church celebrated and partook in what was eventually displayed Skillen offers readers a compelling call to foster a vibrant culture of the arts by restoring and cultivating active and respectful relationships among artists patrons scholars communities and the art they create Putting Art Back in its Place equips laity and clergy to think historically about the vibrant role the visual arts have played and could again play in the life of the church and its mission the painting reflected those of the viewer so as to impart to the painted image the conviction of reality derived from sensory experience The book makes a distinction between the theological and the cult image in order to isolate those aspects of Marian devotion which the Church embraced as doctrinally important Preface p xii

Ikemoto, 2017-07-06 Antebellum American Pendant Paintings New Ways of Looking marks the first sustained study of pendant paintings discrete images designed as a pair It opens with a broad overview that anchors the form in the medieval diptych religious history and aesthetic theory and explores its cultural and historical resonance in the 19th century United States Three case studies examine how antebellum American artists used the pendant format in ways revelatory of their historical moment and the aesthetic and cultural developments in which they partook The case studies on John Quidor s Rip Van Winkle and His Companions at the Inn Door of Nicholas Vedder 1839 and The Return of Rip Van Winkle 1849 and Thomas Cole s Departure and Return 1837 shed new light on canonical antebellum American artists and their practices The chapter on Titian Ramsay Peale's Kilauea by Day and Kilauea by Night 1842 presents new material that pushes the geographical boundaries of American art studies toward the Pacific Rim The book contributes to American art history the study of a characteristic but as yet overlooked format and models for the discipline a new and productive framework of analysis focused on the fundamental yet complex way images work back and forth with one another

Thomas Merton's Art of Denial David D. Cooper, 2008-12-01 Trappist monk and best selling author Thomas Merton battled constantly within himself as he attempted to reconcile two seemingly incompatible roles in life As a devout Catholic he took vows of silence and stability longing for the security and closure of the monastic life But as a writer he felt compelled to seek friendships in literary circles and success in the secular world In Thomas Merton's Art of Denial David D Cooper traces Merton's attempts to reach an accommodation with himself to find a way in which the silence of the monk could live compatibly with the racket of the writer From the roots of this painful division in the unsettled early years of Merton's life to the turmoil of his directionless early adult years in which he first attempted to write he was besieged with self doubts Turning to life in a monastery in Kentucky in 1941 Merton believed he would find the solitude and peace lacking in the quotidian world But as Merton once wrote An author in a Trappist monastery is like a duck in a chicken coop And he would give anything in the world to be a chicken instead of a duck Merton felt compelled to choose between life as either a less than perfect priest or a less prolific writer Discovering in his middle years that the ideal monastic life he had envisioned was an impossibility Merton turned his energies to abolishing war It was in this pursuit that he finally succeeded in fusing the two sides of his life converting his frustrated idealism into a radical humanism placed in the service of world peace Here is a portrait of a man torn between the influence of the twentieth century and the serenity of the religious ideal a man who used his own personal crises to guide his youthful ideals to a higher purpose

Late Anglo-Saxon Prayer in Practice Kate H. Thomas, 2020-01-20 This monograph examines Anglo Saxon prayer outside of the communal liturgy With a particular emphasis on its practical aspects it considers how small groups of prayers were elaborated into complex programs for personal devotion resulting in the forerunners of the Special Offices With examples being taken chiefly from major eleventh century collections of prayers liturgy and medical remedies the methodologies of Anglo Saxon compilers are examined followed by five chapters on specialist kinds of prayer to the Trinity and saints for liturgical feasts and the canonical hours to the Holy Cross for protection and healing and confessions Analyzing prayer in a wide range of different situations this book argues that Anglo Saxon manuscripts may have included far more private offices than have so far been recognized if we see
