Arthur Bryant Portrait Of A Historian:

Arthur Bryant Pamela Street, 1979 Arthur Bryant Pamela Street, 1986 Sir Arthur Bryant and National History in Twentieth-Century Britain Julia Stapleton, 2005-04-19 Sir Arthur Bryant and National History in Twentieth Century Britain is a significant new study of the work of the popular historian and journalist Sir Arthur Bryant 1899 1985 Since his death scholarly interest in Bryant has focused on his Nazi sympathies in the late 1930s Julia Stapleton broadens our understanding of the man and the writer Stapleton illuminates Bryant's romantic ideal of his nation She explores the historian's success in writing for a broad middlebrow audience aided by his firsthand experience of two world wars and she traces the decline of Bryant's authority beginning in the 1960s as the discipline of history diversified and new ties were forged between professional historians and popular readerships Stapleton suggests that Bryant prefigured and sustained a form of nationalism that remained nascent within the British population though not always its elites deep into the twentieth century as the Falklands episode and the recent resurgence of English national identity well illustrate Twenty years after his death when history has scaled new heights of popularity a study of the historian whose work made perhaps the largest public impact in twentieth century Britain could not be more timely A Bibliography of British History, 1914-1989 Keith Robbins, American Historical Association, Royal Historical Society (Great Britain), 1996 Containing over 25 000 entries this unique volume will be absolutely indispensable for all those with an interest in Britain in the twentieth century Accessibly arranged by theme with helpful introductions to each chapter a huge range of topics is covered There is a comprehensive index From Belloc to Churchill Victor Feske, 2000-11-09 Linking historiography and political history Victor Feske addresses the changing role of national histories written in early twentieth century Britain by amateur scholars Hilaire Belloc Sidney and Beatrice Webb J L and Barbara Hammond G M Trevelyan and Winston Churchill These writers recast the nineteenth century interpretation of British history at a time when both the nature of historical writing and the fortunes of Liberalism had begun to change Before 1900 amateur historians writing for a wide public readership portrayed British history as a grand story of progress achieved through constitutional development This Whig interpretation had become the cornerstone of Liberal party politics But the decline of Liberalism as a political force after the turn of the century coupled with the rise of professional history written by academics and based on archival research inspired change among a new generation of Liberal historians The result was a refashioned Whig historiography stripped of overt connections to contemporary political Liberalism that attempted to preserve the general outlines of the traditional Whiggist narrative within the context of a broad history of consensus This new formulation says Feske was more suited to the intellectual and political climate of the twentieth century Originally published in 1996 A UNC Press Enduring Edition UNC Press Enduring Editions use the latest in digital technology to make available again books from our distinguished backlist that were previously out of print These editions are published unaltered from the original and are presented in affordable paperback formats bringing readers both historical and cultural value Working-class Housing in England Between the Wars Andrzej Olechnowicz, 1997 This book presents an important episode in the twentieth century history of the United Kingdom the largest public housing scheme ever undertaken in Britain and at the time of its planning in the world Built between 1921 and 1934 the London County Council's Becontree Estate housed over 110 000 people in 25 000 dwellings Andrzej Olechnowicz discusses the early years of the estate looking in detail at the philosophy behind its construction and management policies and showing how it eventually came to be denigrated as a social concentration camp exemplifying all the political dangers of a mass culture He investigates life on the estate both through an appraisal of the facilities provided and as far as possible through the eyes of the inhabitants using interviews with surviving tenants from the inter war period Thus he is able to show how high rents excluded many families in greatest housing need and how tenants found it difficult to adjust to the costs of suburban living This is a wide ranging study that deals with both the nuts and bolts of mass housing with ideas on citizenship and the creation of communities Common Reading Stefan Collini, 2008 In this series of penetrating and attractively readable essays Stefan Collini explores aspects of the literary and intellectual culture of Britain from the early twentieth century to the present Collini focuses on critics and historians who wrote for a non specialist readership and on the periodicals and other genres through which they attempted to reach that readership Among the critics discussed are Cyril Connolly V S Pritchett Aldous Huxley Rebecca West Edmund Wilson and George Orwell while the historians include A L Rowse Arthur Bryant E H Carr and E P Thompson There are also essays on wider themes such as the fate of general periodicals the history of reading the role of criticism changing conceptions of culture the limitations of biography and the functions of universities Explicitly addressed to the non specialist reader these essays make some of the fruits of detailed scholarly research in various fields available to a wider audience in a succinct and elegant manner Stefan Collini has been acclaimed as one of the most brilliant essayists of our time and this collection shows him at his subtle perceptive and trenchant best The book will appeal to and delight readers interested in literature history and contemporary cultural debate

British national identity and opposition to membership of Europe, 1961-63 Robert Dewey,2013-07-19 This book provides a comprehensive analysis of the opponents of Britain s first attempt to join the European Economic Community EEC between the announcement of Harold Macmillan s new policy initiative in July 1961 and General de Gaulle s veto of Britain s application for membership in January 1963 In particular this study examines the role of national identity in shaping both the formulation and articulation of arguments put forward by these opponents of Britain's policy. To date studies of Britain's unsuccessful bid for entry have focused on high political analysis of diplomacy and policy formulation. In most accounts only passing reference is made to domestic opposition. This book redresses the balance by providing a more complete depiction of the opposition movement and a distinctive approach that proceeds from a low political viewpoint. As such the book emphasises protest and populism of the kind exercised by among others Fleet Street crusaders at the Daily Express, pressure groups such as the Anti Common Market League and Forward Britain Movement, expert pundits like A J P Taylor, Sir Arthur Bryant and William Pickles as well as constituency activists, independent parliamentary candidates, pamphleteers, letter writers and maverick MPs. In its consideration of a group largely overlooked in previous accounts, the book provides essential insights into the intellectual, structural, populist and nationalist dimensions of early Euroscepticism. The book will be of significant interest to both scholars and students of national identity, Britain's relationship with Europe and the Commonwealth, pressure groups and party politics and the trajectory of the Eurosceptic phenomenon.

War Paint Brian Foss, Professor of Art History, School for Studies in Art and Culture, Brian Foss, 2007-01-01. In this groundbreaking examination of British war art during the Second World War, Brian Foss delves deeply into what art meant to Britain and its people at a time when the nation's very survival was under threat. Foss probes the impact of war art on the relations between art, state patronage and public interest in art, and he considers how this period of duress affected the trajectory of British Modernism. Supported by some two hundred illustrations and extensive archival research, the book offers the richest, most nuanced view of mid-century art and artists in Britain yet written. The author focuses closely on Sir Kenneth Clark's influential War Artists Advisory Committee and explores topics ranging from censorship to artists' finances, from the depiction of women as war workers to the contributions of war art to evolving notions of national identity and Britishness. Lively and insightful, the book adds new dimensions to the study of British art and cultural history. Art

History after Deleuze and Guattari Sjoerd van Tuinen, Stephen Zepke, 2017-11-14. At the crossroads of philosophy, artistic practice and art history. Though Gilles Deleuze and Felix Guattari were not strictly art historians, they reinvigorated ontological and formal approaches to art and simultaneously borrowed art historical concepts for their own philosophical work. They were dedicated modernists inspired by the German school of expressionist art historians such as Riegl, Wölfflin and Worringer and the great modernist art critics such as Rosenberg, Steinberg, Greenberg and Fried. The work of Deleuze and Guattari on mannerism and Baroque art has led to new approaches to these artistic periods and their radical transdisciplinarity has influenced contemporary art like no other philosophy before it. Their work therefore raises important methodological questions on the differences and relations among philosophy, artistic practice and art history. In Art History after Deleuze and Guattari, international scholars from all three fields explore what a Deleuzo-Guattarian art history could be today. Critical Terms for Art History, Second Edition Robert S. Nelson, Richard Shiff, 2010-03-15 Art has always been contested terrain whether the object in question is a medieval tapestry or Duchamp s Fountain But questions about the categories of art and art history acquired increased urgency during the 1970s when new developments in critical theory and other intellectual projects dramatically transformed the discipline The first edition of Critical Terms for Art History both mapped and contributed to those transformations offering a spirited reassessment of the field s methods and terminology Art history as a field has kept pace with debates over globalization and other social and political issues in recent years making a second edition of this book not just timely but crucial Like its predecessor this new edition consists of essays that cover a wide variety of loaded terms in the history of art from sign to meaning ritual to commodity Each essay explains and comments on a single term discussing the issues the term raises and putting the term into practice as an interpretive framework for a specific work of art For example Richard Shiff discusses Originality in Vija Celmins s To Fix the Image in Memory a work made of eleven pairs of stones each consisting of one original stone and one painted bronze replica In addition to the twenty two original essays this edition includes nine new ones performance style memory monument body beauty ugliness identity visual culture visual studies and social history of art as well as new introductory material All help expand the book s scope while retaining its central goal of stimulating discussion of theoretical issues in art history and making that discussion accessible to both beginning students and senior scholars Contributors Mark Antliff Nina Athanassoglou Kallmyer Stephen Bann Homi K Bhabha Suzanne Preston Blier Michael Camille David Carrier Craig Clunas Whitney Davis Jas Elsner Ivan Gaskell Ann Gibson Charles Harrison James D Herbert Amelia Jones Wolfgang Kemp Joseph Leo Koerner Patricia Leighton Paul Mattick Jr Richard Meyer W J T Mitchell Robert S Nelson Margaret Olin William Pietz Alex Potts Donald Preziosi Lisbet Rausing Richard Shiff Terry Smith Kristine Stiles David Summers Paul Wood James E Young
