

The background of the cover is a photograph of a calm body of water, possibly a lake or a wide river, with a thick layer of mist or fog rising from its surface. In the background, a dense line of evergreen trees stands against a soft, golden light, suggesting a sunrise or sunset. The overall mood is peaceful and contemplative.

Exile as Challenge Dagmar Bernstorff, Hubertus von Welck, 2003

This book is an attempt to document the lives of members of the exiled Tibetan community in India and elsewhere. It thus aims to fill a gap in our understanding. The book focuses on two main themes: how Tibetans in exile preserve their culture and how the community prepares itself for the return to Tibet. The book also carries an interview with His Holiness the Dalai Lama.

Revisiting Rituals in a Changing Tibetan World, 2012-08-03 Tibet Nepal Mongolia

This vast area has experienced significant changes following political and socio-cultural upheavals: the Chinese occupation of Tibet since the 1950s, the opening of Nepal to the world in 1951 and the influx of large numbers of Tibetan refugees into its territory, the end of the communist era and the transition to a market economy in Mongolia and more generally the confrontation with modernity and globalisation. Revisiting Rituals in a Changing Tibetan World examines the changes rituals have undergone and offers the reader the result of recent research based on both fieldwork and textual studies by researchers who have worked in these countries. Contributors include Hildegard Diemberger, Fabienne Jagou, Thierry Dodin, Fernanda Pirie, Nicola Schneider, Mireille Helffer, Alexander von Rospatt, Marie Dominique Even, Robert Barnett, Katia Buffetrille.

Zen Women Grace Schireson, 2009-10-27

This landmark presentation at last makes heard the centuries of Zen's female voices. Through exploring the teachings and history of Zen's female ancestors from the time of the Buddha to ancient and modern female masters in China, Korea and Japan, Grace Schireson offers us a view of a more balanced Dharma practice, one that is especially applicable to our complex lives embedded as they are in webs of family relations and responsibilities and the challenges of love and work. Part I of this book describes female practitioners as they are portrayed in the classic literature of Patriarchal Zen: often as tea ladies, bit players in the drama of male students' enlightenments, as iron maidens, tough as nails, women always jousting with their male counterparts or women who themselves become macho masters teaching the same Patriarchal Zen as the men do. Part II of this book presents a different view: a view of how women Zen masters entered Zen practice and how they embodied and taught Zen uniquely as women. This section examines many urgent and illuminating questions about our Zen grandmothers: How did it affect them to be taught by men? What did they feel as they tried to fit into this male practice environment and how did their Zen training help them with their feelings? How did their lives and relationships differ from that of their male teachers How did they express the Dharma in their own way for other female students How was their teaching consistently different from that of male ancestors And then part III explores how women's practice provides flexible and pragmatic solutions to issues arising in contemporary Western Zen centers Engaged Buddhism in the West Christopher S. Queen, 2012-11-12 Engaged Buddhism is founded on the belief that genuine spiritual practice requires an active involvement in society Engaged Buddhism in the West illuminates the evolution of this new chapter in the Buddhist tradition including its history leadership and teachings and addresses issues such as violence and peace race and gender homelessness prisons and the environment Eighteen new studies explore the activism of renowned leaders and organizations such as Thich Nhat Hanh Bernard Glassman Joanna Macy the Buddhist Peace Fellowship and the Free Tibet Movement and the emergence of a new Buddhism in North America Europe South Africa and Australia
