Budge What Happened To Canadas King Of Film:

Budge Barbara Wade Rose,1998-10 Examining the life of a pioneer who started his own film studio before the National Film Board this account traces the history of Budge Crawley a one man industry who hated government handouts a filmmaker who won Canada its first feature film Academy Award in 1976 and a husband who loved two wives and a girlfriend occasionally at the same time Revealing why he was recognized as Canada s movie maverick the biography details how Crawley fought for quality films and often broke the rules In the end his story is as dramatic as his profession Budge and the fortunes of film itself brought to a crashing climax his company his relationships and the one great Canadian movie he swore he intended to finish

Canada's Best Features Eugene P. Walz,2002 Long recognized for outstanding National Film Board documentaries and innovative animated movies Canada has recently emerged from the considerable shadow of the Hollywood elephant with a series of feature films that have captured the attention of audiences around the world This is the first anthology to focus on Canada s feature films those acknowledged as its very best With essays by senior academics and leading scholars from across the country as well as some fresh new voices Canada s Best Features offers penetrating analyses of fifteen award winning films Internationally acclaimed directors David Cronenberg Atom Egoyan Denys Arcand and Claude Jutra are represented here Noteworthy films include Mon oncle Antoine often cited as Canada s number one film of all time such Cannes Festival favourites as Le d clin de l empire am ricain and Exotica and cult films Careful by Guy Maddin and Masala by Srinivas Krishna The essays offer the latest word on these films and filmmakers done from a variety of perspectives Some of the films have never been examined in depth before Complete filmographies and bibliographies accompany each essay A contextualizing introduction by Professor Gene Walz provides the necessary overview An annotated bibliography of books on the Canadian film industry completes this impressive package

John Walker's Passage Darrell Varga,2012-01-01 John Walker is one of Canada s most prolific and important documentary filmmakers and is known for his many thoughtful personally inflected films His masterwork Passage centres on Sir John Franklin s failed expedition to find the final link of the Northwest Passage connecting the Atlantic and Pacific oceans through the Canadian Arctic It also gives us the story of John Rae the Scottish explorer who discovered the fate of Franklin and the final link in the passage but was left to the margins of history Walker s film brings to this story a layering of dramatic action and behind the scenes documentary footage that build tension between the story of the past and interpretations of the present Darrell Varga provides a close analysis of Passage situating it within Walker s rich body of work and the Canadian documentary tradition Varga illuminates how the film can be viewed through the lens of Harold Innis s theories of communication and culture opening up the work of this great Canadian political economist to film studies

Films You Saw in School Geoff Alexander,2014-01-10 Millions of dollars in public funds were allocated to school districts in the post Sputnik era for the purchase of educational films resulting in thousands of 16mm films being made by exciting young filmmakers This book discusses more than 1 000 such films including many available to view today on the Internet People ranging from adult film stars to noted physicists appeared in them some notable directors made them people died filming them religious entities attempted to ban them and even the companies that made them tried to censor them Here this remarkable body of work is classified into seven subject categories within which some of the most effective and successful films are juxtaposed against those that were didactic and plodding treatments of similar thematic material This book which discusses specific academic classroom films and genres is a companion volume to the author s Academic Films for the Classroom A History McFarland which discusses the people and companies that made these films Academic Films for the Classroom Geoff

Alexander,2014-01-10 Exploring a realm of film often dismissed as campy or contrived this book traces the history of classroom educational films from the silent era through the 1980s when film finally began to lose ground to video based and digital media It profiles 35 individual academic filmmakers who played a role in bringing these roughly 100 000 16mm films to classrooms across North America paying particular attention to auteur John Barnes and his largely neglected body of work Other topics include the production companies contributing to the growth and development of the academic film genre the complex history of post Sputnik federally funded educational initiatives which influenced the growth of the academic film genre and the denouement of the genre in classrooms and its resurgence on the Internet One Hundred Years of

Canadian Cinema George Melnyk,2004-01-01 Melnyk argues passionately that Canadian cinema has never been a singular entity but has continued to speak in the languages and in the voices of Canada s diverse population In Translation

Gabrielle Roy,Joyce Marshall,2005-01-01 Gabrielle Roy was one of the most prominent Canadian authors of the twentieth century Joyce Marshall an excellent writer herself was one of Roy s English translators The two shared a deep and long lasting friendship based on a shared interest in language and writing In Translation offers a critical examination of the more than two hundred letters exchanged by Roy and Marshall between 1959 and 1980 In their letters Roy and Marshall exchange news about their general health and well being their friends and family their surroundings their travels and other writers as well as their dealings with critics editors and publishers They recount comical incidents and strange encounters in their lives and reflect on human nature current events and from time to time their writing Of particular interest to the two women were the problems they encountered during the translation process Many passages in the letters concern the ways in which the nuances of language can be shaped through translation Editor Jane Everett has arranged the letters here in chronological order and has added critical notes to fill in the historical and literary gaps as well as to identify various editorial problems Shedding light on the process of writing and translating In Translation is an invaluable addition to the study of Canadian writing and to the literature on these two important figures Screening Nature and Nation Michael D.

Clemens,2022-04-27 The stunning portrayals of the Canadian landscape in the documentaries produced by the National Film Board of Canada not only influenced cinematic language but shaped our perception of the environment In the early days of the organization nature films produced by the NFB supported the Canadian government's nation building project and show the state as an active participant in the cultural construction of the land. By the mid 1960s however films like Cree Hunters of Mistassini and Death of a Legend were asking provocative questions about the state's vision of nature. Filmmakers like Boyce Richardson and Bill Mason began to centre the experiences of First Nations people contest the notion that nature should be transformed for economic gain and challenge the idea that the North is a wild and empty landscape bereft of civilization. Author Michael Clemens describes how films produced by the NFB broadened the ecological imagination of Canadians over time and ultimately inspired an environmental movement. Canadian Books in Print. Author and Title Index, 1975. The Canadian Forum, 1998-05. Shooting from the East Darrell Varga, 2015-11-01. Atlantic Canada has a rich tradition of storytelling and creativity that has extended to critical and audience praise for films from the region's four provinces. Until now there has been no comprehensive history of this diverse body of work. In Shooting from the East Darrell Varga traces the emergence of art cinema in the 1970s and 80s and subsequent rise of a contemporary commercial feature film and television industry by way of representative examples of a great range of titles including The Adventure of Faustus Bidgood, Life Classes, The Disappeared and Trailer Park Boys. He provides analysis of documentary filmmaking to emphasize concerns such as the establishment of the regional National Film Board studio and the influence of broadcast policy but also considers significant recurring themes including the environment, the body, race and First Nations and the North. Through critical analyses of key films and interviews conducted with filmmakers from all corners of the region Varga uncovers patterns of meaning across diverse productions and interrogates the concept of region in relation to prevailing notions of national cinema and transnational media culture. With a focus on short films and an extensive history and analysis of the filmmaking production co-operatives located in each province Shooting from the East sheds light on the creative processes and local economic and cultural conditions for making images on the edge of the Atlantic. Amateur Filmmaking Laura Rascaroli, Gwenda Young, Barry Monahan, 2014-02-27. With the advent of digital filmmaking and critical recognition of the relevance of self-expression, first person narratives and personal practices of memorialization, interest in the amateur moving image has never been stronger. Bringing together key scholars in the field and revealing the rich variety of amateur filmmaking from home movies of Imperial India and film diaries of life in contemporary China to the work of leading auteurs such as Joseph Morder and Peter Forgacs, Amateur Filmmaking highlights the importance of amateur cinema as a core object of critical interest across an array of disciplines. With contributions on the role of the archive on YouTube and on the impact of new technologies on amateur filmmaking, these essays offer the first comprehensive examination of this growing field.

Recherches Théâtrales Au Canada, 2000. The Iconic North Joan Sangster, 2016-05-21. Recent archaeological discoveries in the polar region have reanimated stock images of the intrepid explorer who braves the elements to bring modernity to a frigid northern wasteland. The Iconic North reveals that ideological assumptions, economic priorities and a shift in government strategy in the postwar era all influenced how northern culture was represented in popular Canadian imagery. Whether it was film, television, or women's autobiographies, the primitive North was often portrayed as the mirror opposite to the modern South. In crisp and elegant prose, Joan Sangster redirects current debates about the geopolitical prospects of the North by addressing how women and gender relations have played a key role in the history of northern development. Drawing on archival and cultural sources, Sangster shows how gender, race, and colonialism shape our understanding of northern peoples' economies and government policy. This work reveals how assumptions about both Indigenous and non-Indigenous women shaped gender, class, and political relationships in the circumpolar north, a region now commanding more of the world's attention.

Canadian Books in Print, 2003 In Translation Joyce Marshall, Gabrielle Roy, 2006-12-15 Gabrielle Roy was one of the most prominent Canadian authors of the twentieth century. Joyce Marshall, an excellent writer herself, was one of Roy's English translators. The two shared a deep and long-lasting friendship based on a shared interest in language and writing. In Translation offers a critical examination of the more than two hundred letters exchanged by Roy and Marshall between 1959 and 1980. In their letters, Roy and Marshall exchange news about their general health and well-being, their friends and family, their surroundings, their travels, and other writers, as well as their dealings with critics, editors, and publishers. They recount comical incidents and strange encounters in their lives and reflect on human nature, current events, and from time to time, their writing. Of particular interest to the two women were the problems they encountered during the translation process. Many passages in the letters concern the ways in which the nuances of language can be shaped through translation. Editor Jane Everett has arranged the letters here in chronological order and has added critical notes to fill in the historical and literary gaps, as well as to identify various editorial problems. Shedding light on the process of writing and translating, In Translation is an invaluable addition to the study of Canadian writing and to the literature on these two important figures.
