Manuel García (1775-1832) James Radomski, 2000 This is the first comprehensive biography of one of opera history's most important personalities. Renowned Spanish tenor, successful singing teacher, prolific composer, and significant popularizer of Rossini and Mozart roles, García was an influential figure in the international operatic scene of his time. García's life is chronicled from his earliest operatic role years in Seville until his death in Paris in 1832, with substantial reference to previously undiscovered reviews and letters.

The Simplest of Signs Timothy Bell Raser, 2004 Raser's approach is of necessity interdisciplinary to show how Hugo defines the genre of art criticism; he must take into account the influences, recurrent themes, and references that are used by literary historians. Since, however, the texts discussed frequently refer to drawings, engravings, or paintings, the formal analyses of art history also come into play. Further, since the works described are invariably discussed in terms of their beauty, aesthetics, and beyond it, the twentieth-century critique of nineteenth-century aesthetics are used.

A History of the Romantic Movement in Spain E. Allison Peers, 2014-02-06 Originally published in 1940, this book examines the Romantic Movement in Spain from its decline and dwindling popularity after 1837 and the rise of eclecticism to its final expressions around 1860. Peers looks at key texts in the history of the Romantic style as well as the real meaning of Romanticism in Spain at this time.

Exotic Subversions in Nineteenth-century French Fiction Jennifer Yee, 2017-07-05 In the course of the nineteenth century, France built up a colonial empire second only to Britain's. The literary tradition in which it dealt with its colonial Other is frequently understood in terms of Edward Said's description of Orientalism as both a Western projection and a will to govern over the Orient. There is, however, a body of works that eludes such a simple categorisation, offering glimpses of colonial resistance, of a critique of imperialist hegemony, or of a blurring of the boundaries between the Self and the Other. Some of the ways in which the imperialist enterprise is subverted in the metropolitan literature of this period are examined in this volume through detailed case studies of key works by Chateaubriand, Hugo, Flaubert, and Segalen.
